

PRINCESS' WEDDING
DETAILS ARRANGED

Much Formality Still to Be Attended To.

PRECEDENCE BIG FACTOR

Much Study Needed to Decide Who Is to Get Preference in Ceremony Invitations.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Officers of church and state are hastening toward completion of the maze of formality and detail which royal wedding necessitates, with only one week remaining before the nuptial ceremonies of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles in Westminster abbey.

An English church wedding of which folks of humble station are the principals involves a formidable amount of formality, but when the bride is a daughter of the reigning monarch these difficulties are infinitely multiplied. Whole libraries must be searched for records of past ceremonies of similar nature.

Those whose positions in court society or office entitled them to be invited to the wedding; others, members of the house of lords, for instance, who have an inherent right to expect invitations, but for whom the abbey does not afford adequate accommodations, will receive preference in assigning seats to those who are finally invited; the drafting of orders for processions at the abbey in accordance to fixed rules of precedence and the selecting from the whole military, naval and air force of various units to compose the several escorts and guards of honor are among the myriad incidentals which must receive most careful attention and the employment of much tact and discretion. Any overlooking of rights or unintentional blunder in determination might lead to serious complications.

The peers accepted the situation in good grace and drew lots for seats at the abbey, and the arrangements apparently satisfied all parties.

When these and other preliminaries are settled, the approval of church authorities who bear the responsibility for seeing that there is no conflict with ecclesiastical precepts must be sought. To the anticipated might appear that the matter of obtaining the indorsement of church dignitaries for such carefully drawn plans would merely be perfunctory, but church authority in this country on such occasions is well defined and absolute, and its prerogatives are jealously guarded. This may be appreciated when it is stated that even the form of head dress to be worn by the bridesmaids must have clerical sanction.

In this process there have been many changes in the ceremonial arrangements since they were first drawn several weeks ago, but the final stage—obtaining the king's conclusive assent—has now been reached, and the official programme of the proceedings is expected to be available by Wednesday.

In addition to those elaborate civil and church preparations, another no means simple matter is the purely legal aspect of the arrangements.

An ancient tradition in the English family insists that a royal bride must not sign her name on her wedding day before she does so as a part of the wedding ceremony. A princess in Victorian days, whose signature to an important legal document was required on the morning of her wedding, received a message after the ceremony, which kept the lawyers waiting and seriously interfered with the day's plan.

King George's splendid wedding gift to Princess Mary is a handsome piece of jewelry, which has already been given to her, says the Daily Mail. She will receive another present from her father before her marriage to Viscount Lascelles.

HUGE ARMY TO MOBILIZE
MORE THAN 250,000 WILL GO INTO CAMP THIS SUMMER.

First Intensive Training Since
Congress Amalgamated Forces
Is Being Developed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—More than 250,000 are expected by war department officials to be under canvas or in barracks this summer for intensive military training for the first time since congress amalgamated the regular army, the national guard and the organized reserves into a composite body constituting the army of the United States. Plans for the instruction of 227,000 men, representing the three components of the united land forces, were announced today by the department.

The important western camps at which much of the training in those areas will be done are Fort Snelling, Minnesota; Camp Funston, Kansas; Fort Logan, Colorado; Camp Lewis, Washington; the Presidio of San Francisco, and the Presidio of Monterey, California.

Applications for citizens' training camps will be accepted after April 1 at corps headquarters, including the Presidio of San Francisco.

PORTUGAL IN REVOLUTION
President Almeida Takes Refuge in Citadel of Caslax.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—A new revolution has broken out in Portugal, says a dispatch to Reuter's from Madrid today. The dispatch contained no details. An earlier dispatch to Reuter's from Lisbon stated that the new Portuguese government would not present itself before parliament until after the spring carnival.

on Yap Cables.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Threats of insurrection in Lisbon have led the members of the government, together with President Almeida, to remove to the citadel of Caslax, a short distance outside the city. The insurrectionary threats came from the revolutionary elements of the extreme left and were produced by the recent arrests of officers in connection with the revolutionary movement of last October. The attitude of the republican guard was considered doubtful.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—The resignation of Federal Judge Landis, announced Saturday in Chicago, was received today at the White House. It was written in Judge Landis' own handwriting, was dated Chicago, February 18, and read as follows: "Dear Mr. President: I resign as

PACT NEGOTIATIONS ARE NOT RECORDED

Harding Answers Senate Request for Data.

