

PSYCHO-PLASTIC ART
BLOTS OUT REALISM

Blank Spaces Are Provided for Mind to Fill In.

PAINT INDUSTRY DOOMED

Brush Makers Apt to Shudder at
New School Independents
Seek to Establish.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The art of the psycho-plastic, the art that is and yet isn't, that offends not, no matter how awful it may be, has been found in the most recent horrible examples at the exhibition of the independent artists. Several names for this have been suggested, such as psychographic and psychopathic, but psycho-plastic was finally decided upon because it means so much. The psycho-graphs are divided into two classes, the invisible and the visible, and if one must say it some of the best work is contained in the frames of the invisibles.

As the eye wanders around the walls of the exhibition it lights frequently upon little blank spaces bearing such titles as the "Humming Bird at Humming," and the "Heart Throbs in a Tea Pot."

Blank Spaces Full of Meaning.

They are pregnant with fulfilled vision, these little blank spaces, for they are Einsteinian art in the fourth dimension. To say it in the words of an expert who explained the meaning of the psycho-plastic: "The art of the invisibles is an ultra-dimensional, temporal-spatial art, appealing not to separate sense organs but to the residue of undifferentiated sensitivity, that is to say, their art is synaesthetic."

After that anything is clear. They are like the internal realists, who are a branch of the psycho-plastics. Almost anything is possible in the picture of the internal realists without offending Dr. Straton.

"The picture of the internal realists" went on the expert, "have been purified of all the cluttering symbols of actuality, and hence the mind of the beholder is liberated so that he may indulge in the unalloyed pleasure of contemplation. In the 'Nude Shop-girls in Jazz Organization' and in 'Still Life at Day' all the petty details of actuality have been dispensed with and the subject presented in such a way that even a blue law parson may get all the thrill that the titles suggest without having to blush the next time he faces his congregation. Internal realists affect the public from the impure emotions which may be aroused in their bosoms by the debasing brutality of such brute facts as the nude human figure."

Realism is Not Lacking.

But it may be said that, however promising internal realism may be, there is enough external realism in the independents' show to provide thrills for a large crowd. One can dash by these pictures with averted eyes, of course, and gaze at a work of the invisibles without a shudder. It may suggest to the assistant a Welsh rarebit in anger, or even a mountain top during an earthquake to three different spectators, all of them are right. The internal picture of a salad dressing looks like a Yale banner with three cheers breaking out upon it in the form of a Russian dressing. As for the "Un-dressed Picture of an Auto Wreck," there are three different pictures which simply defy description, and only as art unfolds itself under the guiding finger of the expert does the inner symbolism of such things break upon the mind. It is a most thorough wreck.

WOMEN LOOM AS SOLONS

Prediction Made Several Will Go to Congress This Year.

DETROIT, Mich., April 6.—Several women will sit in the next congress. In the opinion of Mrs. Harriet Taylor-Upton, vice-chairman of the republican national committee, who was a speaker before the women's republican club here Wednesday, the record of Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, Mrs. Upton declared, would add the candidacies of a number of women who are seeking seats in the coming elections.

Women's political activities now are in a transitory state and they probably never will figure prominently as office holders, except in minor offices, but their influence will permeate politics as it does the homes, Mrs. Upton said.

DISCONTENT IS TRACED

that is regarded as increasingly valuable in proportion, as city after city in Connecticut goes democratic. The persons most frequently mentioned as likely candidates for the democratic nomination include the ex-democratic national chairman, Homer S. Cummings, who is a strong Wilson and league of nations man, together with Thomas J. Spellacy, who was in Washington as the assistant attorney-general during the Wilson administration, with some others who are not well known outside of the state.

In Rhode Island the sitting senator is a rather inconspicuous democrat, Peter G. Gerry, who is serving his first term. The probability is that Senator Gerry will again get the democratic nomination. It is equally probable that his republican opponent will be ex-Governor Livingston Heckman. This Rhode Island senatorship may as readily go one way as the other.

For these democratic victories in local New England elections you don't find much that seems to have very substantial bearing on national issues. In Rhode Island there is a textile strike, which has been on for more than ten weeks and which has given rise to discontent. In Connecticut, the considerable number of Italian voters don't like prohibition and have got the idea that the republicans are responsible for it.

Some leaders in Connecticut say that the chief reason for discontent with the republican party is the long postponement of the passage of a new tariff act. It is difficult to see how that particular variety of discontent can logically translate itself into a vote for the democrats. Even democratic observers in Connecticut admit that if the republicans with reasonable speed now should pass a tariff bill, satisfactory to all the manufacturers of the state, and if the manufacturing interests should put their shoulders into the fight with hearty earnestness, the republicans would regain some of their lost advantage.

