

WILLIAM APPERSON IS DIVORCED AGAIN

Second Matrimonial Venture Brief and Turbulent.

WIFE CHARGES DECEIT

Ex-Portland Declared to Have Represented Self as Wealthy While Restaurant Employee.

Brevity and turbulency were the chief characteristics of the second matrimonial venture of William Ray Apperson, ex-Portland real estate dealer and at one time exalted ruler of the Portland Elks' lodge. Judging from reports received here yesterday from San Francisco, which told of the successful termination of a divorce action prosecuted by Mrs. Jean Davis Apperson, ex-wife of a wealthy San Francisco merchant.

In the San Francisco divorce court Mrs. Apperson told Judge Cabaniss that her husband, to whom she was married December 3 last, had posed as a man of wealth and high social standing, but she learned later, she testified, that he was employed in the menial role of salad-maker in a San Francisco restaurant.

$3500 Spent on Honeymoon.
Mrs. Apperson said she spent $3500 on their honeymoon, which brought them to Portland and other north-west cities. Some of the acts of cruelty, she told the court, were committed in Portland while they were honeymooning, while others were committed after their return to San Francisco.

After the glamour of the first few weeks had died away, she said their married life became turbulent, and there was a separation nearly every other day. The final separation, resulting in the divorce action, occurred February 2.

Her matrimonial experience with Apperson, not only cost her the $3500 expended on the wedding trip, but 25 pounds in weight, Mrs. Apperson testified.

Apperson is well known in Portland, being a member of the pioneer Apperson family living near Oregon City. He was for several years employed as a railroad clerk. In 1910 he went into the real estate business, but this venture was a brief one.

Apperson Leaves Portland.
In 1916 Apperson left Portland for Spokane, and from there went to San Francisco, where here about two months ago on his wedding trip, he confided to former friends that he had "struck it big" as a timber dealer in California. His Portland acquaintances were astounded when they learned he had been taking the role of a creator of salads in a San Francisco restaurant.

Apperson, while living in Portland, married a daughter of John Clark, saddle maker. She divorced him after several years of married life.

The latest Mrs. Apperson, in the San Francisco divorce court, asserted that her husband had received letters from other women after her marriage to him. One of these, she said, was a nurse living in Portland, who offered to marry him as soon as he had been divorced. Another woman living at Burlingame, Cal., wanted to buy him an automobile, the wife said.

COUNSEL FEES AT ISSUE

EMPLOYMENT OF ATTORNEYS BY W. C. BARKER INVOLVED.

Application for $5000 in Suit to Oust Guardian is Heard but Decision Reserved.

Whether or not a man declared a spendthrift and incompetent to handle his own affairs legally can hire a lawyer to sue his guardian in the question which Circuit Judge Taxwell faced yesterday in the hearing on a petition by Paul C. Dormitzer and T. B. McDevitt Jr., for attorney fees of $500 for the time in which they represented William C. Barker in his suit against Seva B. Stewart, guardian.

At the close of the hearing Judge Taxwell said his first impression was that the court had power to grant a fee to the attorneys engaged by Barker, but that this was not to be taken as a final decision. Before passing on the case Judge Taxwell asserted he desired to have a private interview with Barker, and a meeting is being arranged.

Mr. Dormitzer in his statement to the court reviewed some of the sensational charges which he said he intended to prove in the case brought against Stewart, such as misappropriation of funds of the $850,000 estate. He said he was willing to retire from the case in favor of James L. Conley, new attorney selected by Barker, but that he desired a fair fee for considerable work already accomplished in preparation for the action, intimating that the change in counsel presages settlement of the case.

James B. Kerr, attorney for the guardian confined his argument to the legal right of Barker to employ attorneys.

Barker came into the estate of Columbus C. Barker, his father, at the death of the latter in 1909. On his voluntary petition Barker in 1913 asked that Stewart be appointed his guardian to prevent him from squandering his substance.
