

SEATTLE PRIMARY CAMPAIGN IS QUIET

Miller and Meier Furnish Only Excitement of Race.

TUESDAY IS VOTING DAY

Candidate for Mayor and Six for City Council to Be Chosen for May Election.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., April 13.—With the city primaries next Tuesday scheduled to alternate five of the seven aspirants for mayor, the final week of the preliminary campaign is arousing intense interest among the numerous candidates who are given opportunity each night to speak before groups, clubs and organizations in different parts of town.

Undergoing inquisitorial sessions with the anti-Japanese association, the Municipal league and other bodies, speaking to church clubs and improvement organizations, the candidates have supplied little in the way of excitement except when Walter F. Meier, corporation counsel and candidate for mayor, and Charles H. Miller, also candidate, questioned each other's veracity with spirit and emphasis. They, with Dan Lonsom, state senator; Major T. J. Cunningham, Spanish war veteran; H. S. Turner, real estate man; Ira D. Lumby, ex-councilman; and Dr. E. J. Brown, dentist and ex-socialist, constitute the seven primary candidates.

Six candidates for city council will also be chosen at the primary, three to be elected in May. For the first time, under the new law, the school district and port elections will be held simultaneously with the city election, but not with the primaries. Nominations for port commissioner, one to be elected from the north district, have just closed with the following in the ring: George F. Cotterill, civil engineer and ex-mayor; John G. Day, formerly in the county engineer's office; Ralph E. Downie, dealer in cedar poles; W. C. Kean, real estate broker; Clark Nettleton, contractor, formerly publisher of the Post-Intelligencer; and Walter S. Wood, ex-employee of the port.

3 JOIN SEATTLE DRUG SQUAD

$1,000,000 Worth of Narcotics Is Seized by Authorities.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., April 13.—Three federal investigators of the government narcotic unit for the Pacific coast have arrived under instruction of Chief Smith, and will at once join with the police in a concerted campaign against the traffic. Survey of the sale of narcotics just completed has caused the announcement by government representatives that the conditions are appalling. Within the last six months narcotics valued at peddlers' prices at $1,000,000 have been seized in Seattle. A shipment has just been made to San Francisco headquarters valued at $144,000. And yet it was alleged that the surface has barely been scratched. Since last July, 120 peddlers have been arrested in Seattle. Since December 43 have been sent to the federal penitentiary from this city for dealing in these drugs.

HOSPITAL SITE HARD TO FIND

Seattle Regulations Prevent Use of Close-In Districts.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., April 13.—In seeking a site for its new $1,000,000 hospital, the Seattle General Hospital association has found that under existing municipal regulations it is practically impossible to obtain the kind of close-in site necessary. The association appeared before the zoning commission to discuss the situation. At present hospitals are not allowed to be constructed within 800 feet of a public park or boulevard. The zoning commission has tentatively approved a regulation barring hospitals from all first-class residence districts and permitting them in second-class districts only on consent of the board of public works.

Autoist's Victim Blamed.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., April 13.—The funeral of Henry Belosky, killed by a street car, was halted by Coroner Corson to permit examination of the body by a coroner's jury. The funeral was held a day sooner than the coroner's office had been advised. On learning that it was in progress, the jury was immediately taken from a case on which it was sitting and halted the procession before its departure for the cemetery. The jury found that the man had not used proper care in crossing the street.

Seattle Hears Advertising Man.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Wash., April 13.—The plea of Rollin C. Ayers, president of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs' association, for coast unity and the elimination of bickering between cities, has been well received here. He presented his treaty of unity to the Seattle Advertising club.

Miner Attempts Suicide.
