CLOSE OF PENNANT BACE FREE-FOR-ALL

SAN FRANCISCO IN LEAD

Seattle Suds Are Plugging Right Along in Fourth Place, But Can't Be Figured.

BY L. H. GREGORY.

Merely because Portland happens to be down and out of it, don't overlook that one of the lightest little ponnant races the Pacific Coast league ever had winds up this week in what looks.

BY L. H. GREGORY.

The first team won, 31 to 7. The tally made by the second team came as the result of a blocked punt and recovery of the pigskin by Cogdill, who ran 30 yards for a touchdown.

races the Pacific Coast league ever had winds up this week in what looks decidedly like a free-for-all.

Three clubs, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento, are bunched so closely that the Seals, in the lead, are only one and one-half games shead of the Angels and the Sacs, who are tied for second.

And plugging along just behind them are the Seattle Suds, who pulled themselves up to within 3½ games of the top by knocking Los Angeles for a brace of goals in yesterday's double-header. The Suds can't be figured in the running, exactly—but they are a jong distance actly-but they are a jong distance yet from being mathematically out of the running.

Suda to Play Seals.

The Seals enter this final week's play with the advantage of being in the lead, but one and one-half games isn't a very big lead. Especially is it small when the Seals play the Suds, for the Suds have taken San Francisco down the line every time they have played together in Seattle. Moreover, the San Francisco pitchers are not going good now. Though the club won five out of seven from Portland, it is not pulling an slibit to may that the breaks gave Graham's men at least two of their five wins. Sacramento really seems to have what strategic edge there is to have what strategic edge there is to have. The Sacs are preity sure to have good weather for their series with Vernon That's count No. 1. Then they will be playing the Vernon Tigers, who are out of the running and showing their age.
