

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

WHEN telephone calls told the news that the bridge tournament planned for yesterday afternoon and evening had to be postponed, the social programme of about 250 society folk and bridge enthusiasts was changed suddenly. Of course, they couldn't play bridge without cards, and, as the cards sent from Lafayette, Ind., two weeks ago didn't arrive in time, there was nothing to do but put the party off to a later date. And so next Monday the tournament will take place. It will be in the Benson hotel, as originally arranged. Several additional tables were engaged yesterday and Miss Annie Blanche Shelby, chairman, hopes to have almost 100 tables by the day of the event.

The principal event of social interest for this week will be the annual subscription ball to be given on Friday night in the Benson hotel, with a group of young society matrons as patronesses. Several dinners will precede the main function.

Invitations will be issued soon for a formal reception for which the president and faculty of the Hill Military academy will be hosts in compliment to Captain Earl Fiegel, U. S. Army, Mrs. Fiegel, who have arrived from Texas. Captain Fiegel has been detailed by the war department as professor of military education at the academy. The reception will be December 9 at 175 North Twenty-fourth street.

Mrs. Frank Catlin (nee Hazel Conrad), with her little son Conrad, has come from Corvallis for an extended visit with her mother, Mrs. Ida Conrad, 481 1/2 East Couch street. Mrs. Conrad was widely known in East Portland before her removal to Corvallis.

Miss Helen Killen of Hillsboro will leave today for a trip to the east and a visit of several months with her brother, Lieutenant W. D. Killen, at Fort Washington, Md. Miss Killen will be the house guest of Captain and Mrs. Thomas Brand.

Pilgrim church will have an apron and fancywork sale Wednesday afternoon and night at Mission avenue and Shaver street. Dinner will be served from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The Oregon yacht club gave its Thanksgiving dance Saturday night. Miss Pearl Stapp, daughter of Isaac E. Stapp, played the violin. E. P. Gerin and his committee have plans under way for a Christmas tree party. Some pleasant surprises are in store for members and their friends.

The women of the Transfiguration mission, at East Fifteenth and Division streets, a branch chapel of St. David's Episcopal church, will give an individual booth at St. David's bazaar to be held in the Hotel Portland tomorrow forenoon, afternoon and evening.

material. What should I use for a vest? Also how could I widen the sleeves at the bottom? I am a constant reader of your answers and enjoy them much. I hope for an early reply, as I am very anxious to get my dress made. Thanking you.

MRS. B. H. W. Raymond, Wash. Your letter with the enclosed picture was received and answered and in some unaccountable way was lost in the filing. I am indeed sorry that you have had this long wait.

Place your jacket back over a pattern which has the blouse type of line and where the fullness is not found in your jacket is not sufficient to conform with the line of the pattern piece between your back pieces. A fitted piece of duvetyne in a reingear shade and either braid these set-ins with dark blue soutache or outline an allover design in summer beads. Let the front of your jacket blouse covering the seam with a hand cut in one with a vest of duvetyne trimming them as the back strips in soutache or beading. By turning back the coat fronts you can cut to the desired width. Use a two color which in your first letter you mentioned wanting. Embroider over the panel pockets in a miniature panel effect. The term "brocade" as here given is meant to trim as the waist is treated. You will find a very good pattern dress in your dressmaker should you follow the above made suggestions. I might add in conclusion that a very narrow girde of duvetyne which would be permissible, although this is not necessary.

Lebanon, Or., Nov. 26.—Madame Rebet: I have a navy blue serge dress like yours and I would like to brighten it and add a collar.

