The steamer West Ratan, another of the shipping board freighters in the European-Pacific line, cleared through customs yesterday afternoon and will go down the river early this morning for Europe via San Francisco and San Pedro. In her cargo are 15,000 sacks of wheat and 10,225 sacks of flour and a little lumber laden at Portland.

The recent increase in business for the liners operating between Portland and European ports is shown by the Merchants' Exchange records, which list two steamers of the European-Pacific line—the Eastern Sallor and West Kedron—here in June, and four arriving at Portland in July. Those coming last month were the West Cayote, West Honaker, Effingham, West Katan and West Lewark.

The only one of these vessels remaining in port besides the West Katan, which will leave this morning, is the steamer Effingham, which is about to undergo repairs as the result of striking on the rocks July 20 when her steering gear failed while shown of the stant.

San PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The steamer leaved will leave here next Friday on her maiden trip in the service of the Levanship company their stricts of the Loss family stricts on the first voyage of a new service, a total of $13,995.44, in which the Japanese business was included.

Transient and Permanent.

Cables messages from Shanghai today showed steamers leaving that port and the port of Dairen with large shipments of flour for the United Kingdom and Italy 1812s. North China imported $10,000,000 worth of flour but in 1920 that country experted flour to the value of $15,000,000. Therefore it is expected that this year the exports will be much heavier.

Local shipping companies are watching with much interest the results of the action on the part of United States ship owners in announcing that from August 1 no more overtime will be paid deck officers, that there will be a 15 per cent reduction in wages and no contracts signed with the unions.
