

AGGIES AFTER PUNCH

Eleven Practices Hard for Washington Game.

O. A. C. NEEDS VICTORY

Defeat Saturday Would Put Team Out of Running for Coast Conference Title.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—“We must have more punch in our backfield, and I am going to get it, have to shift the whole team around,” declared Coach Rutherford today. The coach is working his men manfully in preparation for the big game here Saturday against the University of Washington.

To remain in the Pacific coast conference championship race the Aggies simply must win this game. A loss would put them out of the running just when prospects for a championship team look better than at any other time in O. A. C. history.

Low Score Expected.—“Washington will know she has been through the mill on Saturday’s game,” said Rutherford. “I don’t look for a big score either way. In some quarters there is an inclination to think Washington is ‘easy.’ I don’t think anything of the kind. Bagshaw hasn’t been saying much, but to my mind he is coaching the boys better right now than the Washington eleven was at any time last year.

“But we will get this game, and we are going to get it if we possibly can. That’s what I want to add snap and drive to the backfield. Our offense isn’t strong enough to suit me, and it must be strong to defeat Washington.”

Ray Mathison, assistant coach, took in the Washington-Montana game Saturday. He agrees with the head coach that the Aggies must develop a more powerful attack than they have shown this year to overcome Washington. The defense, also, he says must be bolstered up. There is no inclination on the coaching staff to take Washington too lightly. Everybody here has a most wholesome respect for Coach Bagshaw.

Winged M Beats Scappoose.—Except for Summers, Winnie and Garber, who are out from injuries; Ed Clarke at guard, who isn’t in form yet; and Captain George Powell, who has been in the hospital with an excellent shape. The men are fit, free from bruises and just about on edge. Moreover, they are so full of fight that they have been running the poor scrubs ragged in practice.

Trainer Butler has been working hard with the boys. Their good condition is due to the coaching staff. The last scrimmage in preparation for the Washington game was held Wednesday night. Since then passing, blocking and signal practice has been the drill subjects. Also, Coach Rutherford has been liberal with his skull bashing.

Right Tackle Unsettled.—Right tackle still is a questionable point. Andy Crowell, last season’s star in that position, returned only a few weeks ago, and has been retrained down to midseason condition yet, so he and Harold McKenna are dividing the post at present. Taylor, Hayden and Johnson are being lined up well at right guard, and Harold McKenna will be switched to that position, too.

Taggart, Lourey or Touney will play right end. Otherwise the lineup will be about the same as against Williams and Multnomah with some change probable in the backfield.

NOT A CHANCE, SAYS BAGSHAW—Coach, Gum at Prospects of Game With Aggies, May Spring Surprise.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—“They don’t know anything—I didn’t know a bunch could be so ignorant.”

This was the opinion voiced today by Coach Bagshaw of the Washington football squad preparatory to the squad’s last workout before the Corvallis trip. Bagshaw is the personification of pessimism. According to him, the Washington eleven hasn’t a chance of defeating the Aggies. Coach Rutherford’s crew comes down with pneumonia en masse.

To be assured of having enough men to case in, Bagshaw took about 25 players with him in addition to Freshman Coach Matthews, Trainer Edmundson, Student Manager Olwell and his corps of assistants. When he left late tonight, expectancy pervades the Washington campus. Everyone is keen to know just what the ex-Everett coaching wizard is likely to spring on the Aggies. That Bagshaw has something up his sleeve seems to be conceded. Whether the “something” consists of a string of new plays, a shift in the lineup or what, has not been revealed, but it is evident that Washington promoters look for the unexpected when the Sundoggers trot out on the Corvallis gridiron.

Special care has been taken this week by Bagshaw and his corps of assistants to keep the daily practices secret.

That Bagshaw has been giving his charges an intense training in real football is undeniable. The men are thoroughly tired out when they leave the field and hit for the showers, but without Bagshaw has his men in excellent shape. None are overworked and every player on the squad is in the best of condition. Minor injuries are in the minority.

DEMPSEY NOT YET SIGNED—Champion, However, Said to Have Agreed to Fight Willard.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Tex Rickard, fight promoter, returned to New York tonight without having signed Jack Dempsey, world’s heavy-weight boxing champion, for a match with Jess Willard, but with the announcement that Dempsey definitely had agreed to fight Willard and that the details would be settled soon.

