

LAST DATE ON LAND FILINGS MARCH 10

Veterans Urged to Apply Soon for Washington Tracts.

MANY OPTIONS OBTAINED

State to Spend About $4500 to Prepare Each 20-Acre Tract for Farming and Living.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., Jan. 12.—Veterans of the world war who desire to participate in the state of Washington's first land settlement experiment must file their applications with the state department of conservation and development not later than March 10.

Many Options Obtained. Since the decision was made the department of conservation and development has gathered in all the available state and school lands within the project area.

The veteran who applies for a tract of this land must be married, and his wife must signify her interest in farming. The state is to be secured as far as possible against any misapplication of domestic funds.

$4500 to Be Spent on Tract. The land is to be sold to the veterans in 20-acre tracts, and it is estimated that $4500 will be spent by the state to put each tract in proper condition for farming and for living.

JURY IS OBTAINED TO TRY CIRCUS CASE

Vanderveer Handles Defense at Vancouver.

COURT TRIES MILK CASE

Issue Involves Delivery to Other Than Dairymen's Association.

FOUR WITNESSES HEARD

Taking of Testimony Against Roy Moore and Bert Orcutt Is Started at Trial.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—In the second day of the trial of Roy Moore and Bert Orcutt, charged with robbing the Sells-Floto circus of about $30,000 on the night of September 16, George F. Vanderveer, E. W. W. attorney, appeared on the scene and took up the defense of the accused men.

Henry Clay Agnew, who had delayed the opening of the trial nearly two days by divers motions, demurrers and technicalities, remained to assist Mr. Vanderveer. He had questioned a number of the jurors when the case was finally called late yesterday.

The jury was obtained at about 4 o'clock and the evidence of four witnesses was taken before court adjourned at 5 o'clock.

Jury Members Announced. Following are the names of the members of the jury who are to try the case:

A. L. Hanks, farmer; La Vern McIvry, farmer; Ray S. Simpson, farmer; Mrs. Gertrude Burke-Ward, housewife; W. C. Yoes, former carman and now garage man; H. B. Lockwood, carpenter and farmer; Mrs. E. E. Richards, housewife; Mrs. Beate Adams, housewife; Mrs. Dwight A. Parish, housewife; Mrs. Lulu A. Lighty, housewife; and Anna W. Ryland, lumberman, former service man and lieutenant in the air service.

All witnesses were ordered to leave the courtroom and not to confer on the trial. Two exceptions were made: Mrs. Moore, wife of the defendant, and John W. Schaefer, county clerk, were allowed to remain in the courtroom.

Defendants Also Take Oath. When the witnesses stood up, both defendants arose with them and took the oath.

A. L. Miller made the opening statement to the jury.

Arthur Beadle was the first witness. He told of three men going to a garage on West Third street the morning of the robbery, two of whom he said were Moore and Orcutt.

John T. McGonigal, proprietor of the Imperial hotel, identified three signatures made about 2 o'clock in the morning of the same day as the robbery. He saw two of the men register. No cross-examination.

H. V. Broadhead, the third witness, told of three men coming to his shop on West Eighth street, two of them standing outside while the third one entered and asked to buy a gun.

Vanderveer passed much time cross-examining the witness.

C. S. Thompson, one of the jurors, was the fourth witness and was put on out of order that he might register to his business. He had a book in which he had the names of the other defendants was shown as being one of his patrons. Vanderveer objected to the manner in which Mr. Thompson was asked to testify before the jury. The book was entered as evidence and one page was marked for identification.
