Anthropologist Says Relies Prove Intelligent Beings Existed in Third Geological Period.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.-Man of suf-icient intelligence and handicraft to shape flint implements and build and use fires existed in the third geological period. Proof of this was pre-sented in a series of chipped flints which have just been exhibited by the merican museum, according to Dr. Henry Fairfield Osburne, president of the museum, and an authority on the beginnings of the human race. The flints were recently discovered y J. Reid Moir, near Foxhall, East Anglia, England, at a lower level than previous human relics were admitted to have been found. The co lection, known as the Foxhall flints, has been presented to the museum by Mr. Moir. From the size of the implements the largest weighs seven pounds six ounces—the investigators leduce that they were the handiwork of a race of men of larger statur than that which followed it in th pleistocene time. It was surmise the implements were used in crushing the bones of animals and in break-ing holes in the ice so that fishermen could carry on operations. collection proves, Dr. Osborne said, "the existence of tertiary men.

Even Nature Bows to the "Binner" Corset

—Not alone did Venus represent the sublime artistry of Nature in the molding of a "perfect 36" or 38 or 42. Venus was simply a type. Woman since the dawn of creation has glorified Nature-but Nature also has cultivated the genius of mankind, so when woman called for a corset and genius finally produced the "Binner" what could Nature do but bow to such an achievement?

-The "Binner" in every sense is a superior corset—its construction shows that immediately—its service proves that every moment 'tis worn. Fitting as though it were made to order, it is as remarkable for its promotion of comfort as for its improvement of style.

-"Binner" corsets are beautifully made-of the highest quality materials-and they're made with a complete understanding of the requirements of the different figure typesthe position of the boning is correct, the shape of the gore is proper and the elastic insert is as it should be—all combining to make the "Binner" the most comfortable corset of all.
