FAIR DEAL IN CHINA AMERICA'S PURPOSE

No Favors Asked, but Rights Must Be Respected.

American minister to Pekin, may be described as "aggressive friendliness," in the opinion of the Pekin Leader. Americans in Pekin at a dinner in his honor, outlined the policy of the United States, in part, as follows:
"As regards American rights in China, we ask for nothing besides justice, equal treatment and the other rights guaranteed by treaty. We have never solicited, and we shall not solicit, any special favors or privileges. Where rights are definitely determined in advance, where those who have to apply them in particular instances are inspired by equity and good will, the path to be trodden should be a smooth and easy one.

"The just and considerate policy of America toward China must not, however, be construed as indicative of any indifference to our rights. What is our due, whether small or great, that we must have. It would be intolerable if others were favored at the expense of the American government or American citizens. That would be a violation of the 'open door' and our well established treaty not solicit, any special favors or privdoor' and our well established treaty

China Has Opportunity. On the subject of the Washington conference, Dr. Schurman said:
"I believe the Washington conference, by grappling with the Pacific and far eastern questions before calties to which the Chinese empire was exposed in 1893. I do not hide from myself the conditions of success for that conference. There must be friendly regard for all nations, a willingness to look at facts from the point of view of every nation, a pervasive spirit of fair play, an abundance of good will, a vivid realization was pranted in Canada before coming to the United States. Questioned the destructiveness of modern warfare and an invincible faith in mutual concilitation as better instruments than force.

Concession Rush Checked. The Leader, commenting, says: "Dr. Schurman has made it plain that the interest which the American government is taking in foreign af-fairs is to be shown in matters which concern China in the form of a policy of friendliness expressing Itself ag-gressively for her benefit. America's announcement that she would insist upon the 'open door' checked, if it did not entirely stop, the rush for concessions and spheres of interest in China at that time (1899). Of late there has been renewed penetration, although of a different kind. America's announcement now that she will take a firm stand against such activities should be of like value to China by putting a check on efforts which are being made to get China's seconomic resources. economic resources under foreign

"I confess that there is great difficulting in dealing with some kinds of discrimination. When it is open it is easy to apply the remedy; but it has been practiced in subtle and underhanded ways which it is difficult to bring to light and still more difficult to prevent. That is the form of discrimination against American business.

Mrs. Burkett, who asserts that she received the note in return for money in the colonel, told the court that not until she had heard the testimony of other witnesses had she ever doubted that the man to whom she asserted she turned over the cash was her distinguished fellow countryman. The testimony of the colonel's widow, however, had raised in her mind the question of whether she had been question of whether she had been duped by an imposter, she said, Mrs. Burkett took the stand after