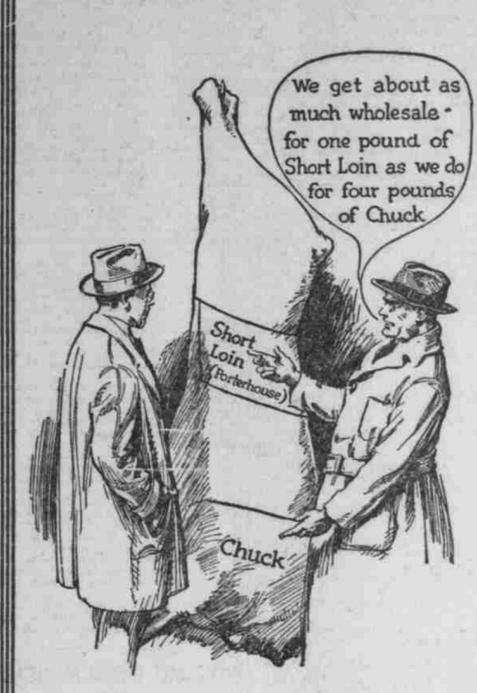

The vest is tucked serge and looks well. My idea is to add embroidery around the collar with red in it. It is worked in silk. If you have a better idea I'd be glad to use it. You seem to have many wonderful plans for other folk's wear.

What kind of collar shall I use? There is a narrow belt coming from side seam in the back and ends loop over. It is made of the serge. Thanking you very much I shall eagerly await your reply.

MRS. N. J. R. Mrs. N. J. H. Lebanon, Or.: The lines of your serge are splendid and with a little patient labor you will have a very interesting frock. The tucked vest is good and would suit a white or four-inch border around the coat's outline and the neck as well for it will give you the collar effect without too many combinations of fabrics. The border should be an allover band design done in burleso silk in a combination of cherry, blue green and tan and a small motif here and there done in gunmetal beads now very popular. The girde ends would be effective if finished with two tassels made of silk as used on waist. I trust that you will find satisfaction and pleasure in your "reached-up" dress.

Red Cross Chairman Re-elected. LA GRANDE, Or., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Mrs. DeWitt was re-elected chairman of the Union county chapter of the American Red Cross by the recently elected executive committee. Other officers elected by the committee to serve during the ensuing year are as follows: J. H. Pearce, vice-chairman; T. J. Scroggin, treasurer; Mrs. Donald M. Fagan, secretary; and A. C. Hampton, chairman of the Junior Red Cross division. The present officers of the organization will be utilized for a third shop this winter.

Choice Cuts —and Others

A few months ago a newspaper man visited one of the wholesale markets of Swift & Company. He wanted to see a retailer buy a short loin of beef and then watch the retailer sell the porterhouse and sirloin steaks from it over his counter. He thought this would make a good story.

The head of the market took the reporter into the "cooler" where he showed him a high class side of beef. With a wooden skewer he marked off the short loin and said, "That is only 8 per cent of the weight of the whole side and it is selling for four times as much as this piece (and he marked off the "chuck," which is about one-fourth of the side of beef)."

The wide variation in the wholesale price of various cuts from the same side of beef is caused largely by demand for the so-called choicer cuts. The others are, of course, just as wholesome.

It seems as though more people than ever are demanding choicer cuts, and their demand sets the price. If few people ask for the fore-quarter cuts, the price of fore-quarters will automatically drop to a figure low enough to induce people to buy because of cheapness.

Even though certain cuts sell for relatively high prices, other cuts, due to lack of demand, sell so low that our profit from all sources over a period of five years averaged only a fraction of a cent a pound.

It is competition between consumers for the choicer cuts that keeps prices for those cuts relatively high; an equalizing demand for all parts of the carcass would benefit producer, packer, retailer and consumer.

Our average wholesale selling price of all products has fallen about 40 per cent since September 1920.

"Well, old man, you're looking pretty nifty and healthy. You all dressed up in a new overcoat."
"I'll let you in on the secret, Bob. I needed a new coat and I was all fed up on half-off sales and clearances. Well, I was minus funds and one of the boys at the office told me I could get out of my coat and buy them a little each pay-day, and furthermore, my payments didn't begin till after the first of the year. Did I jump at the chance? I'll say I did! You should see the assortment of both coats and suits that they have.
