Household Problems
by Lillian Tinglo

My Dear Miss Tinglo: I am inclosed a recipe for doughnuts which I doubt quite a while ago and now asked for by one of my friends. I am sure you will enjoy reading your column in the paper, for it is always to be found something helpful.

The official recipe for the Salvation Army doughnuts is as follows: Five cups flour, two cups of sugar, five teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two eggs, one tablespoon lard, one and three-quarters cups milk. This makes four dozen doughnuts. The recipe for family use would be to use one cup of butter instead of lard if desired. A dash of nutmeg is also a pleasant addition.

Some cooks say it is in the making, others that it is in the frying, which makes for success in doughnut cooking, but the recipe is a 50-50 proposition. The dough must be thoroughly kneaded, rolled smooth, and the rings cut the exact thickness, a quarter of an inch, and rings gently dipped into the hot fat, which must be hot enough to smoke, but not burn the dough. A long-handled fork is used to turn the rings. They should be fried until they are a golden brown, and dusted with powdered sugar.

Many thanks, both for the recipe and for your kind words. I hope Mrs. T. A. B. will see the above.

Problems of Dressmaking
by Adam Richer

DONALD, Or., Jan. 2.—Dear Madam: I have read your useful and interesting column and find many of my perplexing problems solved.

Now I wish to ask your advice about a dress I have made. The material is a midnight blue broadcloth. I enclosed a sketch of the dress I made. It is a broadcloth to be a favorite material for the winter. Thanking you in advance. With all good wishes, MRS. F. M. LEE, Donald, Or.

M design as shown is so attractive and I would carry it out as per the picture, using black chenille and the lighter material to complete the trimming combination. Broadcloth has the happy faculty of always looking well in all seasons where many materials are. It is a very safe choice for a few months. You will find your dress a real comfort in the early spring when the coat is too warm and the lighter material is needed.

Thank you for the kindly greeting.

THE DALLIES, Or., Jan. 3.—Dear Madam: I have read your column with interest and find many of my perplexing problems solved. I have a dress made of a material which I have enclosed a sketch of. The material is a light blue broadcloth. It is a very safe choice for a few months. You will find your dress a real comfort in the early spring when the coat is too warm and the lighter material is needed.

purrl of the chief melodies of the work, and the book of the opera made thoroughly French by the librettist, the underlying story is a German tale of enduring and universal interest—that of "Mignon" as related in Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister." The world will always love to listen to the words of longing she sings to her beloved—

Knowest thou the land where the oranges grow?
The days with thee I would wander.

After a short introduction by woodwinds and harp, the air of this lovely song is heard in the overture. It is followed by the famous Polonaise, "In Thine Arms" being the opera by Filina, the coquette who broke Mignon's heart.

The "Evening Reverie," by Salnt-Saens, and tender little "Song Without Words," by Tschakovsky, complete the list of tomorrow evening's offerings.

JURY PROBLEM IS SEEN
STATUTE FAVORING WOMEN HELD ADDED BURDEN.

Rural Communities Are Believed to Face Additional Expense in Conduct of Courts.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Jan. 11.—(Special.)—Lack of co-ordination on the part of legislators in the preparation and adoption of an amendment to the law providing for a venire of jurors and the women's jury law, may, in case of increased and serious criminal cases, result in a heavy overdraw of the Hood River county general fund before next year. Attorneys, circuit court officials and members of the county court have engaged in a speculative discussion of the amendment to the laws as to just where the two inharmonious laws may lead. The women's jury law was referred to the legislature to the people and adopted last June.

The impracticability of the new laws, and the necessity of applying them together, it is said, is causing great worry in every county of the state. The amendment, pertaining to an elimination of the special venire procedure, as formerly practiced, had its origin in Multnomah county, where courts desired to be free from hanging on who frequently attended the courts seeking jury service. The law, it is said, would have served its purpose had it been limited to the thickly populated jurisdiction. Applied to the sparsely settled rural districts, where citizens reside at great distances apart, the new law, it is feared, will work exceedingly harshly and result in an unnecessary, heavy expense. It is all the more complicated when it is found it must be applied in conjunction with the choice of women on juries in the special cases where they are eligible.

Symphony Programme Has Delightful Numbers.
Folk and Patriotic Selections Are Chosen for Big Concert.

BY CAVERLY BEAUMONT.

AS BEFITTS a popular concert sponsored by the City club, the programme to be played by the Portland symphony orchestra at the municipal auditorium tomorrow evening features a composition of folk music or appeal to the spirit of patriotism. To the latter class belong "The Carillon" (Psal of Bells), by Saint-Saens, and the "Patrie" (Homeland) overture, by Bizet, while folk melodies suggested the themes for the dances, "L'Arlésienne Suite" (No. 1), German's "Nell Gwyn Dances" and Brahms' "Hungarian Dances."

The suite, one of the most attractive moulds into which the modern composer is tempted to cast his musical thought and the programme presents two of these groups in combined pieces in varying rhythms and moods. The first, which is French and which was composed by Bizet to illustrate a romantic drama by Alphonse Daudet, "L'Arlésienne" (The Woman of Arles), consists of a prelude founded on a provincial Christmas song, a dainty minuet, an adagio for strings alone, and a finale, "The Carillon" (Psal of Bells). The second suite was written by an Englishman, Edward German. It also was composed to illustrate the English folk tunes, but follows the conventions of the classic suite in that it is a group of dances, "Pastorale Dance," "Pastorale Dance" and "Merry-makers' Dance." Friendship for Edward Remenyi, the Hungarian violinist, led Brahms, the great German composer of absolute music, to become so interested in Hungarian music that he wrote four books of Hungarian dances. The orchestra will play two of the most characteristic of these dances—No. 5 and No. 6.

The opening number of the programme is the overture to Thomas opera, "Mignon." Although this overture is in the Italian style (a por-party to be given by the social club of Friendship chapter has been changed to Tuesday, January 31, both bridge and 500 will be played.

To keep juicy pies from soaking the crust

—bake them in a glass plate in a hot oven with the heat coming from below. The glass heats quickly and bakes the lower crust before the juice can soak in. Reduce the heat to finish baking the pie.

There are remedies as simple as this for every one of your pastry troubles. Using Crisco for shortening will prevent many of them. Crisco helps to prevent tough pastry because it is the richest shortening and works into the dough with little handling. It prevents indigestible pastry because it is a healthful vegetable product. It prevents all greasy taste because it has neither taste nor odor; its delicacy permits the full flavor of the pie filling to prevail. This modern cooking fat is unlike anything you have tried. Use it for all your cooking and see how much it improves everything you make.

BERRY PIE

2 tablespoons Crisco 1 tablespoon flour
1 generous pint berries 1/2 teaspoonful salt
1 cupful sugar Plain Crisco pastry

Line the plate with part of the plain pastry, letting it emerge 1/4 inch beyond the plate; roll the rest of the pastry into a thin sheet, spread one-half with one tablespoonful of the Crisco and fold the other half of the pastry over the Crisco; spread the other tablespoonful of Crisco over half of this paste and fold to cover the shortening; pat and roll into a long strip; fold three times and roll it to the finger paste; make a few slits in the center. Turn the berries and other ingredients into the pastry-lined plate, brush the edge with cold water, set the second piece of the paste in place, pressing the edges close together; set to bake in an oven hot on the bottom; bake about half an hour.
