PUGET SOUND BUREAU Scattle. Wash, March 24.—Scattle citzens may be wildly excited over the approaching city election. There is no doubt that some of them are—the candidates, for instance, and members of committees employed in promoting and opposing various local issues. But if the emotions of the great majority have been stirred they are managing to keep all manifestations well under cover. Time drags at many of the "campaign headquarters" hait dot the business section of the ity, and no amount of eloquence has the end covered according to keep all manifestations well under cover. Candidates for mayor and council are all in favor of progress and retrenchment, of spending and saving, of expenditure and economy, of discharging all city obligations if they must and getting out of burdensome contracts if that be possible, of going ahead here and backing up there. City government costs and taxes must be cut; but nothing should be done to grimp or curriall any of the great enterprises that the city has undertaken.

Due to the request of hundreds who have been unable to see Mark Twain's famous satire, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," which has been playing to large houses at the Bine Mouse theater for the last two weeks, Manager Hamrick announces that this attraction will be held for a few days more didates of different ones for the republican nominations for Lewis county. The party's majority is overwhelming. H. H. Swofford, state senator, is a holdover. Three representative candidates are to be nominated. It is presumed that all three who last session were house members will be candidates. These were A. S. Kresky of Centralia, A. S. Cory and W. H. Kenoyer of Chehalis. It is said R. R. Somerville will be a candidate for the lower house. He is just completing cock, well known Winlock attorney; J. S.
