Work of Portland Library Forging Ahead Rapidly, Miss Mulheron Tells Board.

Not all the brave men in this coun try are dead, according to a report read Ekwall relented to members of the Portland library Judge Ekwall sound progress are still in motion, notwithstanding the outcries of the ardent shock troop reformers who would "regulate" everything.

While the flappers may be getting more publicity as a rule, the work of the library is forging ahead rapidly, according to the report of Miss Mul-heron, and the cry is for more books especially classics. Demand for good reference works is so strong from outlying branches like Arleta that the main library is unable to fill the requests.

"Give a book week," now on, it was reported by Mr. Brewster, has proved a success thus far, approximately 1000 volumes having been contributed, with many more in prospect. Among these, it was said, are numbers of excellent ones—just what are needed so urgently right now.

Lasting Results Anticipated. "I believe this book week will bring to the library lasting results," said Mr. Brewster. "We must not ex-pect people to contribute all of their surplus volumes immediately. We shall, I think, be getting books for a long time as a direct result of the publicity we have received in this

That people are reading better books and that fiction is not pre-dominant was shown in statements brought out by a remark of Rufus C. Holman, a member of the board, who said he had always had a theory that if there was a restriction upon fiction there would of course be less of this class taken out and there would be more opportunity to use funds for books of reference.

Miss Mulheron said that the records disclose a large demand for such fic-tion as "When Winter Comes," but not as strong a demand for "such a book as 'Main Street'," which it was plain she was not highly indersing. "Why the remark on 'Main Street'?" queried Dr. Wise with a smile.

like it."
"I read it half way through and quit in disgust," commented Amedee M. Smith, who attended this meeting his first since being elected Writing Table Wanted. There is a considerable demand for a writing table, Miss Mulheron reported. She recommended and the board acceded, that a table with Mbrary stationery be placed where the pioneer statue now stands. This will be a new feature here, although in some cities it has been tried with great success and not a few libraries have an entire room devoted to it. The system will be self-sustaining, it was explained, by means of sule of paper and envelopes.

Members of the board gave some time to reading and considering suggested letters, to be sent to various individuals with the object in view of obtaining bequests to the library. These will be mailed, with form of bequest to those who are by reason of their positions, such as lawyers, ministers and the like often called upon

A well-founded rumor at police headquarters last night was to the effect that Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, head of the women's protective division, would resign on May 1. Chief Jenkins said that he had not yet received her resignation, but that she had discussed resigning with him. The reason given him was that she had not sufficient time from family duties to attend to bureau duties. Mrs. Baldwin, in 1905, organized her bureau, said to be the first of its kind, in connection with a police department, in the United States. In 1908 the bureau was permanently in-corporated into the city's charter, and it is now under civil service on a par with other departments of police. The bureau is the only police division caring exclusively for women and
