

Society News

MISS MARIE E. JOHNSTON yesterday announced her engagement to Dr. John E. Pederson of Seattle. The news was told at a tea given by Mrs. E. Gieseker, mother of the bride-elect, who is at the Wickersham apartments for the winter.

MRS. GUY WEBSTER TALBOT, A BOX HOLDER FOR "OUR CITY'S BALL," WEDNESDAY NIGHT, AUDITORIUM.

A kitchen shower was given by Mrs. J. Fred G. Facer at her home, 579 Liberty street, the afternoon of Thursday, in honor of Miss Estel Kemmen, bride-elect.

The time passed enjoyably at games and merry-making. The rooms were daintily decorated in pink and green, bluebirds being used here and there in effective manner.

The bride-elect was showered with many useful and beautiful gifts. Refreshments were served at four, those present at the tables in addition to the hostess and the guest of honor being: Mrs. R. A. Poffenberger, Mrs. O. B. Wais, Mrs. Mayne Rice, Mrs. George Francis, Mrs. Nell M. Cox, Mrs. G. M. Cleveland, Mrs. L. W. Hill, Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Mrs. Chester A. Remsen, Mrs. Fred Low, Mrs. H. Miller, Mrs. J. Eastham, Mrs. H. Kelsey, Miss Sylvia Hamann, Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Mrs. Jay Lamberton.

Announcements were made of the marriage of Miss Catherine Heufert, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Heufert, 614 Leland street, and Alvah T. Weston, December 25. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. P. Youngblood in the Holy Redeemer church.

The wedding was beautiful in its appointments. Ropes of greens, potted and cut poinsettias and red carnations predominated in the decorations, where a reception was given in the afternoon to the older invited guests and members of the family. At night the younger folks danced in a bower of palms. The bride and groom departed for Seattle and British Columbia on their honeymoon. Both young people are well known in Portland, where they have lived practically all their lives.

Miss Heufert attended St. Mary's academy and Mr. Weston is a graduate of Washington high school and the University of Washington. He is a member of Psi Upsilon national college fraternity.

showing a slightly fitted line at the waist, although the waist is very long, and so for your satin I would advise following this line and have an extremely short sleeve, more of the shoulder cap cut as a kimono type. An oval neck, rather low in front and round in the back, down which the waist is fastened with black jet buttons. The skirt should be cut as a wide front and back apron, meeting at the sides and falling in longer points at the skirt's bottom edge. An under strip of silver cloth would be very attractive at this point and especially so if you will wear your "aprons" in steel embellishment, choosing a daring figure for the rather full skirt defect.

With so wide an apron treatment and the under strips of the silver you will not require an under drop. The neck and sleeves will be grateful for an outlining of the beads, but let the real feature of that trim fall to the skirt.

The black taffeta for the little girl can be made into a chick type of frock by placing here and there on the rather full skirt of round necked, short-sleeved blouse a rose and leaf motif made of scarlet red kid and held in place by outlining in the blanket stitch, using the black celeste silk. Bind the neck and sleeves with a strip of the kid or worsted.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—Dear Madam: I have been reading your articles in the Oregonian for some time and think you have given such good suggestions for making over old style clothes into new and attractive garments, that I wish you would help me plan a new dress out of my old one. It is a navy blue crepe, one piece, straight line, long tight sleeves, which belt placed low around hips, and a center of back with row of buttons between the bust and waist.

Now I intend to buy some more material as I want the skirt to be a little longer than the bodice and there is some thread embroidery on belt, which will come in extremely pretty effect may be procured by banding them in the scheme of the silk and bead work, six inches above the bottom edge of skirt and banding the serge across the front and back at the bottom line, using for all a six-inch band pattern.

Remove the tucks, steam and press and let the neck line have but a touch of the bead and silk, using the running stitch for this feature. If the neck is not too low, I would rather see it round, but that must depend upon the present line as all necks are higher than last season, even in the evening gowns. Have your girle of the satin and not more than an inch wide. Should you not care to give the time to the beading you could use your buttons as a spotting here and there, but the result will not be as attractive as that which is always to be found in the bead trim.

business in Portland and is well known among the newspaper and advertising profession in Portland and Seattle. At present he is associated with the Advertising Service Bureau as the Oregon representative for Young & McCallister of Los Angeles.

Mrs. George Rae left last week for California, where she will be entertained in Oakland, Berkeley and San Francisco. She will sail for Honolulu January 18, accompanied by Mrs. Herman Metzger of San Francisco. They expect to leave the islands the last of April. Mrs. Rae will return to Portland the latter part of May or the first of June.