MESSAGE IS REFERRED

Committee Reports Favorably on Japanese-American Treaty
on Yap Cables.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—President Harding informed the senate today he could not comply with its request for records of the four-power Pacific treaty negotiations because no such records ever existed and because he considered it incompatible with the public interest to reveal "informal and confidential conversations."

The president's five-sentence reply to the resolution of inquiry sent to the White House last week was accepted by those in charge of the treaty at the capitol as closing the incident although at the same time it aroused increased dissatisfaction among senators who instigated the move for more complete information. A proposal to call Secretary Hughes before the foreign relations committee was revived momentarily, but without any immediate prospect of success.

First Formal Action Taken.
Meantime the committee took its first formal action on any of the international agreements negotiated during the arms conference by reporting favorably the Japanese-American treaty by which the United States is accorded cable and wireless rights on the Pacific island of Yap. The committee leaders made known their purpose to press the treaty to ward a vote on the senate floor, indicating that debate on it might begin at tomorrow's session.

On the Yap treaty the committee divided 10 to 1. Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, alone voting in the negative because he felt that insufficient committee consideration had been given to the treaty.

Action Follows Two-Hour Debate.
The action followed a two-hour debate in the committee and was taken after several republican and democratic senators had indicated they would favor reporting the treaty to the senate, but reserved the right to further discuss it on the floor.

The president's reply to the Hitchcock resolution, which was adopted by the senate last week, follows: "Responsive to senate resolution No. 737, asking for records, minutes, rearrangements, debates, conversations, etc., relating to the so-called four-power treaty, I have to advise that it is impossible to comply with the senate's request. Many of the things asked for in the resolution it is literally impossible to furnish because there are many conversations and discussions quite outside the conference, and their disclosure would be to the detriment of our success. Naturally these are without record."

Secret Understandings Denied.
"I do not believe it to be compatible with public interests or consistent with the amenities of international negotiations to attempt to reveal information requested, I do, however, take this opportunity to say most emphatically that there were no concealed understandings and no secret exchanges of notes, and there are no commitments whatever except as appearing in the four-power treaty itself and the supplementary agreement, which are now in the hands of the senate."

Without discussion the president's letter was referred to the foreign relations committee, when it was read in the senate, the motion being made by Senator Hitchcock.

ONE LICENSE IS WASTED

Wedding Ceremony Delayed, But Is Held Finally at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 20.—(Special.)—More than a week ago, George J. Ward and Mrs. Cressie Robison came to Vancouver and obtained a license to marry, but they returned to Portland without having the ceremony performed. Late Saturday, they returned to the county auditor's office and asked Mr. Garrett, county auditor and minister, to marry them.

Mr. Garrett made out a license and then asked Mr. Ward to pay the $4.50 for it. "Why, I don't need a license, I have one here I got last week," he said, and produced the license from his pocket. The old license then was canceled and Mr. Garrett performed the ceremony.

Mr. Ward did not give any reason why he did not use the license he had obtained the first time.

NATURE LOVES BRIGHT COLORS
We see the truth of this statement in the vari-colored flowers, the vivid sunsets, the birds of brilliant plumage. But we never see it exemplified more attractively than in the person of a splendidly healthy woman. How does nature paint this health? Why, in the rosy cheeks, the transparent skin, the smooth red lips of such a woman. And she molds it in firm flesh and rounded contours. The alluring woman is deficient in natural coloring, and she does not even appear to advantage in clothes that would set off her more attractive features. Many women who long for glowing health will find that they, too, can have these charms if they will give a trial to that remedy which brings strength to frail women
