

NEXT FAIR OBJECT BIG MILLAGE VOTE

Exposition Boosters Want Strong Indorsement.

LEGISLATURE MUST ACT

Julius Meier Says Larger Vote for Tax the More Weight Oregon's Invitation Will Have.

To obtain the largest registration in the history of the state and the largest vote favoring the financial plan for the 1925 exposition is the next objective for the project, for which a state-wide conference here Thursday decided there should be $5,000,000 raised by taxation. There must be a special session of the legislature to pass necessary laws for the calling of a special election to provide legal means of obtaining the funds and, in the last analysis, the people must decide the issue.

Such is the gist of a statement made yesterday afternoon by Julius L. Meier, who was elected Thursday to permanent chairman of the state organization having the exposition in hand. Mr. Meier said that with such a vote, it would mean the heartiest possible invitation to the people of the entire state to the people of the world to come here and visit and will assure them of the sincerity of the state's welcome.

Large Vote Desirable.

"My idea is that the larger the vote for the millage necessary to raise the funds for the exposition the more weight will our invitation have," said Mr. Meier. "We want the whole state to get into action on this subject as they have never done before, and make it a huge success. When our guests begin to enter any section of Oregon they will be met by our people and will be informed of the wonders of the various sections through which they will go, so that from the time they come until the time they go their stay will be one big season of pleasure and information."

"The action of the state-wide conference, in my opinion, set a new standard of activity. It will give all the people a great goal to strive for. It will bring out the best that is in the people. It will bring a closer relationship between each county and resurrect tangible assets that will increase the taxable wealth of the state and bring more people to participate in the development of our industries."

"It is a wonderful opportunity for Oregon. Every resident can take a part in the exposition. The returns cannot be measured in wealth alone. The biggest asset will be unity, cooperation, giving cheer—all of which means prosperity and abundance of good health."

"We all know that we must work hard if we wish to succeed. Here is our chance to do something big for the state; something magnificent for the northwest; something glorious for the nation."

"The hour has arrived for Oregon to put its best foot forward. As soon as the delegates who attended the conference have a chance to get settled and unfold to their constituents what the exposition really will mean to the state at large, we will call for the selection of an executive committee to set the machinery in motion."

COURTROOM HAS FIGHT

Witness and Auto Dealer Are Separated Before Harm Is Done.

Joseph S. Lebb, automobile dealer, took exception to the statement of D. G. Curtis on the witness stand yesterday to the effect that Lebb's reputation was not of the best, expressing his indignation by swinging wildly at Curtis as soon as Circuit Judge Kavanaugh's court adjourned for the noon recess. Curtis countered with a left to the jaw which was blocked by Lebb. Ringside reports indicated that only one blow connected, the fighters being parted from a clinch before real damage ensued.

The decision was awarded Curtis. Referee Kavanaugh plastering a fine of $25 on Lebb at the conclusion of the brief mill and later deciding the case against Lebb and his brother, D. G. Lebb. Up to a late hour last night the fine had not been remitted, as is the general practice of local courts in contempt incidents.

The case was that of Frank Waller against D. G. Lebb and J. S. Lebb and was a replevin action involving an automobile which both plaintiff and defendant claimed. Curtis, who was formerly general manager of the Western Financing company, was called by the plaintiff as a character witness, testifying that J. S. Lebb's reputation for fair dealing, etc., was "bad."

Messages were received from various coast points, including those from Gill brothers, livestock breeders of Sacramento, Cal.; Seattle and Pendleton Chambers of Commerce and Fred Stinson of Seattle, president of the Pacific-International Livestock Ex-sposition, to be held in Portland in November.

"It is wonderful how the whole coast and the country generally is falling into line to boost the exposition," commented Mr. Meier.

Mr. Meier yesterday received a letter from the Portland branch of the Travelers' Protective association, of which Stanhope S. Pier is president, a letter saying that Colonel David M. Duane has been named as a committee of one to arrange with the exposition management for "site No. 1 for a building of appropriate character," to represent the organization. This, of course, will have to be laid before the general board or a proper committee in due time.

Plans for the special session of the legislature are just in the formative stage. It is known one must be called, but when and under just what circumstances is not known. Definite plans will be worked out soon. Mr. Meier announced yesterday that he will call a meeting of the board in the near future, at which time he will lay before the members a tentative programme. This meeting will be held in Portland.

The state-wide conference Thursday adopted a resolution calling for a total of $6,000,000 with which to handle the exposition. The plan includes the levying of a small millage for raising all but $1,000,000 of the amount, this being the portion that is to be sold privately in Portland.

Mr. Meier yesterday received from R. W. Neighbor a telegram from Fresno, Cal., where the Hoo Hoo convention is being held, as follows: "A resolution, recommending that the convention be held in Portland in 1925 on account of the educational exposition, was presented by George M. Cornwall and moved by me for adoption. Its membership, consisting of lumbermen and allied trades, is a national convention, unanimously adopted this afternoon."

TRUNK SEWER FINISHED

BALCH CREEK PROJECT IS DIFFICULT JOB.

Facilities Provided for Large In- dustrial District; Total Cost —Is $180,000.

The Balch creek trunk sewer, one of the largest and most important sewer systems in Portland, has been completed and property owners may now make connections with it, according to an announcement made yesterday by City Commissioner Barber.

The leading fall colors may be chosen with navy, black, brown and henna especially in evidence.

The fact that the quantity is limited and the styles so individualized makes these hats all the more desirable at ten dollars.

According to Commissioner Barber, this job was one of the most difficult pieces of sewer construction ever tackled in Portland. J. F. Shea, the contractor who constructed the sewer for $180,000, was forced to work night and day to complete the project before the winter rains set in.

Considerable difficulty resulted because of high water. The Balch creek sewer extends from Thirtieth and Thurman streets to the Willamette river, crossing Guild's lake. It provides sewer facilities for the large industrial district in that section, which includes Montgomery Ward and the American Can company's plants.

Mr. Shea has now moved a large part of his machinery to the Foster road, where he is engaged in constructing the Foster road trunk sewer. The work on this sewer will be carried on by Mr. Shea throughout the winter, regardless of the rains. It has been announced. Four crews will be working in various sections in the line of the sewer in order that the work will progress speedily.