Thursday night Mrs. Christine Anderson, district deputy president, and Mrs. Grace Christianson, deputy marshal, assisted by a staff of 20, installed the officers of Utopia Rebekah lodge No. 62. Those installed were: Mrs. Bertha Meyer, noble grand; Mrs. Alice Van Natta, vice grand; Miss Jessie Henderson, secretary; William Breitinger, treasurer; Mrs. Lydia Quimby, right supporter; noble grand; Mrs. Christine Anderson, left supporter to the noble grand; Mrs. Helen Davenport, conductor; Miss Mary Richmond, war-governor; Mrs. Adeline Kimbel, chaplain; Mrs. Lulu Sluder, right supporter to the vice grand; Mrs. A. E. Peake, left supporter to vice grand; Mrs. Jessie Greve, installed guardian; N. P. Tomlinson, outside guardian.

Miss B. Woermelsdorf was appointed musician; Mrs. Jennie Klatter, captain. At the close of lodge all retired to the banquet hall, where an excellent lunch had been prepared by the committee. K. C. Van Natta was in charge.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Miller left yesterday for Montreal, where Dr. Miller will attend a conference of representatives of dental schools of America. They plan to visit in Chicago, Philadelphia and New York before returning to Portland.

The women of St. Ignatius parish will give a card party Wednesday at 8:15 P. M. in their hall, 3220 East Forty-third street, Southeast. The committee includes Mrs. J. Kuhlman, Mrs. E. Kleis, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. A. Johnson, Mrs. E. Hansen, Mrs. J. Meehan, Mrs. N. Meehan and Mrs. F. Lyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Johnson entertained Friday at a dinner for 24, preceding the Irvington club's dance. The Bunny club held an informal dancing party Tuesday and will entertain again tomorrow night in Manchester hall.

Mrs. J. R. Bowles left yesterday for a motor trip to California.

Does your shortening stay fresh, even without ice?

If you have ever tried to make a fine cake with cooking butter which was beginning to turn stale, you will appreciate the absolute necessity for fresh shortening.

Expert cooks insist upon Crisco because it is a standard product on whose freshness one can rely anytime and anywhere. It contains no preservatives, adulterants, salt or moisture—just pure vegetable oil of the highest grade, hardened to creamy consistency by the special Crisco process which prevents rancidity. Simply keep it in a cool place until you need it.

- Try Crisco in this recipe SILVER NUT CAKE 1 cupful sugar 3/4 cupful Crisco 4 whites of eggs 3/4 teaspoonful vanilla extract 2 cupfuls flour 3/4 teaspoonful salt 3 teaspoonfuls baking powder 1 cupful chopped pecans or English walnut meats 3/4 cupful milk

Cream Crisco and sugar. Sift dry ingredients and add to Crisco mixture, alternating with the milk; add nuts and vanilla extract. Beat egg whites to stiff froth and fold in at last. Turn into Criscoed and floured cake tin and bake in moderate oven thirty-five minutes. Sufficient for one small cake.

CRISCO For Frying-For Shortening For Cake Making

Do you know the knack of successful baking? This book will teach you. It gives complete directions for mixing and baking cakes, cookies and shortbreads—also 615 original recipes by Marion Harris Neil, formerly cookery editor of the Ladies' Home Journal. Contains a complete dinner menu for every day of the year—365 in all. Illustrated and cloth bound. You may have one copy by sending coupon and 10c in stamps.

Name Address P. O. State Do you use Crisco now?

The Procter & Gamble Co., Dept. of Home Economics, Cincinnati, Ohio. Please send postpaid, "A Calendar of Dinners." I enclose 10c in stamps.

Women's Activities

A special meeting of the St. Johns W. C. T. U. at its meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock, called for the home of Mrs. George Atchison, 1620 Williams-ette boulevard. An address will be given by Mrs. Helen Davenport, state superintendent of the American Red Cross work, and Mrs. L. L. Vincent, vice president of the Multnomah county union, will speak. Special music will be rendered by Mesdames Nourse, Olson and Callahan.

After several years of service as president of the Sellwood Lavender club, Mrs. Fronia Staples has retired from that position, and Elizabeth Heufert has succeeded her. A handsome brooch, set with her birthstone, the new officers just installed are: Mrs. M. E. Hays, president; Mrs. Louise Beard, vice president; Mrs. Jennie Bauer, secretary; Mrs. Mary Weyant, treasurer. Mrs. Alice Smith, of the Peninsula club, and Mrs. Brown, of the East Side club, were the installing officers. The club meets at the Sellwood community house.

Kerns Parent-Teacher association will meet tomorrow at 7:30 P. M. in the school assembly. The association has invited the daddies of the community to attend this gathering. Mr. Whitney, assistant superintendent of schools, will speak on "Higher Education," and Mr. Brockway will talk on "Parental Responsibility." There will be music and a one-reel film on the community chest drive. Refreshments will be served.

Cough Parent-Teacher association will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at 7 o'clock in the school assembly. An interesting programme will be presented and members are urged to attend, each bringing a cup and saucer.

