

WILLS IS BOOKED TO FIGHT MARTIN

Negro Heavy Down for Main Event at Milwaukee.

FAST BOUT EXPECTED

Denver Ed and Black Champ Figured to Put on Show Here Under 10-Round Law.

BY DICK SHARP.

Harry Wills, negro heavyweight champion of the world, the most formidable contender for Jack Dempsey's crown, will box Denver Ed Martin ten rounds at Milwaukee November 16.

The case of Harry Wills is different. Wills is a super-scrapper, a wonderful boxer and one of the most vicious and relentless fighters in the game.

In fact Martin has displayed more real class as a heavyweight than any of the big men who have fought here in recent years.

The case of Harry Wills is different. Wills is a super-scrapper, a wonderful boxer and one of the most vicious and relentless fighters in the game.

The Denver Ed Martin-Harry Wills match is by far the biggest and most interesting boxing event to be brought here since the passing of the ten-round law.

The Portland boxing commission will stage an all-star card at the Emory Wednesday night.

Willie Capelli of Los Angeles, a lightweight who has fought them all, will headline against Frankie Farren, Eddie Pinkman, Monk Fowler, Al Grunan or Morgan Jones.

Abe Minkind will meet the best boy obtainable in the semi-windup. Hansen is trying to get Archie Stof for that match.

Frankie Britt, the aggressive Tacoma featherweight who has fought Bud Risley, Morgan Jones, Al Lupo, Young Sam Langford and many others, is angling for a fight with the card and may be accommodated.

Jimmy Darcy is going great guns in the eastern climes. Jimmy stepped up to Buffalo the other night and gave Harry Greb a thumping, but lost the verdict. He knocked down Greb in the third round for the count of seven.

Joe Gorman and Earl Baird will battle for the fifth time in New York, November 22. The bout will be a semi-final at Madison Square Garden.

AGGIES MUST UPHOLD STATE'S GRID HONOR, IT NOW SEEMS

Oregon Apparently Hasn't a Burglar's Chance Against Pullman, Although Huntington Has Shaken the Team Into a New Outfit.

BY L. H. GREGORY. THE football season has flown so fast that almost before we know it the final "big game" will be played and it will be all over but the shouting.

Plenty of action will be concentrated, though, in the remaining two weeks and a half.

Oregon has two weeks after tomorrow's encounter at Pullman to make ready for the test.

If either of the Oregon colleges is to gain much glory out of this season's work the Aggies must do it by winning from Washington State.

That Washington State defense will not yield to any 90-yard straight football march down the field, as did the Washington line and try forward passing on their own 20-yard line.

There still is a chance for a big spill in the Pacific coast conference race, though not a very bright one.

Such an upset would put the winner of the Washington State-Oregon Aggie mix in a mighty good position to win the championship.

Shy Huntington has switched back to field more to the line and linemen to the backfield until one gets dizzy trying to locate who's who and where.

What a truly remarkable record has little Center college. Her defeat of Harvard last Saturday, 6 to 0, was no mere flash, but a performance strictly according to type.

the public eye was its feat two years ago, on October 3, 1919, defeating the University of Indiana, 6 to 0.

Last year's sparkling game against Harvard still is regarded as a football classic. In the first half the Aggies scored two touchdowns and made the score 14 to 0.

"Nobody who has never attended a small college can even faintly imagine the spirit that pervades the Center college student body," said Christman.

"Uncle Charley" Moran, the Center coach, has been a big factor in the team's success.

"First he made a few suggestions. Then as it developed that his suggestions were all good and that he really knew football, it just followed naturally that he began 'helping' the boys a little.

"Mind you, he did it as a volunteer worker. Moran makes his living in profession, has baseball, but that Center spirit got him, as it gets everybody else, and he was devoting his time and services as a coach free of charge.

"That missed goal kick against Harvard last Saturday," continued Christman, "incidentally was the only second goal kick after touchdown Center has fumbled since a missed goal against Indiana on October 3, 1919.

"Since that Indiana game Center has scored to date a total of 956 points against opponents. In 1919 she made 245 points, in 1920 821 points and so far this year 160 points.

"I hope nobody will get the mistaken idea because of her football record that Center is just a 'football college'.

Christman got a letter from Center the other day answering the previous inquiry of his as to the chances for bringing the Center team to the coast for a post-season game against Oregon Agricultural college of Oregon.
