Business Control Charged.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was present when Mr. Free developed that the Japanese Chamber of Commerce of Honolulu, acting on a request for help, decided it would be "unwise" for the organization to contribute, but that individual members could do so. Earlier Mr. Gompers told the committee that the federation, with which the central labor union of Honolulu is affiliated, would not issue union charters requested by Japanese labor groups in this country.

Throughout the hearings on pending relief legislation, spokesmen for the sugar planters of Hawaii have asserted that they were secretly opposing temporary lifting of American immigration laws which would permit a flow of labor needed to meet the shortage in time to save future crops.

From Drowning in Sound.

GIG HARBOR, Wash, Aug. 2.—
(Special.)—Charles Cundiff, a Portland musician, formerly employed at the Peoples theater in that city, recently rescued two boys who were in danger of drowning in Puget sound. The boys were Buford Cundiff, 15, son of the rescuer, and Joseph Thomley, 12, of Tacoma, Wash. The lads were paddling a canoe on the sound when the skiff upset. Mr. Cundiff leaped into the water and swam to their aid. His own son had gone down for the second time when Mr. Cundiff reached them. He helped the Thomley boy to get a grip on the canoe, where he supported himself until the other lad was taken ashore on the rescuer's back.
