

VICTORY FOR FAIR MEASURE FORECAST

Street Railway Employees Make Canvass of City.

BOOSTER MEETINGS HELD

Automobile Dealers and Parent-Teacher Council Get Behind Exposition Issue.

The Oregon 1925 exposition tax measure will be carried by a large majority at the special city election Saturday, November 19, according to a prediction made by Fred Cooper, city superintendent of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company and member of the general campaign committee. It is the result of a canvass of the entire city with reports from heavy voting centers representative of every district. This is the first comprehensive survey made with a view to determining the general complexion of the vote on the proposed $2,000,000 tax measure.

It was conducted by the street railway company's large staff of division chiefs, traffic inspectors, instructors and car barn employees, covering a period of several days.

Favorable Sentiment Found.

"We have a total of 1800 street car men and they are scattered over every section of the city," said Mr. Cooper yesterday. "They come in contact every day with the 250,000 persons who ride our cars and the particular subject of discussion among the people of Portland today centers around the 1925 exposition and the plans of financing it."

"I can say conservatively that the reports we have received from our various divisions are entirely favorable to a substantial majority in favor of the tax measure."

"We have received reports from our Sawyer, Piedmont, Ankeny and Sellwood divisions, representing four large population districts, and the sentiment in Sawyer, which is in the northwest section of the city, and in Ankeny, which is in the great central east side district, is particularly strong for the exposition. Our men have been asked to report on the conversation overheard on the street cars with reference to the fair election measure."

Four Angles Discussed.

"The particular angles of the issues that are most frequently discussed have to do with four subjects: The tax feature and what the cost will be to the small property owner; what will become of the surplus, if any remains after the fair is over; the question of sites; and why the fair is not being financed exclusively by public subscriptions."

"So far as has been possible and consistent with proper attention to their work, our men have been requested to explain these features of the campaign to the best of their ability."

The first big exposition campaign rally in the Albina district will be held next Wednesday evening, at the Albina library, Knott street, between Rodney and Union avenues. The speakers will be Julius L. Meier, chairman of the exposition committee; P. V. Fisher, campaign manager; Emory Olmstead, chairman of the finance committee, and others. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Albina Improvement club.

Sixty women, members of the parent-teacher council, met yesterday afternoon at the Central library, where B. Lee Paget discussed the exposition and, upon motion of the chair, J. F. Chapman, the council voted unanimously to go on record endorsing the fair project. Mrs. W. H. Bathgate, city president, was in the chair.

Automobile dealers of the city met at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon and laid plans to boost the tax measure. F. V. Fisher, campaign manager, spoke to the group and met with a hearty response.

The new and artistic wind-shield stickers, bearing the official design of the 1925 exposition are now available for all automobile owners and may be had by phoning exposition headquarters, Marshall 1925, or at the offices of Clay S. Morse and A. G. Long & Co. These stickers will be delivered anywhere in the city to all who desire them.
