COMMONS TO TALK ON IRELAND MONDAY

Unionist Censure of Government to Come Up.

CRISIS CONSIDERED HERE

Sinn Fein Seems to Think Lloyd George Is Playing Politics About Ulster.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(By the associated Press.)—The Irish conference seems to have resolved itself into meetings of the small committee appointed to find a formula as a bridge between the negotiating parties. This is the method favored by the premier in negotiations of an immediate and critical nature.

Mr. Lloyd George called a meeting of the committee unexpectedly today. The meeting lasted an hour. Both sides are maintaining reticence, but it is believed the chief subject of today's discussion was Ulster.

Another meeting will likely be held tomorrow, but after that there will probably be no meeting until the end of the debate on the Irish question in the house of commons, which will begin Monday. This is expected to give the premier a solid majority vote for continuing the negotiations and justify him in ignoring protests of a small group among the unionists.

A semi-official announcement made tonight of arrangements for the premier's journey to Washington is considered a good augury.

Crisis at Hand.

Announcement of Premier Lloyd George today that Monday had been allocated by the government for a discussion in the house of commons on the motion of unionist members, censuring the government for conducting the Irish negotiations, was taken as bringing the Irish issue to another critical stage.

Sinn Feiners indicated tonight that they had expected parliament would not be consulted until there was a nearer approach to an agreement. They have negotiated with Mr. Lloyd George, believing him to be in a position to strike a binding bargain; and they expressed apprehension over the possibility that the debate might enable him to modify his proposals.

Their view was that nothing likely to happen in the house could better the terms obtainable by the Sinn Fein, but that on the contrary, the debate might easily lessen these terms.

Suspicion Is Voiced.

They appear to be suspicious that the premier has been faced with trouble in his own party, and that he thinks a debate would be the best way of obtaining for himself a certain majority. Ulster is understood to present his chief difficulty, since he has pledged himself not to reduce the importance of the position of the northern parliament.

On the other hand, Mr. Lloyd George is urged by many unionists to permit the northern parliament to function.

If Mr. Lloyd George assents to facilitating the powers of the northern parliament, he risks a break in the negotiations with the Sinn Fein. Yet there is a powerful feeling in his own party in favor of leaving Ulster what she has. Until after Monday's debate, the conference with Sinn Fein delegates will continue in more or less suspended animation, but both sides expressed the view that the house of commons will kill it.

UNION AND PEACE IDEAL

Birmingham, Ala. Another member of his cabinet, however, Secretary Fall, alluded to that address at today's luncheon as one of the greatest deliverances ever addressed to the American people.

Lesson Drawn From War.

"I want to say to you," he said, "that when the message that the president brought to the south is carried to all the people of the south, it will be seen that no man who ever spoke to the people of the south has carried to the people of the south a message more in their interest."

In his Grady monument speech the president drew an analogy between the lessons of the civil war and those of the world war and declared his hope that the spirit of reconciliation typified by Grady would find new expression in the present reconstruction.

The crowd which greeted the president earlier in the day at Columbus was so large that his voice would not carry to its fringes and so tumultuous that it could not be quieted for several minutes after he had come to a stop. School children carrying American flags led the cheering and showered Mrs. Harding with flowers.

Tribute Paid Roosevelt.

"To come to Georgia is to come to the heart of the south," the president said. "To come to Georgia on this, of all days of the year—the birthday of Roosevelt—is to realize that the heart of the south throbs for all the nation.

"So it is good, in greeting you men and women of Georgia, to recall the career of that outstanding American who in his life, as in his lineage, taught us how much we are prospered and exalted because of being united. And coming thus among you, it is particularly a satisfaction to speak from the shadow of the shaft which you have reared to the memory of one who taught a re-united nation its duties, its obligations, its possibilities. For I recall the thrill with which I read, as a young man, the address of Henry W. Grady to the New England club; that most famous oration, I think, of its generation; that inspiring call to a nation to awaken to itself, to understand that yesterday was dead, its tomorrow pregnant with magnificent opportunity.

Old Letters Significant.

"The other day there came into my hands a volume of the letters of a group of eminent Georgians of the civil war and reconstruction period. In the main they represented the correspondence of Alexander H. Stephens, Howell Cobb, Robert Toombs and Governor Joe Brown. Especially was I interested in the extensive correspondence between these southern leaders and prominent men of the north which was carried on at that period. It was nothing less than astonishing to note how little of bitterness, of resentment, of hatred and recalcitrance was manifested on either side. They were all back in the harness, working for the restoration of their state, their people, their preserved country.

"We would rather have one immigrant from the north than 50 from Europe, wrote one, a few years after Appomattox, and he urged his northern friend to make the northern people understand how welcome they would be. Not even the unreconstructible hatred of old Thad Stevens could maintain an effective front against such appeals as that. The north did come to you with olive branch instead of sword, and you went to the north and west and became full partners in making that new empire which together we carved out of the trane-Missouri wilderness and now, truly, there can be descried no sectional division of this land.

