PRISONER VISITS WIFE

UNIDENTIFIED MAN PUTS UP PAY FOR GUARD.

Olaf Haug, whose spouse was hurt while rescuing child, gets 24 hours' liberty.

All persons who believe the milk of human kindness is non-existent or that it at least has undergone lactic fermentation may apply to Major Clarence Hotchkiss, United States marshal, for proof to the contrary. Major Hotchkiss has the evidence right at hand.

Yesterday a man went to his office and tendered $15 in cash to him with the request that it be given Olaf Haug, serving a six months' sentence in the county jail for having made false claims in his draft papers, so that Haug could pay the expense of a guard to go with him to Oregon City, where his wife, seriously burned, was eager to see him.

The marshal's visitor, who declined to give his name, said he had read of Haug's plight and that although he did not know the man, he could imagine that in like circumstances one's heart would break. He said he had no family himself, but in the circumstances he conceived it a humane act.

Mrs. Haug, burned seriously when she rescued a child at her home and ran, flaming, to throw herself in the horse trough on the Haug farm, to put out the fire, saved the child, perhaps, at the cost of her own life. She is in a critical condition and a delegation of neighbors came to Portland last week to gain temporary freedom for Haug that he might go see her.

United States Attorney Humphreys telegraphed to the attorney-general, asking permission for the man to be given temporary freedom. The reply was made that if he could pay a guard to accompany him, the request would be granted.

Unhappily, Haug qualifies as a pauper in his present prison-pent status, and it appeared that, cruel as the decision was, the man could not be allowed to visit his injured wife.

Then came along the Good Samaritan and Haug, with the requisite guard, went to Oregon City last night, leaving at 5 o'clock. He will return tonight and continue his jail term.

Judge Bean will be asked in federal court this morning for a removal order for Morris Silverman, Portland jewelry salesman, so he may be taken to San Francisco for trial on a charge of having sold war savings stamps that had been stolen from a Dayton (Wash.) bank.

It was charged that Silverman, while in San Francisco, dealt in the stolen stamps and he was indicted by a San Francisco grand jury. He is at liberty on a bond of $500 and he has waived preliminary hearings and is quite willing to go to San Francisco and stand trial. John Veatch, assistant United States attorney, is handling the case.

FROZEN MAN IDENTIFIED

Refrigerator Car Victim Fought Desperately for Life.

BOISE, Idaho, March 23.—(Special.)—It has been established that the man who was found frozen in a Pacific Fruit Express refrigerator car that reached Boise a few days ago with the body, was Joseph Paul Reiffenberger of Cherokee, Ia. Evidence in the car showed that the young man had been stealing a ride and that the door to the refrigerator locked on him.

Dents in the heavy compartment door, and an iron bar lying near the body indicated that Reiffenberger had made a desperate battle to free himself from the air-tight chamber, the temperature in which was below freezing.
