Non-Interference to Be Demanded in Exploiting China, Corea, Manchuria, Mongolia, Siberia.

TOKIO, Sept. 25.—(Special cable.)—The most fascinating romance of the far east possesses few of the sentimental, picturesque or highly spiced features that appeal to popular imagination in the western world. It is more correctly reflected in the amazing growth of the empire of Japan, which, within 70 years, has developed into one of the five most important powers on the globe.

And what is more astounding than any other phase of Japan's progress toward political, military and economic supremacy is the tremendous advances it has made during the last 18 years. Today it is at once the last stand of reactionary imperialism in the world and the most disturbing influence in international politics. It is the one nation, in fact, whose outstanding industry is militarism.

Empire Is on Defensive.

Hemmed in by the narrowing circle of universal revolt against militarism, Japan, to avoid destruction of its power in the far east and in the Pacific ocean, is manifestly preparing to resist every form of pressure that may be employed to deprive her of the substantial benefits of her diplomacy, her military prestige, her political intrigues with the governments of her less capable neighbors, and her unrelenting struggle for economic expansion prosecuted without regard for the rights of less aggressive peoples.

This does not mean that Japan seeks war with any power, for it still hopes that the subtle processes of diplomacy will avoid such a calamity. But it does mean that Japan, determined to hold on to what she has won with the gun and the sword, knows that she will either have to fight against any curtailment of her ambitions and her necessities or submit to conditions that will reduce her to the status of a second-rate power.

Resistance Clearly Coming.

Every move made by the mikado's government in approaching the armistice project associated by President Harding is viewed by the political and diplomatic observers of other countries as indicating grim determination to oppose any attempt to take from her the tremendous advantages she has won her struggle to provide her people with an opportunity to exist under more favorable conditions than is now possible, as also to perpetuate her control in Asia and in the Pacific.

The Tokio government is running true to form by approaching the project with the utmost caution, though there is scarcely any doubt that it will be compelled to play the game, unless the disarmament movement assumes a wider scope. In this event competent authorities feel fully justified in predicting the insistence by Japan on Great Britain and France (with which moments she has no quarrel, but rather complete sympathies) shall be compelled to surrender the great advantages they have enjoyed in India, China and the Pacific if the Japanese are compelled by universal sentiment to abandon the role of dictator of the world. It is quite certain that not only the government but the people of Japan as well will resist any demand that Japan withdraw from the territory she occupies without legal right or the consent of the defenseless populations terrorized by her militaristic policies.

World's Arts Borrowed.

Every modern device that Japan could not invent she has mastered, and in some respects improved upon. From Germany she borrowed the art of making an army from England the skill with which to build her navy, from the United States the best methods for developing her industries and from all of them essential features of her government, which is wholly imperialistic, modified by certain features of democracy.

The fighting spirit of Japan is seemingly as militant today as it existed under the savage Shogunates, whom Commodore Perry found at present in tribal wars in 1854. The Japanese themselves, when in a more favorable frame of mind toward the United States than they are at present, credit the great American admiral and diplomatist with having opened to them the gates of civilization. They date their progress and ascendancy from his coming to introduce the benefits of modern methods and devices, including the uses of electricity, steam and education. Perhaps the most imitative people

REGISTERED MAIL BAG SEARCHED BY THIEF

POUCH TAKEN FROM STATION AT GRANTS PASS.

Letters Containing Money Orders and Drafts Not Stolen. Cash Thought Gone.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—A registered mail pouch was stolen here last night while stored in the baggage room at the railroad station. Letters containing money orders and drafts were taken from the pouch but were thrust back in without being opened. It was supposed that some cash was taken, but the amount had not been determined today. Local postal and railroad officials refused to discuss the case pending the arrival of a postal inspector.

The pouch was taken last night from train No. 15 by A. E. Dorman, a railroad employe, and stored in the baggage room. The loss was not discovered until this morning, when the mail was taken to the postoffice.

