

ARRAYS PACT LABELED AT LINCOLN BANQUET

Justice Harris Pays Tribute to Martyr, at Seattle.

PARTY TRIUMPH PRAISED

Messages From President Harding and Vice-President Coolidge Honor Great Emancipator.

PUGET SOUND NEWS BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13.—Speaking before Republicans from all parts of the state of Washington at the annual Lincoln day banquet held here to-night, Lawrence T. Harris, justice of the Oregon supreme court, principal speaker of the evening, declared that the narrative of the works of Abraham Lincoln is never without profit to Americans, at the least of his life is the lesson of supreme impulses of patriotic duty.

The address of welcome was delivered by Thomas G. Hammond, president of the club, who, in closing, turned the meeting over to the toastmaster, Charles Hobbes of Spokane, chairman of the republican state committee. The only other speeches were by Robert M. Johnson, president of the King county republican committee, and Governor Hart.

The bugle call "Assembly" was blown by Miss Mildred Lincoln, a relative of the martyred president. Singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" was led by John Henry Lyons of Tacoma.

Tribute Paid to Emancipator.

In closing his address, Justice Harris said of Lincoln: "He left his impress upon the human race and his influence upon the soul of man. The house is not divided against itself; the union is not dissolved. That flag, brightened and illumined by Lincoln and sanctified by the blood of his patriots, is still the emblem of the union and the symbol of freedom and liberty. Before it kings, emperors and kaisers have fallen; tyrants have been bound and manacled, rapine and slaughter punished, and peace commanded; through it free government has been preserved and civilization saved; for it, the world holds respect, and under its guidance the human race has moved by the same impulses, striving for the same goal, cemented by the blood of its sons and united by the tears of its mothers, a nation of more than 100,000,000 human souls is moving on and ever on in fulfillment of a mission shaped by the hand of God. This government shall not perish from the earth, but shall endure as long as men may come and as long as men may go."

Republican Triumph Acclaimed.

The complete success of the international conference just closed at the capital was acclaimed not merely as a partisan success but as a victory for all forces enlisted in the effort to prevent war. This was the keynote of every speech delivered, and the gist of the messages that came by wire from republican leaders of the nation and the state.

The meeting expressed its satisfaction in prolonged applause at every reference to the fact that results of such tremendous potential benefit to all the world had been achieved through the instrumentality of the republican party and by a republican national administration.

In the whole temper of the gathering, that filled the big auditorium, as well as in specific utterances, direct reply was given to the recent reports of Mr. Hearst's Seattle Post-Intelligencer to moud public sentiment against the anti-war states, the national conference, and to induce senators from northwestern states to accept misinterpretations of the various treaties.

Efforts Are Without Success.

The answer is that these efforts have been without effect, that public opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of the conclusions reached by the international conference and for prompt ratification by the senate.

And in this respect the gathering voiced opinion as limited by party lines. The democratic state committee in session here Saturday, had fairly sensed the situation and to take advantage of every pretext for partisan hostility the democratic committeemen went no farther with the international conference than to recommend "earnest and careful consideration" of the various treaties. In this part of the meeting the only raised in opposition in the voice of Mr. Hearst and so one, republican or democrat, seems disposed to heed it.

Attendance Taxes Auditorium.

Always marked by due reverence for the occasion, with the principal address dealing with the life and work of Lincoln in a manner free from partisan prejudice, the Lincoln day banquet in this city has become the outstanding event of the year of the republicans of the state of Washington. The difficulty in recent years has been to obtain a meeting place large enough for all who wished to come.

President Sends Greetings.

In the messages and the greetings read by Bert A. Northrup, secretary of the club, first place was given to those received from the president and vice-president of the United States. President Harding's message was: "I know no more inspiring testimony to patriotic sentiments than is afforded by such celebrations as yours. The name of Lincoln always will occupy a particularly exalted place. The dispenser of states and to draw inspiration from the lessons of his career is one of the gratifying signs of our times. We need all the encouragement and inspiration which may be brought to the support of our country in these times and from no source will we get so effective support for the best sentiments of Americans than from the life of Lincoln."

Mr. Coolidge Praises Lincoln.

"No one can measure the inspiration which the life of Abraham Lincoln has lent to the people of America and the people of the world. There is not a struggling youth who, knowing of the life of Lincoln, does not find in it the way of opportunity is open to him who will prepare to accept it. There is not a man in public life who fails to feel a renewed faith in popular government because it rose to the support of the cause which Lincoln advocated. There is not an oppressed people that does not find consolation in their knowledge that Lincoln not only ad-

W. W. MEETINGS BARRED

CENTRALIA AGITATOR TRIES THREE TIMES TO SPEAK.

Elmer Smith Finally Arrested at Aberdeen After Legionnaires Take Hand in Situation.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Feb. 13.—(Special.)—Elmer Smith, Centralia I. W. W. attorney, tried three times last night to deliver an address here Mayor Bailey, trustees of the Eagles Lodge and the police interfered, and on the third attempt Smith was arrested. Released on his own recognizance at the police station, he was ordered to appear in police court next Saturday afternoon to explain his violation of Mayor Bailey's order prohibiting him from speaking.

An address by Smith was advertised by dodgers and slated for Eagles hall. Mayor Bailey, notified of the plan, called a meeting in the city hall to determine if the meeting would be consistent with public safety. Informed that the Aberdeen American Legionnaires planned sending a strong delegation to the hall to prevent utterance of I. W. W. propaganda, he forbade the meeting. Trustees of the Eagles lodge followed this action by canceling the agreement for the hall.

Smith, denied use of the building, went to the Flinn hall, on East First street, where a meeting was in progress. Smith in our domestic economic problems and the signs of growing strength in our recuperation toward normal conditions are constantly increasing. We have cause to congratulate ourselves on the accomplishments of the past and the hope of the future.

A brief review of the accomplishments of the administration was covered in the message from John W. Adams, chairman of the republican national committee, who said: "The first year of the republican administration has witnessed the greatest single move ever made in the world toward and end of all war and the establishment of amity among all nations, in the conference for the limitations of armaments, which has just concluded its sessions. This conference was called by President Harding and its official programme as well as its official deliberations were supervised by the American delegation under the chairmanship of Secretary of State Hughes.

Whole of Congress Reviewed.

"Next to the achievements of this conference and the progressive work of the republican congress should be emphasized. It is a matter of record, not subject to honest controversy, that over 90 per cent of the requests made of the congress by the president in his message to it have been promptly granted. This record of co-operation between the legislative and executive branches of the government that has seldom been equaled in American politics. Other messages received were from Scott C. Bone, governor of Alaska; Senator Poindexter, Joseph W. Ford, representative; Delegate Sutherland of Alaska; Hugh M. Caldwell, mayor of Seattle, by cable from Manila; Albert Johnson, representative from the 3d Washington district; Lin H. Hatley, representative from the 2d Washington district; J. Stanley Webster, representative from the 6th Washington district, and John W. Summers, from the 4th Washington district.

NEW BAGGAGE RULE MADE

Passengers to Declare Actual Value and Get Protection.

New baggage checking regulations giving railway passengers opportunity to declare the actual value of their belongings and assuring them of protection in the event of loss by theft or otherwise in transit will be effective March 1 on all major western railways. It was announced here today.

The new system is in effect insurance for railway passengers, it was stated. A charge of 10 cents for each $100 valuation in excess of the $100 minimum is made. The old rule limited the liability of the carrier to $100 for each adult ticket and was intended to protect the company against unscrupulous persons who made excessive false claims.