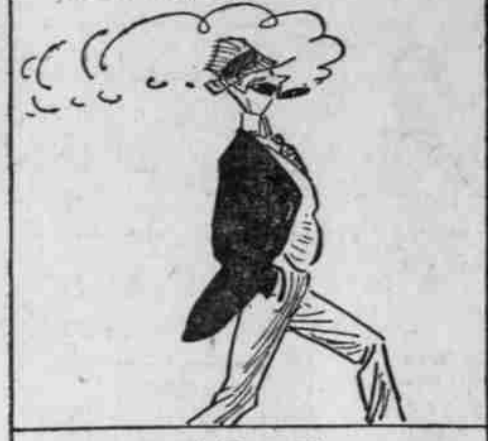

Asked by Dempsey if he was “getting the big fellow ready,” Rickard replied that Willard would be in first-class shape for the fight, which, he said, probably would be held in the east.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The Salem and Albany high schools have entered into an agreement whereby all athletic disputes will be submitted to a board of arbitration for settlement.

COAST CONFERENCE FOOTBALL MAKES ITS DEBUT TOMORROW

Athletes Are Waiting for Whistle to Turn Them Loose in the Opening Games of the Championship Race.

BY L. H. GREGORY.

THEY'RE on their mark, they're set, they're ready to go. At Corvallis, where Oregon Agricultural college plays Washington, and at Berkeley, where California and Oregon meet, the athletes are waiting for the whistle to turn them loose tomorrow in the opening games of the Pacific coast conference football championship race.

All the games played heretofore have been preliminaries to the race that now begins. The colleges all enter it on an even basis. But by tomorrow night at least two eleven men probably will be eliminated and out of the running, for so few conference games are scheduled that a single defeat ordinarily is ruinous to a variety's championship hopes.

So much interest is taken locally in the Oregon Aggie-Washington game that the Southern Pacific has arranged to run a special red electric train from Portland to Corvallis at 11:15, and it is due to arrive at Corvallis at 2:15, just before the game. It will leave Corvallis on the return trip 30 minutes after the end of the game.

The special's schedule follows: Leave Union depot, 11:10 A. M.; fourth and Stark streets at 11:15, and it is due to arrive at Corvallis at 2:15 P. M.; 1:40 P. M.; Arrive Corvallis 2:15 P. M.

The round trip fare by this red electric special, including war tax, will be $5.85.

The Oregon Electric will not run a special, but its regular train leaving Oregon at 10:45 and arriving at Corvallis at 1:45, and Jefferson street station a few minutes later, probably will have many passengers for the game. Those going to Corvallis from the University of Idaho, the Washington State-Idaho game counts in the northwest conference, but has no bearing on the coast.

Interest here centers mainly on the Oregon-Aggie-Washington game at Corvallis, both because it is closer and also because the Oregon Aggies appear to be the favorites. California, on form shown up to the present, is not a contender. Yet never can tell in football. Sometimes a team accounts a certain victim accomplishes an amazing reversal and upsets the champion. Though it is a possibility in the Oregon-California game, it also is a decided improbability. All the football dopsters pick California to win by from two to five touchdowns.

But this Oregon Aggie-University of Washington game, from all present indications, will be a whole of a different kind. The Aggies should win it. They have a powerful eleven with a great attack, whereas Washington is a new team, erected on the ruins of a poor team that last season won not one of its Pacific coast conference games, and only one game all told, practice contests and all.

But in football what is past is past and the present and future are something else. From the ruins of the beaten eleven of last year, Washington's new coach, Enoch Bagshaw, an ex-Washington player himself, who had been called as a football coach to restore to his varsity her old-time prestige, has built what appears to be a formidable machine.

In its early games it has lacked somewhat in offensive power and has been rough and unpolished in places, but what of that? Every early season eleven is the same. The significant thing about the new eleven coached and developed by Bagshaw is that it possesses the spirit of the conqueror, and that it feels that way can be licked only by being licked. Though the Aggies have the edge, it looks like a tough game.

Oregon Agricultural college simply must win this game. To lose it, or to be held to a tie score, would eliminate the Aggies for any chance at the coast conference championship.

GOLF SEMI-FINALS TODAY

Waverley Country Club Women to Play.

Miss Daley to Meet Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Cameron Squires.

Semi-final matches in the women's club championship of the Waverley Country club will be played today, with Mrs. Irene Fild meeting Mrs. Victor Johnson in the upper bracket, and Mrs. J. R. Dickson teeing off with Mrs. Cameron Squires in the lower bracket.

First elimination rounds of the tournament were played yesterday. Miss Daley advanced into the semifinals when Mrs. Peter Kerr, present champion, defeated her match to Miss Daley, Mrs. Victor Johnson, women's captain at Waverley, eliminated Mrs. J. H. Lothrop, 3 up and 1, and Mrs. J. B. Dickson qualified for the semi-finals by defeating Mrs. George Frost, 7 up and 6. In the other match in the championship, Mrs. Helen Johnson, 4 up and 3, defeated Mrs. Cameron Squires won from Mrs. Holt Cokeringham, 4 up and 3.