The mail bag was discovered later by P. R. Kimball, a prospector, who saw it lying in a ditch about a mile south of the railroad station. He reported his discovery to the authorities.

The baggage room evidently was entered through a coal chute. The grating on the chute had been removed. The locks on the building were not disturbed.

The authorities here suspect a drug addict, who has been in Grants Pass for some time. He could not be found today, although he was around last night.

COAST STORM FORECAST

Oregon and Washington Seaports Send Out Warnings.

Southwest storm warnings were ordered last night at all Oregon and Washington seaports. The storm was said to be coming from the north Pacific, and strong gales off the coast were predicted for today.

Rain for Portland and for all Oregon and Washington was forecast for today.

The storm predicted for Saturday night and yesterday failed to strike Portland in its full strength, although there was rain for about two hours. The tail end of the gale struck North Head, where the wind blew at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

Yesterday in Portland was one of the nicest days of the autumn. Thousands took advantage of the fine weather to go on auto trips and hiking parties.

PAVED STRETCH OPEN

Light Traffic to Use Hard-Surface Between Barlow and Aurora.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—Because of the state fair, which opens here Monday, the state highway department today issued orders opening to light traffic the new concrete pavement between Barlow and Aurora on the route of the Pacific highway. Trucks will be compelled to use the old road for another week. With the opening of this stretch of road the trip from Portland to Salem can be made on pavement, with the exception of two stretches. The highway travelers from southern Oregon will find pavement all the way from Albany to Salem the detour south of Salem having been eliminated by order of the highway department last week.

COAST SWEEP BY GALE

Wind Attains 60-Mile Rate at North Head; Rains Heavy.

ASTORIA, Or., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The southerly gale which swept along the coast last night was accompanied by a heavy rain, but continued only a short time. The wind at North Head attained a 60-mile rate, but inside the harbor the gale was not so strong. The barometer dropped to 29.56, but went up rapidly all day, and tonight registered 29.89.

The weather is unsettled, however, as the wind is still from the south and registered 35 miles an hour at North Head at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

COLLEGE GOWNS ARE HIT

Corvallis Co-eds Asked to Wear Dinner Dresses to Dances.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Sept. 25.—(Special.)—I have requested college girls to wear dinner dresses to dances instead of evening gowns, as many have been accustomed to wearing, said Miss Mary A. Roife, dean of women.

"The men have my respect for instituting a custom of not wearing dress suits to college functions, and I believe the girls should be just as fine in that respect. The fact that such a large percentage of students are paying their own way makes this custom desirable."

FIRE FROM AIR SURVIVED

Old Battleship Alabama Still Floats After Attack by Planes.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 25.—Armor-piercing shells were hurled from army airplanes yesterday on the old battleship Alabama in Chesapeake bay in the tests being conducted against the ship.

Although considerably battered by the attacks of the last two days, the battleship was left practically intact, although officers maintained bombs would have been fatal to any crew aboard.

Roseburg Residents Think Memory Lapse Is Faked as Defense; Sheriff Charges Acting.

ROSEBURG, Or., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The lapse of memory, whether feigned or real, of Dr. R. M. Brumfield, alleged slayer of Dennis Russell, continued today. He recognized Deputy Sheriffs Webb and Hopkins this morning when they entered the cell, but he has been unable to recognize others who approached him. His wife continued to be his sister Mamie, while his aunt, who also visited him in his cell this morning, was a stranger to him, apparently.

During the night he was restless, and as one of the officers entered the jail Brumfield dropped on all fours and went crawling up to the bars, growling like a wild animal. This morning, however, he greeted the deputies pleasantly and asked for some rice or rolled oats for breakfast. He declared that his head did not ache as badly as it had the day before, but that it was very sore.

Brumfield is incoherent. When Attorney, Dexter Rice, appeared, Brumfield was still unable to call him by name but remembered that the attorney had been there the day before. Mr. Rice was unable to get Brumfield to talk except to inquire for his sister Mamie.

"Where is Mamie, why don't she come?" Brumfield kept asking of Attorney Rice.

