

MANY SAID TO QUIT IN SUPREME HOUR

Evangelist Relates Story of Paul's Shipwreck.

DESCRIPTION IS VIVID

How Apostle Worked So That Others Might Not Suffer Is Minister's Topic.

The attitude of the 276 people who were shipwrecked with the Apostle Paul in the Mediterranean sea and cast upon the shores of the island of Melita, toward Paul after he was bitten by a poisonous adder, furnished Dr. George Wood Anderson, evangelist, with abundant material for one of the most striking sermons he has given during the united gospel crusade. His subject was "Picking Up Sticks."

A vivid description of the hurricane which swept over the sea and of the shipwreck which followed, formed the introduction to the sermon. Then the crusader told how Paul, like a true Christian, had forgotten his condition and the perils through which he had just passed, and how he busied himself picking up sticks and laying them on the fire in order that others might not suffer from cold and exposure.

People Are Startled. "Once when Paul was throwing fuel upon the fire the people were startled to see him suddenly shake his hand in an effort to free himself from a poisonous viper that had struck its fangs into his flesh," Dr. Anderson said. "The watching people fell back for they knew that the sting of such adders meant certain and sudden death. Watching their benefactor shake the serpent into the fire, these people, wise in their own conceits, came to a conclusion. "One of the easiest things in this world for any person to do is to come to a conclusion. Beholding Paul's misfortune these people shook their heads knowingly and said, 'He is a murderer,' or the bite of a serpent revealed a record of bloodshed and murder was not explained by these critics. "Paul heard their whispers. He saw the very ones whom he had been laboring so hard to help shrink back from his presence as though he were a pestilence. He heard their insinuations and his sensitive soul quailed under their false accusations.

Paul Continues to Work. "Paul could have quit, but he kept on picking up sticks. The supreme hour in many men's lives was the one in which they quit. Once they were most active in Christian work but they quit. Every new pastor knows about them."

Delegations from the Parent-Teacher's associations and members of the official boards of the various Methodist churches of the city were guests at the service. This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the tabernacle, East Third and Irving streets, a special prayer service for the success of the crusade will be held under the direction of Mrs. James Ogden of the First Methodist church.

Dr. Anderson to Speak. This service will be followed at 2:30 P. M. by the regular afternoon service, at which Dr. Anderson will preach. Yesterday R. L. Wells mailed letters to all division prayer meeting chairmen urging them not to confine the cottage prayer meetings to Methodist homes or to members of the church. He suggested that an effort be made especially to invite outside denominations. Tonight will be "Young crusader's night" at the tabernacle. All high school boys have been invited, and also the order of De Molay and the Elks club. Dr. Anderson will answer the spiritualist teachers who have recently invaded America to-night in a sermon on "Dreams and Ghosts." The service is at 7:30 P. M. and is open to the general public.

ROAD MEETING TODAY

State Highway Commission to Take Up Big Jobs.

An adjourned meeting of the state highway commission is scheduled for today. When the commission adjourned Saturday it had under consideration more than 100 miles of road jobs, with low bids aggregating $900,000, approximately. None of the bids opened for the road jobs advertised for last Friday were disposed of, so that the commission is expected to clear the decks at today's meeting.

Of the Saturday jobs under advisement are 14.8 miles of hard-surface, 3.1 miles of surfacing, 34.7 miles of grading and 15.3 miles of grading and surfacing. The paving jobs are Sixton mountain and the Albany-Tangent section of the Pacific highway. The longest project is 14.8 miles of surfacing from Myrtle Point to Camas valley, on the Roseburg-Cooms Bay highway. A 15-mile section of The Dalles-California highway, in Wasco county, between Dufur and The Dalles.

DYNAMITE CAP HURTS BOY

GASTON, Or., April 18.—(Special.)—Millard Mathewson, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Mathewson of Gaston, had a narrow escape from serious injury Easter morning when he hammered a dynamite cap with his toy hammer on the cement hearth in front of the fireplace at their farm home. The dynamite cap looked like one of the empty rifle cartridges he had often played with, and finding it up in the attic he had no thought of danger. It was the kind used in blowing up stumps and was of more than 500 pounds pressure, but the boy in such a position that only his left hand was injured. It was thought no bones were broken and that the hand will not be permanently crippled.

DEATH FIGHT LONG ONE

Elvie Kirby Case Expected to Go to U. S. Supreme Court.

The United States supreme court is expected to have the last word in the prolonged litigation to dodge the death penalty in the case of Elvie D. Kirby, convicted murderer, who has been sentenced to hang for complicity in the murder of Sheriff T. J. Taylor of Umatilla county. The state supreme court yesterday denied a petition for rehearing of the habeas corpus proceedings brought in behalf of the condemned man. His attorneys indicated they will appeal to the highest tribunal of all in the United States. It is expected they will base their plea upon alleged unconstitutionality of the capital punishment act as violating the bill of rights.

ALLYNS OPENS BRANCH

Dyeing and Cleaning Establishment Has Downtown Quarters.

New downtown quarters were opened this week for Allyns' dyeing and cleaning establishment at the southeast corner of Third and Alder streets. The new quarters, which will be known as the Alder street branch, will serve as a receiving and distributing station for the city district, working in conjunction with the company's big plant on the east side.

The new quarters are unique among the downtown stores, being decorated along the individual lines adopted by Allyns. The light green and black color scheme, used effectively at the main plant on the east side is again employed, while on the windows appears the figure of Aladdin, used as a company insignia. The interior of the quarters is arranged in modern fashion to handle receiving and outgoing dye or cleaning orders quickly and effectively.
