

GOLF COURSE FUNDS BEING SUBSCRIBED

Drive On to Build Links on Rose City Speedway.

FINANCIAL BODY NAMED

Robert E. Smith, Samuel Eddy, William F. Woodward and T. Morris Dunne Head Drive.

The drive for funds to build a golf course on the site of the Rose City speedway is on. A financial committee, composed of Robert E. Smith, Samuel Eddy, William F. Woodward and T. Morris Dunne has been appointed to solicit funds to engage a golf architect to plan the course and to build the course after the plans have been completed.

The committee has been at work two days and already has obtained several subscriptions. Another committee composed of Arthur Dayton, chairman; A. H. Gould and Grant Hemphill, appointed at a recent meeting of golf enthusiasts, to look after the preliminary of getting the course started, is in communication with several golf architects.

H. Chandler Egan, who laid out the municipal course at Eastmoreland, and Vernon Macan of Victoria, B. C., who has planned several courses in British Columbia, are two of the men with whom the committee is in touch. George Otten, a Portland landscape architect, who also has had some experience in laying out golf links, has looked over the ground and may submit a plan.

Just as soon as enough money has been obtained by the financial committee to guarantee construction of the course the chosen architect will be employed. The committee intends to have the course in shape early next spring. That there will be need of the new nine-hole links is evidenced by the popularity of the game and the fact that the Eastmoreland municipal course has been crowded all year, to say nothing of the fact that the city's right to use it expires July 1.

Even with the Rose City course in its present rough state, many golfers prefer to play over it now than to face the crowds at Eastmoreland. Allan Lee Longstaff, has been established as professional at the course, where the attendance already is enough to keep him busy.

GRESHAM SITE HELD BEST

Town Urged to Get Behind Plan to Capture Exposition.

GRESHAM, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—If Gresham doesn't get the 1925 fair site it will be because the town is not behind it as it should be, said John Brown, chairman of the Gresham fair site committee, at a meeting of the Gresham Business Men's association Monday night.

Mr. Brown said the proposed Gresham-Portland fair site was far superior to any of the other proposed sites and that he would welcome an opportunity of comparing its advantages with any other.

Traffic Laws Held Ignored

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The city commissioners today ordered Chief of Police Roscocker to tighten up on enforcement of the traffic laws, declaring that complaints are swamping the city board. Riding of bicycles without lights and parking cars too long in the restricted section are complained of. The lax system of checking automobiles for violation of the ordinances is to be revised.

Dips and Splashes

Portland aquatic enthusiasts will have to wait until December 20 before they will be able to take a dip, as the Junior swim club scheduled for the Broadway natatorium on that evening is expected to make up in class for the long delay. George M. Douglas, swimming instructor at the nat., who is arranging the meet, has limited the entry list to Junior boys and girls. He already has lined up 12 boys and 12 girls who are the cream of the Junior swimmers in the city and will provide plenty of competition in their respective classes.

The wanderlust has hit James Egan. Under the coaching of Douglas, Egan has developed into one of the strongest swimmers in the city. Lack of competition here has forced him to seek new fields and he is on his way to California.

The latest addition to the already large list of high and long divers in Portland is "Blackie" McFadden. McFadden is a high diver of ability, who for several years represented the Crystal Pool swimming club of Seattle. He will make his home in Portland.

Joan Peterson, swimmer, has turned her attention to diving. She is becoming a good performer from the ten-foot plank.

Among the fair swimmers in training at the natatorium are Elsie Miller, in the senior class, and Bertha Schmass in the junior division. Miss Schmass is only 13 years old. Miss Miller cleaves the water for 20 yards in 23 and 24 seconds, while Miss Schmass does the half century in 27 seconds.

Water polo is now claiming the attention of the swimmers at the Meatinah club. Instructor Jack Cudy has issued the call for candidates for the club team and will at the same time form the Winged M water polo house league. There are enough good swimmers at the club to form four teams.

Cody expects to arrange games with University of Oregon and Oregon State cultural college teams later in the season.

PASTORS' CRITICISM MET

RABBI WISE HOLDS LIBRARY CANNOT MEET DEMANDS.

Different Set of Books for Each Minister Would Be Necessary, Declares Director.

The impossibility of supplying requests for books on religion and theology, was discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the library board last night. There is not a general demand for these books, it was stated, but ministers often complain that books which they desire are not in the library. It developed from the librarian's report.

"We couldn't begin to supply all the books that would be asked for," said Rabbi Joseph B. Wise, who is a member of the board. "We would have to get a different set for each minister. Ministers of different denominations can't go into each other's private libraries without starting to argue. We have even had objections to various religious encyclopedias in the library, to which members of some sects offer objections."

More new library cards were taken out during October than ever before in the history of the library. Miss Anne Mulheron, librarian, reported. There also has been a gain of 20,429 in the number of books in circulation during the last month over October, 1920.

Books on disarmament are most in demand at the present time, stated Miss Mulheron, and many requests for magazines on golf are being received.

Among the new members of the library staff are Miss Marjorie Forbis, who is temporarily in the reference department, and Miss Mae Niemis, who is in the school department.