"You brought her here yesterday, why don't you bring her today?"

When Mrs. Brumfield appeared the prisoner began to cry and talked incoherently to her.

Although Brumfield may be insane, he still retains sufficient faculties to have his dirty clothes washed.

Mrs. Brumfield Does Washing. Since her husband's confinement Mrs. Brumfield has been taking his clothes home and washing them. Today she went to his cell, but was not recognized as his wife, but as his sister. However, Brumfield, while talking to his wife and addressing her as "Mamie," called attention to a pile of clothing and said:

"Look, I have so many dirty clothes and I don't know what to do with them."

"Why, I'll wash them for you," Mrs. Brumfield responded.

"Will you do that, Mamie?" asked the doctor and without loss of time (Concluded on Page 2, Column 1.)

ARBUCKLE KILLS TIME; PROSECUTOR IS BUSY

RELATIVES VISIT COMEDIAN PASSING QUIET DAY IN JAIL.

First Complete Story of Fatal Party in Hotel Suite Expected to Be Told at Hearing Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, film comedian, charged with the murder of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion-picture actress, passed a quiet Sunday in jail while the district attorney prepared a list of witnesses for examination when the police court hearing is resumed tomorrow.

Arbuckle had as his visitors relatives who are in the city, and under his attorney's care. Mrs. Bannina Maule Arbuckle, who preferred the Blake and Miss Zeh Frevoat, who attended the party. The order in which charge against Arbuckle; Miss Alice the witnesses will be called was not announced.

The defense has not indicated how it is to combat the testimony so far offered by the prosecution. The only witness who has been cross-examined, and he only briefly, was Alfred Semmacher, who yesterday testified for the prosecution, but as a "hostile witness," according to the police judge. The police judge is to decide whether Arbuckle is to be held to the superior court, and, if so, whether on the murder charge or on the grand jury indictment, which charges manslaughter.

The defense has made no attempt to check the prosecution in the questioning of witnesses, taking advantage, it was said, of the opportunity to learn the state's case against Arbuckle, afforded by the hearing.

HOOD RIVER SCHOOL FIRED

Junior High Burns With Loss of $15,000; $12,000 Insurance.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The junior high school here tonight was destroyed by fire. The loss was about $15,000, with $12,000 insurance. In addition, the 60 pupils who attended the school lost their books and equipment, valued at about $400. City School Superintendent Cannon has arranged to hold school for the two grades tomorrow in the Baptist church.

The fire was believed to have been started accidentally by one of a crew of plumbers who installed a hot-water heating system in the building this afternoon. The building was the last frame school structure in the city.

REV. MR. STANSFIELD CALLED TO CHICAGO

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH PASTOR TO LEAVE.

Minister of Congregation That He Has Accepted Charge With Memorial Church.

Dr. Stansfield, for five years pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city, announced to his congregation yesterday that he had accepted a unanimous invitation to be pastor of the McCabe Memorial church in Chicago. The announcement came as a great surprise, since only Bishop W. O. Shepard and two other church officials had been told the news previously.

Dr. Stansfield will leave here about October 11. He said yesterday that he is going east solely to be near his family, and that an increase in salary had nothing to do with his decision to go east. He will receive $1000 a year at the Chicago church.

No announcement has been made as to his successor. Bishop Shepard, the only one who can speak officially on this matter, was in Seattle last night.

"I have now been pastor with you in this church for five years, a very happy and successful pastorate, you think, but this past week I have received a unanimous invitation through Bishop Nicholson to be pastor of our McCabe Memorial church in Chicago, the church nearest the Chicago university," said Dr. Stansfield to his congregation. He made his statement after the benediction.

"I shall accept the invitation being assured by Bishop Nicholson that I was the type of preacher needed at that university center.

"Of course, it is true that I am to receive a larger salary than here, but that is not the consideration. The principal reason for my going back east is that I may be nearer my family and long-time intimate associations. When I came here five years ago I did not know this church, but I came to do a certain kind of work for the church, and it has been a steady, constructive work in building up intelligent, young people of the families of the church, and among thoughtful and intelligent citizens of Portland. My ministry was to be pre-eminently a teaching and pastoral ministry for the development of the best, broad-minded Christian citizenship.