Majority Is Large One.

There can hardly be any denying the significance of the election in Hartford, which gave a democratic majority of between $100 and $400. This is the largest majority ever recorded for any party in a Hartford city election.

Hartford mayors are usually elected by majorities that don't run over 700 on either side. Harding carried Hartford less than two years ago by upward of 7000 votes and a charge of more than 10,000 votes in a city of this size is undeniably significant.

It appears to have a square fight without complicating personalities and with a good man running on the republican ticket.

Nearly every city election in Connecticut since 1920 has gone democratic. This is not necessarily to be taken too literally as an index of what the state would do in a national election. As a shrewd observer in that state once expressed it: "It is one of the habits of Connecticut voters of republican persuasion to take out their animosity on the republican party in elections which really do not count very much, but when it comes to a national election the old party prevails. They preserve their intellectual debauch for municipal affairs, and stand pat when it comes to national affairs."

Discontent Seen in East.

Broadly speaking, the national republican leaders look on these New England local elections as indexes of the present political feeling in the republican party in elections which really do not count very much, but when it comes to a national election the old party prevails. They preserve their intellectual debauch for municipal affairs, and stand pat when it comes to national affairs.

Next Election Tuesday.

The election for a national official will come on Tuesday next. It will occur in New York in a district along the southern tier, and somewhat west of the center of the state. Its purpose is to fill the vacancy created by appointment of the recent republican congressman, Alanson B. Houghton, to be ambassador to Germany. It is normally a strong republican district. Representative Houghton once carried it by a plurality of nearly 30,000 and once by more than 15,000.

The district is reavallying one of small towns and old farms, with one considerable railroad town and the seat of Cornell university. The counties included in the district are chiefly of the American communities with relatively few negro or foreign voters.

VOTING UNITS INCREASED

Deschutes Adds Five to Number of Precincts in County.

BEND, Or., April 6.—(Special.)—When primary elections are held next month, five more precincts will figure in the results than at previous balloting. A recent action of the county court increased the number from 24 to 29. Three precincts were added in Bend, one in Redmond, and Tethrow precinct is divided, allowing for the creation of Pleasant Ridge precinct. Steady growth of the population has made the changes necessary. The last general election showing that some precincts were growing so large as to make the ballot count a matter of several days.

Prineville May Plant Trees.

PRINEVILLE, Or., April 6.—(Special.)—The Crook county chamber has appointed Rev. M. R. Gallaher, J. E. Myers and George Nicolai a committee to consider the planting of trees and shrubbery in the streets to beautify the city.

KEEP INTEREST FELT IN SEAPLANE FLIGHT

Europe-to-Brazil Adventure
Shrouded in Atlantic.

AIRMEN NAVAL OFFICERS

First Leg of Voyage Is Reported,
but Nothing More Heard Since Hopoff for Cape Verde.

(Copyright by the New York World. Published by Arrangement.)

LONDON, April 6.—(Special Cable.)—Keen interest is felt here in an attempt to cross the Atlantic in a seaplane by two veteran naval officers who set out last Friday and at last reports are still "somewhere in the Atlantic." Their destination is Brazil, distant by air line 4200 miles.

About all that the public knows of the trip is that the first leg, to Las Palmas, distant 710 miles, was easily made by Friday afternoon, at a reported velocity of 85 miles an hour.

It appears to have a square fight without complicating personalities and with a good man running on the republican ticket.

Airmen Confident of Success.

The airmen are Cabral Sacadura, 56, pilot and navigator, a naval captain, and Gago Coutinho, observer, also a naval captain of 44. They set out supremely confident of a successful flight. The itinerary beyond Cape Verde is to Pernambuco, a Brazilian penal island 1260 miles; the Brazilian coast, 300 miles further on, and a final leg of 1010 miles to Rio de Janeiro.

They are carrying two inventions of their own, in which they place great reliance. One is an artificial horizon for the determination of their bearings at night, and the other is an arrangement of smoke bombs for the guidance of navigators along their path.

Wireless Outfit Not Carried.

They have no wireless outfit, but expect to overcome this handicap, partly by means of the bombs and partly by a limited convoy of three Portuguese warships which have been assigned to stations along the route for the double purpose of watching for the safety of the aviators and keeping the ministry of marine here informed of the progress of the flight.

