Formal Action to Be Taken Until Session When Problem Will Be Attacked.

That Riverview Cemetery association lot owners will authorize the programme outlined briefly by Strong & MacNaughton in a report to a committee of five members, read at a meeting in central library last Monmittee of five members, read at a meeting in central library last Monday afternoon, in an effort to rehabilitate the financial condition of the organization, appears to be the prevailing sentiment since the sension, when it was made known publicly for the first time that its affairs were in a very unsatisfactory shape. No formal action will be taken until next Monday at 3 colock, when an adjourned meeting will endeavor to iron out the situation.

Strong & MacNaughton made a report at the request of the association's authorized committee of five lot owners, none of whom are trustees. This they did gratis for the purpose of endeavoring to provide some definition method of rehabilitation of the sinusces. Deficit Now in $17,812. There is a present net deficit of $17,812, the report states. In the opinion of the compilers of the report, this deficit may be met as follows: Up to December 20, 1921, lots were sold to the extent of $16,121. If prices are increased 50 per cent, in accordance with one of the minor recommendations, the 1922 sales would yield $24,186 and the operating deficit will disappear. In case this disappear, in case this disappear, in case this disappear. In case this deficit will disappear. In case this is done, it will be necessary to push is done, it will be necessary to push sales, and this is urged. There are at present unsold lots to the amount of $35,000, which should be increased to list $142,000 under the plan submitted. This would provide sufficient funds to care for operating deficit until the liquidation programme on unimproved lands is worked out.

As to the land to be liquidated, the report says it should be done substantially in four years' time.

"We will attempt no analysis of the reason why the cemetery association finds itself in its present finan-cial condition, as the purpose of this report is to point out ways of cor-recting this condition. We do want to report is to point out ways recting this condition. We do want to say, however, that the fault lies in the far past in that the prices established for the lots was not sufficiently high to produce the money necessary to carry out the plan which was laid out. There have been issued and unre-Geemed bonds to the extent of $115.-000, maturing July 1, 1930, according to the report. All of these have been purchased and are now held by the association, and, says the report, show on both sides of the assets and liabilities statement. It is held that there is no practical reason why these bonds should not be retired and canceled and the property deeded to the cemetery association by the trustees cemetery association by the trustees under the mortgage.

Why Cemeteries Are Transitory

In practically every large city the history of cemeteries is dismally the same. First comes financial embarrassment, second neglect, and then destruction, to make way for the needs of the

By their very natures it can be hardly otherwise, because cemeteries cannot give our dead the tender care and the lasting protection that are the due of every loved one.

The reasons are obvious. First, they who rest in cemeteries are prey to the merciless and unheeding elements. Secondly, succeeding generations have no compunctions if their interests are best served by a cemetery's obliteration.

These facts go far toward explaining why thinking people are turning to the modern, cleanly and reverent methods-Cremation or Vault Entombment. It explains, too, why many are removing their dead from cemeteries for the tender and PERMA-NENT PROTECTION these incomparably better ways afford.