Scott school Parent-Teacher association will hold its regular meeting this afternoon at 7 P. M. Mrs. Ralph Collett, president, will preside, and an interesting meeting is promised. All patrons of the school are invited.

Transfiguration Guild of Transfiguration Episcopal mission, East Fifth and Division streets, at its annual meeting, elected the following officers: Mrs. H. G. Pomeroy, vice president; Mrs. Charles Mowry, secretary; and Mrs. Benjamin Bulwinkle, treasurer.

Temple chapter, Eastern Star, conferred degrees on a class of seven candidates Thursday night. Mrs. Minnie C. Letson, worthy grand matron, paid the chapter a visit. There was also a large number of other grand officers and visitors present. All were enthusiastic in their praise of the work done by this new chapter, which was instituted November 9. Mrs. Mauda E. Bailey is worthy matron and J. N. Hart, worthy patron.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Jan. 15.—(Special)—T. P. Price corps, No. 18, Women's Relief corps, yesterday afternoon installed new officers for 1922. Mrs. Jennie Stout is the new president. J. S. Brown, of Rochester, past department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, acted as installing officer. The installation followed a dinner at the chamber of commerce, at which members of the Grand Army post and corps of Centralia were guests of the local corps. New officers of C. D. Spencer corps, No. 26, were installed Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Serena Elmendorf as president.

Problems of Dressmaking by Adam Richer

CENTRALIA, Wash., Jan. 5.—Dear Madam: Will you please help me decide on a smart way to have a black and dress made for evening wear, not too formal? I am medium fair as to complexion and am real slender, 24 years old. I have some real nice black satin (1 yard) and have thought of having it made into full skirt and fitted bodice with the skirt part made with panels of silver cloth. I don't like to be on kind of sleeve or neck line and am not sure this style would be correct. Will you please suggest something that would be rather chic? I also would appreciate very much some suggestions on a black taffeta dress for a little girl of seven, something to brighten up.

Man Chasing Girl Arrested. Eric Peterson, 25, miner, laid a $100 bill on the table beside him as he ate in a downtown cafeteria last night and one of two girls who were eating at a nearby table stole it as she went past him, he told the police. Peterson gave chase, catching in girl, but missing the restaurant door in the scramble. The girl then escaped and Peterson was arrested and jailed on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Mlle. Suzette announces the opening of her BEAUTY PARLOR and ELECTRIC BATHS at 412 Washington street MONDAY JAN. 16, 1922 We would appreciate an opportunity to prove our efficiency.

Household Problems by Lillian Tingle

PORTLAND, Or., Dec. 22.—My dear Miss Tingle: Will you please publish at your convenience the following recipes: (1) A meat loaf that contains beef and pork, and I think eggs and crumbs (cracker or bread); (2) baked beans; (3) egg noodles; (4) Manhattan salad with jelly; (5) cranberries that jelly; (6) pineapple cream pie; (7) lemon cream pie; (8) a raisin-and-egg bread with baking powder, and (9) could cocoa be substituted for chocolate in cake-baking? If so, how much to an ounce? I have a package of bran that its space is more desired than its presence. Could it be used in gems? Please do not refer me to recipes that have been published, as I am a stranger in your midst, and a very inexperienced cook, but will be one of your most faithful followers.

Thanking you and wishing you a very merry Christmas and a happy new year, I am, FROM IOWA.

I AM glad you find this column helpful. I am always particularly glad to help the inexperienced housewife and I will give the recipes for which you ask just as soon as space and time permits. Several of them have been given recently, so as you ask not to be referred to past dates, I must ask you to wait a little and watch this column. I should like to know, however, 1. What do you mean by Manhattan salad? The name is too vague. Or perhaps some reader may guess. There are several very different salads called by this rather meaningless name. 2. By "pineapple cream pie" do you mean (a) a pie made with a starchy custard, made with milk or water, and flavored with pineapple juice and grated pineapple, or (b) a pie with a rich, cooked pineapple "compote" basement and a "top story" of whipped cream or custard, (c) a Bavarian cream filling, made with cream gelatine and pineapple? All these and several others are called "pineapple cream pie."

3. What kind of a lemon pie? Made with cream, or milk, or water? And what the texture—smooth, or granular or fluffy?

As you confess to inexperience and date your letter Portland, may I offer the suggestion that you might do well to borrow and study some of the many excellent cook books available at the public library.

4. In substituting cocoa for chocolate in cake, taste is the best guide, as cocoa varies so much in strength and flavor. Usually from half to an ounce may be needed to replace one ounce of chocolate.

Cocoa does not exactly replace chocolate except in taste, as chocolate contains some fat and starch. This can usually be disregarded in the small amounts used, though some makers will put in an additional half teaspoon of fat and a teaspoon extra flour