The seaplane is from the Fairey Aviation company, Ltd., London. It carries 400-horse-power Rolls-Royce motor and especially light gasoline for a flight of 18 hours. There has been much official criticism of the navy or expending at this time the money the flight is costing, including equipment, but the public became enthusiastic over the trial flights and is now keyed to a high pitch of excitement, confident that the old seadogs, like their historic predecessors, will plant the Maltese flag on the shores of Brazil.

5 MORE HELD FOR FRAUD

Two Arrested Here and Three in Tacoma in Rail Pass Case.

Five more arrests, two here and three in Tacoma, were made yesterday in the case of the railroad passes over the Union Pacific system. The bootleg transportation was said to have been issued by a dishonest clerk, W. S. Cameron, from the Portland office.

George Cody pleaded guilty yesterday morning in federal court to having disposed of railroad passes obtained by fraud, in violation of the interstate commerce act, and was fined $500 by Judge Bean. Cody is perhaps better known by the name of P. J. Apple.

Two men arrested in Portland yesterday for complicity in the alleged transactions of the ring were Vito Bavaro and W. Vimelli. The three taken in Tacoma were Chester A. and R. P. Nicholson and A. M. McInnes.

"OBEY" HELD OBSOLETE

Protestant Episcopal Bishop Explains Marriage Service Change.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Edward L. Parsons, bishop coadjutor of the San Francisco diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church and one of the members of the commission to revise the book of common prayer, said today the reason the word "obey" was omitted from the marriage ceremony was because it was antiquated.

"The promise to obey is antiquated and we have outgrown it," he said. "The proper basis in marriage is a mutual basis and not a basis of authority by one over the other. The old idea of the husband ruling his wife is obsolete and should have no part in the marriage service."

The report of the commission given out in New York yesterday drops the word "obey" and eliminates the compulsory giving in marriage from the ceremonial. It will be submitted to the triennial general convention of the church in Portland, Or., next September.

CLARKE JURY TERM SET

Embezzlement Case of ex-Matron to Be Tried Again.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 6.—(Special.)—The spring jury term of the Clarke county superior court has been set for May 22 and Judge George B. Simpson today issued an order providing for the drawing of a jury list. The drawing will be made Saturday. Sixty men and women will be required to serve on the panel.

The second trial of Mrs. E. S. Biessecker, former county matron, who is charged with the embezzlement of a large sum of the county funds, probably will be held in the spring. The jury disagreed in the first session, one of the jurors holding out for a verdict of petty larceny and the other insisting on a grand larceny verdict.

GERMANY DECLARED BUSY

Progressive Business Men's Club
Told of Industrial Progress.

That Germany is active industrially and in apparently prosperous condition was the declaration of Waldemar Seton, local attorney, in an address at the luncheon of the Progressive Business Men's club at the Benson hotel yesterday afternoon. Mr. Seton and his family recently returned from a trip through Norway, Sweden, Germany, France and England.

The club collected a large number of books and magazines to be used as the nucleus for a library for the state training school for boys.

well. She will undergo an operation. She says now that she will go to jail with me. That will kill her. Ah, Semenov, the Cossack, the man who has been painted red with blood, is but a woman at heart."

General Semenov has been made defendant in a suit brought by the Youravata company, in which it is charged that the theft, by his troops, of the company's goods forced it into bankruptcy. The order for his arrest, Justice Delahanty said, grew out of the suit.

Creditors Accept Plan.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Creditors here of the bankrupt firm of Kadon & Burke, a New York brokerage house, have unanimously agreed to accept the company's offer of payment in three years on their claims. They agree to accept 10 per cent cash, 10 per cent at the end of each of three six-month periods and 20 per cent at the end of each of three additional six-month periods.

PHONE CHATS TOO COSTLY

Billy Burke Called to Account by Wealthy Chicago Woman.

CHICAGO, April 6.—The $15 telephone chats of Billy Burke from the fashionable North Shore residence of the widow of Frank Townley Brown to Miss Burke's husband, Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. at New York, almost cost the actress her temporary home, it was learned here today.

Miss Burke took the widow's "Gold Coast" residence March 19 with an agreement to pay $1150 to occupy it until April 9 while she played in Chicago. Miss Burke was to bring Patricia, her daughter, and four maids and a governess. The $1150 was to go to Mrs. Brown's newly organized widows' protective league.

Mrs. Brown said she wouldn't care so much about Miss Burke playing hostess to a lot of theatrical folk if the actress didn't call up her husband 1000 miles away every night and let the charge go on the Brown telephone bill.

Miss Burke obtained an injunction in night court last night to retain possession of the residence.
