Sample one will combine with either a silk poplin or a taffeta of dark blue, Make a one-piece slipon dream tha long wide sleeves (kimono type) under arm, waist and back collar to be of the dotted material; the lower portion of the walat, back panel and sides of the V front are of the plain blue; also the skirt. Wear with this a girdle of blue kid matching your material, the cross line in front to be a novelty of "sliver" chains and buckle. A vest of batiste finely tucked would seem the nicest thing for the vest and can be of blue or white.

Sample two will combine charmingly in the manner suggested and I would suggest that you finish all edges, such as sleeves, neck and sides of walst, with a border design done in silver thread. Can you not picture the very dainty combination?

Sample three will prove a real com-terial, have the vest of the same, in not, choose one of satin to match and use narrow band of the satin to side the braid in place of the worsted This suggestion is made so that too many combinations do not occur. In the event that you use the satin, use but one band on either side and have it no more than half inch in width.