Plans for children's book week and for the local music week are being formulated by the librarian and the board.

REPUBLICANS BACK FAIR

COUNTY COMMITTEE UNANIMOUSLY INDORSSES PROJECT.

More Than 100 Members Gather at Auditorium—Benefits to Entire State Seen.

The republican county committee is behind the 1925 exposition. This was made known last night, when 100 members of the committee met in the municipal auditorium and unanimously indorsed the fair.

Among the speakers were Judge Evans, William Meier, J. D. M. Crookwell, Joe Dunne, Mrs. F. O. Northrup and Stanfield Macdonald of Portland, and J. S. Hudson and ex-Mayor Larson of Troutdale.

These speakers advocated the 1925 exposition on the ground that it would benefit the entire state.

The Multnomah county republican central committee has always worked for movements of benefit to the state, and John L. Day, county chairman, "and I urge that we go on record as supporting the 1925 fair."

Mr. Dunne proposed a resolution in which it was declared that the county central committee support only such candidates for the state legislature as would make an announcement to the state primary law that would permit county central committees to indorse or disapprove of candidates. This was adopted unanimously.

LA PINE BUILDINGS BURN

Hotel, Confectionery and Pool Hall Are Destroyed.

LA PINE, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Fire discovered this evening at 8:45 o'clock destroyed the La Pine hotel, managed by Mrs. Beasley, and a confectionery store and pool hall in the building adjoining, owned and operated by Henry Cavanaugh. The hotel was a two-story frame structure valued at about $10,000. The other building was one-story and wood construction. It was valued at about $7000. Insurance on both properties aggregated $2000.

The fire originated in a fire of the hotel and spread rapidly. For a time it looked as if the entire business section of the town would be swept away by the fire, owing to a high wind, but the wind veered at the right time and the citizens were enabled to confine the flames to their original bounds.

The contents of the hotel were practically destroyed. Some of the furnishings were saved in the early stage of the fire, but the flames and heat soon cut off the work of salvagers. The contents of the confectionery store and pool room were destroyed.

The fire spread with remarkable rapidity to the hotel and to the adjoining building. Most of the hotel patrons were absent and those who were in their rooms succeeded in escaping with their personal effects. Those who were not in their rooms lost their personal property.

ASSESSORS CHANGE VIEW

OPPOSITION TO INCOME TAX REVERSED OVER NIGHT.

County Officials Go on Record As Favoring Proposal to Increase Revenues.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Opposition to an income tax which crapped out here yesterday changed over night, and today the county assessors in annual session went on record favoring this sort of a levy as a means of raising additional revenue.

The assessors refused to suggest any definite legislation with relation to the proposed tax, but said they would co-operate with the so-called committee of taxation should the latter body decide that a levy on incomes is fair, to the end of defraying governmental expense. A lengthy discussion preceded the adoption of the resolution favoring the tax.

The committee on taxation was appointed by Governor Olcott several months ago to investigate and determine means for raising additional revenue. I. N. Day of Portland is chairman of the committee.

It was brought out at today's meeting of the assessors that some action should be taken to make available for taxation bonds and other securities. It was said that many thousands dollars' worth of these securities go untaxed for the reason that they cannot be located by the assessor.

ROAD LEVY RECOMMENDED

MEETING OF TAXPAYERS OF OREGON CITY IS HELD.

Special 2 1/2 Mills Marks First Definite Step in Outlining Municipal Expenditures.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Recommendation of a special road levy of 2 1/2 mills for district 1, Oregon City, marks the first definite step in outlining municipal expenditures for 1922.

At a meeting of taxpayers yesterday the budget committee appointed by the county court was authorized to apportion approximately $7500 which could be raised by such a tax. The budget as prepared by the committee will be acted upon at a meeting of the voters of the district November 28.

In discussing the problem at the meeting it was pointed out that the funds, amounting to nearly $38,000, which will be required for the Oregon City-West Lin bridge, and the possible extra expenditures needed to keep traffic open, will seriously deplete the street budget if taken care of out of the general road fund.

The Oregon City district has never voted a special road tax. It receives approximately $17,000 in the general road fund from the county. This money in the past has been used largely for the improvement of important main artery streets, and the city council has under way a comprehensive programme for the pav-

SECOND DIVORCE ASKED

Beatrice and Wilfred Keyser Again Wrecked on Matrimonial Seas.

The second attempt of Beatrice and Wilfred Keyser to live together happily as man and wife has been unsuccessful, a divorce complaint being filed in the circuit court by the wife yesterday. It was her second divorce suit. She was married to Keyser June 23, 1915, in the first instance, and divorced him in September, 1920. She was remarried to him June 25, 1921, but regrets her change of heart.

Keyser knocked his wife down and beat her, passed days and nights in the company of another woman and even took the photograph of their 11-year-old daughter Dorothy to this woman, complained Mrs. Keyser. On October 26 he deserted her, she asserted. Alimony of $10 a month was asked.

Other divorce suits filed were: Celia R. against Nathaniel S. Richards, Netie against Frank Barton and Augusta against John Nauha.
