WAR FILM IS SLATED

"I ACCUSE" TO BE SHOWN BY LEGION POST.

Picture Reported Most Interesting of Any Produced on Conflict; All Tickets Sold at Door.

"I Accuse," famous war film, has been obtained by Portland post of the American Legion for presentation at the Star theater in this city this week beginning April 8, according to the announcement of Byron J. Best, chairman of the post entertainment committee, made at a meeting of the executive officers yesterday.

The picture is reported to be one of the most intensely interesting and realistic produced, dealing with the great conflict. At a private viewing, given by the post executive committee, the film was indorsed.

"A portion of it is grim and terribly realistic," commented James J. Crossley, post commander, yesterday, "but it is a war picture, and it is a war picture."

There will be no solicitation of tickets, decided the legion, all admissions being sold at the door of the theater. Special orchestral arrangements will be made for interpretation of the film.

Delegates to the state convention of the American Legion to be held in The Dalles the latter part of July will be nominated at the post meeting the first Monday in June. The election will be held the first Monday in July.

Progress in the membership campaign of the local post was reported by the executive committee. The initiation fee of $2, which has been discontinued temporarily, will be placed back on April 1, it was decided.

The house committee, declared that the new clubrooms of the post at the corner of Washington and Main streets, being well patronized, numerous luncheon organizations having made arrangements for noonday meetings there.

MURDER SUSPECT SILENT

CHARLES VONDERAHE REFERS EVERYONE TO LAWYERS.

Prisoner Charged with Killing of Recluse Complains Only of Pains in His Stomach.

PENDLETON, Or., March 13.—(Special.)—Although complaining of severe pains in the stomach, Charles von Vonderahe, the man charged with the murder in connection with the mysterious death of Matt Jepson, aged recluse of Government mountain, in the Milton-Freewater country, whose body was found in the bottom of a well near his hermitage last July, was silent regarding his arrest and his only remark today was: "Talk to my lawyer."

Vonderahe has retained two local law firms and one Walla Walla attorney for his defense, and his three brothers of the Freewater country, who were with him at the time of his arrest, declared that they would stand by him, believing him innocent.

The description of President Harding's personal points of view would be unusual under any circumstances, but the facts that give it extraordinary emphasis are that it was printed in a Washington newspaper, and that every congressman and every person in Washington knew that on the same day this dispatch was sent from Florida the president was a guest aboard the houseboat of the senator who owns the newspaper. It would be hard to imagine circumstances more adapted to give authenticity and significance to the dispatch.

ARCHIE MCCOY, TROUTDALE BANK ROBBER, PORTLANDER.

Although Only 36 Years of Age, Young Man's Record of Crime Covered Several Years.

SALEM, Or., March 13.—(Special.)—Archie McCoy, 36 years of age, who was brought to the penitentiary last summer from Portland in connection with the robbery of a bank at Troutdale, today committed suicide by hanging himself with a sheet in his cell in the institution. McCoy's body was found in the latrine and apparently he had been dead for several hours.

McCoy had a long prison record and prior to being sentenced to the Oregon penitentiary he had served terms at Stillwater, Minn. He was first arrested in Oregon on September 15, 1914, from Portland, for larceny from the person. He was paroled September 15, 1916, but again returned to the penitentiary April 2, 1917. After serving three years of the latter sentence he was paroled and left for Portland.

Last summer McCoy was found in a semiconscious condition a short distance from Troutdale after an attempt had been made to rob the bank there, and was arrested. McCoy, the convict, lives at 2133 East Stark street, Portland, according to the records at the penitentiary. His mother also is a resident of Portland. Her present name is Shaver.

A few years ago McCoy's parents asked that he be examined for insanity, but he was never found to be insane. The body was held here tonight pending word from McCoy's father.

THERE'S NO MONKEY IN HIM, SAYS BRYAN

Evolutionists and Darwinian Theorists Flayed.

RELIGION HELD NEEDED

"Everything in Human Life Depends on Belief in God," Is Declaration in Speech.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—William Jennings Bryan declares that no evolutionist can make a monkey out of him. Speaking in the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia, he flayed evolutionists in general and believers in the Darwinian theory in particular.

"The scientists talk," Mr. Bryan began, "about a little animal several million years ago who crawled on his belly. If he had crawled on his back the whole history of the world would have been changed. But he didn't. He wiggled so much that he grew a wart. Then he wiggled the wart and it helped him to move along. He turned over on the other side and wiggled until he grew another wart. By and by the warts grew into legs—so say scientists."

"Eye Theory is Discussed." "Eyes for the little animals! He stretched out in the sun for so many thousands of centuries that the sun picked out the most sensitive part of his eye and made a freckle there. The freckles got worse and worse until it became an eye. Then he turned up the other side, grew another freckle and got another eye."

"A Presbyterian preacher has written all this stuff. He must believe it. He could just as easily believe in Jonah and say that he played in and out of whales every three days from early childhood."

"Once a man refused to eat lunch because I tried to take the monkey head off his family crest. I wish the evolutionists would stop with their own ancestors and leave mine alone. They can't make a monkey out of me. You know they tell us we had hairy ancestors. Do you know how we got rid of the hair? The males fought for the females. After the battle was over the females did a little selecting on their own account. They picked out the males that had the least hair."

"The next holiday to be introduced, which will take precedence over Thanksgiving and the Fourth of July, is water-puppy day. A scientist has said that the greatest day in the world's history was when a water puppy crawled out of the water onto the land and stayed there. It really ought to be celebrated."

Then, in serious vein, Mr. Bryan concluded: "Take from man his belief in God and link him with the jungle and you have changed his philosophy. Everything in a human life depends upon a belief in God. On that belief rests a responsibility to self, to others and to God. The time is coming when we are going to get back to a real belief in God and to a belief in his word."

TREASURE RUMORS DENIED

REPORT CURRENT OF WORKMEN DISCOVERING GOLD.

Foreman in Charge of Razing of Building at Sixth and Burnside Makes Denial.

Wild rumors that a treasure-trove had been found by workmen at the northeast corner of Sixth and Burnside streets while raising an old building, formerly used as a saloon, were promptly refuted yesterday by the foreman in charge of the work and others connected with the improvements now under way.

The report was spread broadcast that one of the workmen had unearthed a tin can containing $5000 in gold. This workman, the report stated, was a member of the Apostolic Faith mission, and not wanting to keep the money himself, had turned it over to Mrs. Florence Crawford, head of the sect.

Mrs. Crawford yesterday made an indignant denial of the report and asserted it was absolutely without foundation. The same report had reached her ears previously, she said, and had caused her considerable annoyance.

As a matter of fact, the workmen, all of whom are members of the Apostolic Faith mission, have found small sums of money in the debris, but a 50-cent piece was the largest single find. One workman found a gold watch of standard manufacture, which was found to be in running condition. He reported his find to Mrs. Crawford.

The finding of the gold watch was responsible for a wild rumor of the gold cache, Mrs. Crawford believes.