Defense Not Disregarded.

"It has seemed to me many times in the period since the world war ended that the world at large might well let us show it the marvel which was wrought through a reunited and restored America.

"I believe that every family which lost a member in the struggle to save mankind from absolutism, every citizen-soldier who gave years and sufferings to that cause; every gold star mother or maimed veteran, will agree that peace is preferable to war, and that to train a world in the ways of peace is better than to prepare it for war. I would not have you misconstrue. I believe it wholly consistent to preach peace and its triumphs in that convincing sincerity which an unselfish nation commands and yet make sure about our proper defense.

"Manifestly, mankind is disposed to try that experiment. If, trying it, nations shall fail, it will be no fault of the United States of America. Our own experience has taught us that we may hope that a like decision will be reached by a world reasoning amid the convictions which follow in the wake of a tragedy supreme."

DEMOCRATS SCORE SPEECH

Republicans Applaud President's Birmingham Address.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 27.—President Harding's address on the race question at Birmingham evoked statements today from democratic senators criticising his remarks and from republican senators commending his position.

Democrats who criticised the speech included Senators Harrison of Mississippi, Watson of Georgia, Heflin of Alabama and McKellar of Tennessee. Republicans who declared their approval included Senators Calder of New York, Spencer of Missouri and Willis of Ohio.

The democrats declared that the president's remarks were inopportune and that his policies would tend toward social equality of the negro with the whites.

Senator Willis said "the president's ringing statement in defense of political and economic equality of individual opportunity with recognition of absolute divergence in things social and racial is as courageous as it is true."

"There is no use in anybody getting into a quarrel with facts," he added. "The president has stated the facts. The country will applaud President Harding's clearness of statement and patriotism of purpose."

Senator McKellar declared the president's speech was "ill-conceived, ill-timed, ill-placed and can serve no useful purpose."

POLICE HAVE CLEW TO PRIEST'S SLAYER

Bloodhounds Lead Posse to Home of Finder of Body.

ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED

Mine Foreman Says He Saw Father Belknap Hunting for House of Sick Parishioner.

LEAD, S. D., Oct. 27.—Bloodhounds put on the trail tonight at the scene of the murder of Father A. B. Belknap, whose body was found in Poorman's gulch road yesterday morning, led a posse through a blinding snow storm directly to the home occupied by Tony Bartolino, an Italian, and a man named Nimon Kootzman.

Bartolino is the man reported to have discovered the body of the priest. Neither Bartolino nor Kootzman was arrested, but County Attorney James Fowler, who questioned the men, announced that "important developments" had resulted.

Under-Sheriff Owen, after a conference with the county attorney, said "arrests may be made at any time."

The Italian's house is at the side of the road, directly opposite the place where the priest's body was found.

Kootzman said he and Bartolino both heard shots about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning and that Bartolino ran out to see what had happened. He said he returned and reported a man reclining on the road, opposite the house.

Slayer Is Addressed.

Bartolino said he thought someone was shooting at his horse, running loose in the yard. "I ran out and saw a man across the road," he told County Attorney Fowler. "I shouted 'what you trying to do? Kill my animal?' and the man across the road shouted back 'you go to ——. You better watch out.'"

Bartolino said he went into the house, put on his shoes, and went out again. Then he saw a man's body lying in the road. He said he then ran to a telephone and notified the police.

The bloodhounds were taken by train to Rapid City and brought here by automobile after rain last night had interrupted their progress here from Mitchell by auto. They were put on the trail immediately after their arrival at 6 o'clock.

A guard was placed tonight around the garage at the residence of Bishop J. J. Lawler, in which Father Belknap kept his automobile. A finger-print expert will be put to work tomorrow on the car in an effort to find if the man who tampered with the machine Tuesday night left any trail behind him.

Footprints Are Found.

Footprints in an embankment beside the road near which the body of Rev. Mr. Belknap was found, three empty pistol cartridges and discovery of a man who saw the priest shortly before his murder yesterday morning, constituted today's developments.

Dr. R. E. Holvey, county coroner, postponed the inquest until tomorrow in the hope that, with the aid of the hounds, some clew to the identity of the murderer might be furnished for the official inquiry.

Priests from many parts of western South Dakota are planning to attend the funeral here Saturday morning. Bishop J. J. Lawler, at whose residence Father Belknap made his home, will officiate at solemn high requiem mass. Later the body will be sent to Dubuque, Ia., for burial, accompanied by a guard of honor of Knights of Columbus.

County Attorney Fowler announced he had retained John Heffron of Deadwood, formerly county attorney, and E. W. Fiske of Sioux Falls, formerly United States district attorney, to aid in the investigation.

Searching Party Formed.

The searching party, organized to follow the dogs, was headed by County Attorney Fowler of Deadwood, and included a sheriff's deputy, other county and city officials, and James J. Curran, district deputy of the Knights of Columbus.