"Of course some of you may think that this change is coming now because it seems to be the order of changes and surprises in the building churches of Portland, but I assure you that this is not in that category. Yesterday a man came up to buy something that my wife is disposing of and said, 'your husband is going away, I suppose, because they would not stand for him taking the girls who had no clothing they should wear at church socials.' My wife said, 'That is not my husband. Our church is on the corner of Twelfth and Taylor.'

"Oh, said the man, then your husband is the minister who went away on Saturday night and did not preach the next morning."

"We are at the First Methodist church," replied his wife.

"So I suppose there may be some who think that this change is coming because the atmosphere seems so different."

ALL STATE TAKES CHARGE OF FAIR

Personnel of Exposition Committee Named.

GREAT BENEFIT IS FORECAST

Portland and Oregon Are Expected to Get Boost.

FULL SUPPORT ASKED

Mr. Meier Declares That More Members May Be Named as Occasion Arises.

Personnel of the state-wide organization which is to have charge of the staging of the 1923 exposition was announced yesterday by Julius L. Meier, exposition chairman.

The appointment of this organization was recommended at the state-wide conference held at the Multnomah hotel in Portland on September 8, at which time representative men from all sections of Oregon met to determine plans of financing and other matters pertaining to the holding of the proposed world's fair.

In announcing the names of the members of the state-wide organization Mr. Meier said that other names might be added later if advisable. He also said that the selection of an executive committee from the state-wide organization would follow at the earliest possible date in order that the preliminary work for the exposition can be rushed without delay.

Statement Is Issued.

Mr. Meier issued a statement in which he pictured the success of the exposition and what it will mean to the state in the working out of a greater development and the creation of a wealthier and more prosperous community. He declared that the small sums to be asked of taxpayers to make it of the expense of putting on the exposition would be paid back many times over by the money which would be spent in the state by visitors to the fair.

To say nothing of the increasing property wealth caused by the arrival of new settlers and the great development which would undoubtedly come here as a result of the undertaking.

"The selection of the list has had the utmost care, taking into consideration the magnitude of the undertaking, the geographic location of its members, the instruction of the conference to make it of state-wide scope, and using every precaution to give each section of the state the most forceful representation possible," said Mr. Meier.

Many Conferences Held.

"Many conferences have been held covering the needs of the exposition, and I feel that the men selected will not only serve the state, but will bring an element of strength to the organization that will invite confidence over the entire northwest and ultimately win new laurels for Oregon."

"The most essential part of our program is the early completion of the plan for the financial policy. This plan calls for a city election in Portland next November, when the people will vote upon the question of raising $2,000,000. This will be followed by a public subscription of $1,000,000, and in the early spring the vote for $2,000,000 will be launched. This means that a total capital of $5,000,000 is to be raised, of which Portland will provide $4,000,000.

Co-operation Is Promised.

"The necessary legislation for national recognition; the freedom to hold an exposition in 1923 without conflicting dates; the co-operation of Pacific coast states, all have been provided within the last year, so that Oregon need not placid its house in order to stage the greatest event ever chronicled in the history of the great west."

"Selection of the executive committee will follow at the earliest possible date. These appointments will give Oregon representation from every district on the exposition board. The state-wide organization will be charged with the duty of directing and educating the people on the importance of providing the funds to carry out the project. The state-wide representation will be called upon to meet in conference at stated intervals until the general exposition theme, exploitation of Oregon's resources, foreign policy, concessions and other voluminous duties associated with the holding of a world-wide demonstration of this kind."

Responsibility on Committee.

"The committee naturally will have the responsibility of initiating ideas and planning the department in which there will be many. In turn these plans and suggestions will be presented to the state-wide committee for approval. In this manner the whole scheme will have its birth and reach its development with the most constructive methods, the greatest economy, the highest efficiency that is possible within the mind of man."