In the first flight Mrs. H. F. Corbett defeated Mrs. George M. Woodley, 3 and 2; Mrs. Spencer Biddle won

Defeat of Minnesota Upsets Dope on Conference.

BIG 10 RACE TO BE KEEN

Iowa Declared to Be Most Likely to Capture Gridiron Title in Middle West.

BY NORMAN ROSS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The surprise of the big ten conference last week was the conquest of Ohio State, which, defeated the week before by Oberlin, a non-conference college, came through and walked over Minnesota to the tune of 27-0.

Dopsters had written the Ohioans out of their calculations entirely, as it was felt in many quarters that their win of the title last year had been fluky, and that at least two teams in the western conference were stronger. After their defeat by Oberlin, they were accounted for by Northwestern by a large score. As Doc Williams, popper coach, usually turns out Saturday between Iowa and Illinois, the former winning 14-2. Now Iowa looks to have an easy job to beat Purdue, Minnesota, Indiana and Northwestern. Purdue was beaten Saturday 33-0 by Notre Dame, a team which Iowa beat earlier in the season. The other teams have failed to show any strength yet.

It does not seem unlikely that Ohio State might again have a claim on the conference title. It is very possible that either Ohio or Michigan will go through the season without a defeat, and that there will be a tie in the conference standing, with two undefeated teams claiming the title. It is not customary to play off a post-season game in this case, for some reason.

Tourist Delegates on Links

When the directors and members of the Pacific Northwest Tourist association were here last week, F. T. Hyskell, one of the Portland directors and member of the Portland Golf club, thought it would be a fine entertainment feature to stage a golf tournament for the visitors.

A handsome cup was put up for the player turning in the low net score. Hyskell with a 75 won the cup. After thinking it over, it seemed hardly fair for a local player to walk off with the cup, so he decided to turn it over to the second low score, Joshua Kingham of Victoria, B. C., and C. E. Ingles of Corvallis were tied. As there was not time enough to play off the tie here, it was decided to let the two play over their home courses and then forward their cards to Hyskell. The trophy will go to the one having the low card.

Mexicans Like Baseball

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Baseball has attained such a marked popularity in Mexico, according to Ben Johnson, president of the American league, that today he announced he would go to Mexico City by December 1 to explain to the Mexicans the game as it is conducted in the United States.

In 1907 C. A. Comiskey took the White Sox to Mexico City for the training period. The occasion was marked with great pomp. So much interest was raised that the boys immediately took up the game and since then several creditable players have been developed. Mr. Johnson said.

Vancouver, Ridgefield to Play

VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Arrangements were completed today for a football game Armistice day between Ridgefield and Vancouver high schools at Vancouver. Both undefeated teams are in fine form. Ridgefield has scored 116 points in six games, while Vancouver has scored 105 points in four games.

Purdue took a terrible trimming last week from Notre Dame, however, coming out on the short end of a 33-0 score.

Chicago goes to play Princeton this Saturday at Princeton. Although the Tigers have their mainstay, Don Louie, on the sidelines, and also are without the services of Garrity, they should take the Maroon into camp. The mid-west is not progressing well in its inter-sectional campaign. Indiana lost to Harvard 19-0 and Wash to the Army, 21-0. Notre Dame goes to play the Army early in November, in the only inter-sectional game in which the midwest is likely to show well.

Wesleyan-Navy Game Off

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 20.—West Virginia Wesleyan was forced today to cancel its football game with Navy's Annapolis next Saturday because three regular players are on the hospital list and six others are suffering from injuries which will keep them off the gridiron for at least another week.

Infantry Eleven to Play Astoria

VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The Fifty-ninth infantry football team will play the Astoria Athletic club at Astoria next Sunday, Captain D. B. Simpson, coach of the team, announced today.

Club members and the general public are invited to attend the tournament Wednesday. There will be no admission fee.

The schedule for games, as approved by T. H. Gawley, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., provides that the tournament will be played Wednesday nights. There will be six meets, the dates being October 26, November 16, December 14, January 18, February 15 and March 15.

Cecil and Alexa to Meet

Women Golfers to Compete in Exhibition Match October 28.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Announcement was made today that Miss Cecil Lettsch, British golf star, would play Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta in an exhibition match at the Pelham Country club on October 28 for the benefit of the Radcliffe college endowment fund. This will be their first meeting in this country.

Miss Lettsch and Mrs. Thomas Huddell of New York were winners today in the semi-final round of the Belleclair club invitation tournament.