Chief of Police O'Meara said tonight the belief is growing that the murder was committed by a fanatic or mentally deranged person. Officials have questioned virtually every person in the neighborhood today. It was found not more than four or five residents heard the shots which killed the priest, and only one man, Arthur Miller, saw the priest in the early morning hours just prior to his death.

Sending of Message Denied.

Miller, assistant night foreman at a mining company's plant, who has lived here for 12 years, said he had met the priest while going home from work yesterday morning and the priest had told him he was responding to a call from a family in "the third house from the roundhouse in Bender Park." There was no person with the priest, he said.

The family which the priest was to have called on was that of L. C. Decory, who declared he had heard no shooting and had not summoned the priest.

Police today examined Father Belknap's automobile, which had been tampered with prior to the tragedy.

Priest's Relatives on Way.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Oct. 27.—George Belknap, a brother, and A. L. Bolt, a brother-in-law of the Rev. A. B. Belknap, murdered at Lead, S. D., yesterday, have departed for Lead to attend the funeral there Saturday and to accompany the body back here for burial.

4 ROAD PARKS OFFERED

is anxious to open up the entire highway from Roseburg to Bandon before thinking of paving, in order to get as much mileage as possible from the funds available for this road.

Representatives of the forestry bureau requested that surveys be made for the cut-off from the Mount Hood loop to Wapinitia; from Prairie City to Unity, on the John Day highway, and in the Crescent section of The Dalles-California highway. The idea of the forestry bureau is to have these surveys made so that if the appropriation bill, now in conference in congress, is adopted, no time need be lost in getting these three projects under way.

The commission agreed to co-operate in macadamizing the unfinished section of the Columbia river highway at Rainier, a proposition being received from Columbia county to contribute $5000 toward the cost, providing Rainier will take over part of the old county road as a city street; should Rainier decline, then the county limits its donation to $3000.

The Shuttler's Flat-Olex section of the John Day highway, between Arlington and Condon, was ordered advertised for grading and rocking for the next meeting.

The commissioners adjourned last night after a three-day session, during which they awarded jobs totaling $1,100,000, of which the state cooperated to the extent of $800,000 and counties to $300,000.

STIPULATION IS FILED

Purse Seiners Agree to Submitting Amended Issues to Judge.

ASTORIA, Or., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—A stipulation was filed in the circuit court this afternoon in the case of D. S. Tarabochia and six other purse seiners against Carl D. Shoemaker, state fish warden, and his deputy, John Larson.

By this stipulation the attorneys agree that the issues of the amended complaint shall be submitted to Judge Coke of Marshfield, on the oral arguments and the briefs filed in connection with the defendants' demurrer to the original complaint, unless Judge Coke should especially request further briefs and argument.

The amended complaint brings up the question of the constitutionality of the anti-purseseining act passed by the legislature at its last session and which will become effective on January 1.

This Store Uses No Comparative Prices—They Are Misleading and Often Untrue

"They are really suffering from cumulative constipation"

COUNTLESS numbers of people have a daily elimination of waste matter from the system but this elimination is not thorough and sufficient. They depend on a regular weekly purge to rid their intestines of poisons and they never feel the full vigor and zest that come from perfect health.

This whole problem is so important that a well-known medical journal has published a collection of essays on constipation. All the doctors who wrote these essays emphasize the importance of diet. As one physician puts it, "The diet has the most marked influence upon the normal activity of the bowels."

Scientists have now discovered the simple food that helps restore normal conditions, and clears the body of accumulating waste matter—just the familiar little cake of Fleischmann's Yeast!

First came the startling discovery that Fleischmann's Yeast richly supplies the essential water-soluble vitamine. Then it was found that it builds up the body tissues and keeps the body resistant to disease. In addition, because of its freshness (you get it fresh daily) it helps the intestines in their elimination of poisonous waste matter.

Eat 2 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast before or between meals every day. Have it on the table at home and on your desk at the office. Eat it plain, spread on bread or crackers, or dissolved in water, milk or fruit juices. You will like its fresh, distinctive flavor and the clean, wholesome taste it leaves in your mouth.

Fleischmann's Yeast is assimilated just like any other familiar food. Only one precaution: if troubled with gas, dissolve the yeast first in half a cup of very hot water. This does not affect the efficacy of the yeast. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast and get it fresh every day.

Send 4 cents in stamps for the booklet, "The New Importance of Yeast in Diet." So many inquiries are coming in daily for this booklet that it is necessary to make this nominal charge to cover cost of handling and mailing. Address THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY, 314 Bell Street, Seattle, Wash.

A food with laxative properties

Fleischmann's Yeast is a corrective food, not a laxative. From 2 to 3 cakes a day added regularly to the diet will not only restore normal functions of the intestines, but will also assure a proper elimination each day. In many cases the amount taken can be reduced as the condition improves. A noted specialist, in his latest book, says of compressed yeast: "It should be much more frequently given in illness in which there is intestinal disturbance, especially if it is associated with constipation."

Beware of new and untested yeast preparations. The name Fleischmann is your protection and guarantee of uniform purity and strength.
