Gendarmes, 6 feet tail, with lace and silver epaulets, stood watch at the entrance to the basilica, while the long lines between the two chapels were taken up by palatine guards in blue and ceries.

The cardinals entered the basilica through the Julian door and took their places in the chapel of the choir, seated in the high stalls on the left while the diplomats occupied the right. As Cardinal Gäsparri entered, escented by Swiss guard acolytes, he was honored as sovereign because of his accession as camerlengo. He appeared to be deeply moved, for Benedict XV was more than chief, he was his life-long and intimate friend.

The body was placed on the shoulders of the red-coated ushers and the solemn procession moved with measured steps, headed by a giant lieutenant of the gendarmerie, with drawn sword. Behind him were his stalwart gendarmes, six deep. An escort of palatine guards followed, and then the Next came the major prelates in robes of black and purple, then mem-bers of the Ancient Order of the Sword and Cape, in quaint medieval costumes with ruffled collars, gaiters and buckled slippers, then the high officers of the armed forces of the vatican in the order of their precedence.

Meanwhile the members of the Sa-cred college, bishops, archbishops and cred college, bishops, archbishops and diplomats had entered the chapel of the choir, with its high stalls rising along both sides of the attar. As they entered they took up their porsibly the department of agriculture.

BOME, Jan. 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—Beneath the flagatones of St. Peter's, where thousands of pilgrims of Benedict XV, whose benignant sforts throughout the war were directed toward peace, and after the war to the pacification of Europe and the perpetually burning tapers the body was fowered into its tomb. Those cardinals who had gathered here for the conclave which its to elect a new pope assembled in the basilica of St. Peter's, together with diplomatic representatives of the holy see. Outside the edifice great crowds knelt in prayer and waited for the end of the solemn ceremonial.

The choir proceeded from Julian chapel, on the south side of St. Peter's, across the transept to the chapel of the Holy Sacrament, where the body of the pope lay in state. Bishop Virili, celebrant of the ceremony, followed the choir and at the end of the procession came Cardinal Merry Del Val, archpriest of St. Peter's.

Two lines of guards were drawn up from the Chapel of the Holy Sacrament to the high pontifical altar, Swiss guards in full dress uniform, with quaint mediaeval helmet and flowing plumes, guarded the chor.

You've hankered for the taste of Maple -here it is!

> The flavor that first the Indians knew, and gave to the settlers in New England. It's the flavor of-LOG CABIN Syrup was Moqua, squaw of Woksis, who, the Indian legend tells us, first made syrup from the "sweet water" of the maple. And quite by accident she discovered it-

> But it is no legend that early settlers in New England learned the secret from the tribesmen-how, by boiling down the sap of the maple tree in early spring, there might be made a syrup of wondrous flavor-how, by further boiling, this sweetness might be concentrated in sugar that could be kept.

> in boiling moosemeat for her chieftain.

In many a Colonial household they knew no sweetening other than this maple syrup or maple sugar.

In the west, they longed for a taste of this springtime delicacy

But the pioneers who later ventured from those regions where the sugar maples grew-to them the flavor of maple was but a memory. And how they hankered for it!

Their cornmeal mush, their pancakes, waffles and desserts all called for maple. Nothing else would give them the right taste. Then, in the eighties, came Towle's Log Cabin Syrup. Instantly it sprang into favor. Ever since it has been the "Standard from Ocean to Ocean." For P. J. Towle found a way to produce a syrup of uniform maple flavor that was always clear and golden in color, and absolutely pure.

How Log Cabin gets its rich, unvarying flavor

He combined the choicest of New England maple with the best from Canadian groves-got the real sugars of maple in which the flavor is most intense. And he blended with this just enough pure sugar of cane-nothing else-to mellow and enhance that delicious maple taste.

That was Log Cabin years ago; that is Log Cabin today. It never varies.

For pancakes and wafflesand many other uses

Tomorrow morning have pancakes or waffles-with Log Cabin Syrup. And as you're pouring it on, notice how fragrant it is of the maple. Then taste it. The family won't blame you for smacking your lips!

That maple flavor will put new delight in hundreds of dishes from breakfast cereals to supper desserts the whole year around. Fritters, French toast, baked apples, candied sweet potatoes, puddings, cake frostings, ice cream and candies-all call for it.

'Phone your grocer now for a can of Log Cabin. You can be sure you get it, for it comes only in the distinctive log-cabin-shaped can-3 sizes.