"Care is also to be exercised in the personnel of the men and women who will be called upon to administer the details of the work."

"The public should be impressed

PORTLAND WILL GET SHRINERS' HOSPITAL

SUBSIDIARY INSTITUTION TO BE BUILT HERE.

Committee Authorizes Drive for $5,000,000 Charity Fund for Children.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—Authority to launch immediately an $8,000,000 hospital building campaign was given in a meeting of the hospital committee of the imperial council of the Shrine today, after which it was announced that the central hospital, to cost approximately $1,000,000, will be located here. Subsidiaries will be established in San Francisco and Portland, Or.

The hospitals will specialize in aiding crippled children.

The hospital to be built here by the Shrine will be an orthopedic surgical hospital, primarily for the treatment of deformed and crippled children, and will be open to all children needing such treatment, regardless of color, race or creed.

Two sites for the hospital have been offered: one consisting of three acres adjacent to the medical school of the University of Oregon on Marquam hill, and the other of ten acres on the Oregon Electric line near this city.

Two acres of the three-acre site were donated by the medical college and the remaining acre by James Meffert. The ten-acre tract has been offered by an individual whose name has not been made public.

Mayor Baker went to St. Louis to attend this meeting of the hospital committee of the Shrine and to present Portland's claims for recognition as the medical center of the northwest, and was accompanied by Dr. S. M. Strohecker, who presented the technical and scientific points of the argument. Among the contentions of the two were Portland's geographical position, its climate, its health territory to be served, the mild climate of this city, the purity of the milk and water, and the availability of all kinds of transportation.

A feature of the recognition accorded Portland by the hospital committee of the Shrine is the fact that one of its members, Bishop Kenor, is a resident of Tacoma. John D. McGilvray, another member of the committee, makes his home in San Francisco. A staunch friend of Portland on the board is W. Freeland Kendrick, who was imperial potentate of the shrine when it met here last year.

"Frank S. Grant, illustrious patron of Al Kader temple, the local Shrine organization, was elected last night when informed of the designation of Portland as the location for one of the subsidiary hospitals.

"Mayor Baker has done great work," he declared, "in winning for Portland this substantial recognition. The operation of this orthopedic hospital here will make Portland's position as the medical center of the northwest unquestionable and will make this city one of the important scientific centers of the country."

400 OPTIMISTIC BANKERS ON VISIT

Easterners Say Situation Is Bright.

PARTY OFF TO CONVENTION

Everybody Has Great Praise for Columbia Highway.

GRANDEUR IS NOTICED

Portland Guests for Day Promise to Return in 1925 and Bring Friends.

In business parlance, Portland was "sold" yesterday to 400 of the leading bankers of the Atlantic seaboard. And, what is more to the point, possibly, the Rowe City gained the enthusiastic approval of the wives and grown daughters, accompanying the eastern financiers.

The special train de luxe, arriving in 17 hours here yesterday while the travelers became acquainted with Portland and the surrounding scenic country. They are on their way to the forty-seventh annual convention of the American Bankers' association to be held in Los Angeles October 3 to 7.

Leading Centers Represented.

Those in the group represented the leading commercial centers of the Atlantic seaboard from Florida to Maine. New York bankers predominated, but every section had its important leader in the party.

The bankers were loath to discuss business.

"So far as business is concerned we are a cheerful bunch," Francis H. Sisson, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust company, New York City, said.

"The keynote of the convention and the expression that will be heard the most will be 'We have turned the corner.' One year ago we were at the top looking down. Now we are at the bottom looking up. It is a healthy state to be in."

Cheerful Reports Forecast.

Mr. Sisson is chairman of the public relations committee of the American Bankers' association. One of the biggest undertakings of the convention will be under the direction of this division.

"At this meeting reports will be made that are cheerful," he continued. "We have turned the corner and have a straight-ahead ahead. There will be a few chuck holes along this way but on the whole it will be a very nicely paved road and continually improving. Conditions throughout the country are to be increasingly better."
