RIDE ON TRAIN NOVELTY

Woman, 53, Takes Trip on Cars for First Time.

LA GRANDE, Or., April 19.—(Special).—After living in Oregon three-quarters of a century Mrs. Sarah Beauchamp has had her first ride on a train. She came to La Grande for a day's visit and was with her parents, home one-half mile from Hilgard, nine miles from this city, making the trip in a train for the first time. She was accompanied on the trip by her son, S. A. Beauchamp. Mrs. Beauchamp is 53 years of age and came to Oregon 75 years ago with her parents, the trip being made in a prairie schooner.

Riding in a train was not the only novel experience with which she was until her old age. Last summer she took her first and only ride in an automobile.

Early Tuesday night Mrs. Abie S. Berlant, 179 Hamilton avenue, stepped over to her mother's house, next door, leaving the gas stove burning and her small baby in the crib nearby. The interior of the kitchen was ruined, with furniture, and the flames ate through to the roof before they were checked.

Until the quarantine is lifted all dogs will be required to be kept securely muzzled or on leash.

Household Problems

by Lillian Tingle

QUINAULT LAKE, Wash., April 9.—My dear Miss Tingle: I am a fair cook and make good cakes, pie, bread and other dishes, but know very little about planning meals properly for every day. We are a small family and live in the country. I will appreciate it very much if you will tell me where I can get a book on plain menus. Yours truly, A. SUBSCRIBER.

YOU will find Mrs. Rose's book, "Feeding the Family," very helpful. "The American Home Diet" (McCullum) also may be helpful, but the menus given are not very satisfactory for your purpose or for this part of the country.

PIONEER, Or., April 16.—Dear Miss Tingle: I saw a request for crackerkiss. Here is mine. Take a cover in frying pan; let the man get hot, put in piece of butter half the size of a walnut and a rounding teaspoon of sugar. Two good-sized handfuls of popcorn; shake well to keep from burning; add a real good egg. I think this could be added, although I have not tried it. MRS. T. C.

Many thanks for your recipe. I am unable to print your other suggestion, since I cannot mention by name any special proprietary products; but thank you all the same. Let me know if I can help you in return.

April 8.—Dear Miss Tingle: Please tell me some dainty way of serving rhubarb as a dessert for afternoon tea besides pie and sauce.

I am answering your letter the same day that it reaches me, but I cannot say when it will appear in print. It is always wise to leave a good margin of time.

"Desserts" are not served at "afternoon tea" though ice cream or sherbet may properly be used at a formal reception.

Rhubarb may be used in a "whip" or "Bavarian cream" or in a fruit custard with or without cream. It may also be used in small individual tarts or French pastries with or without whipped cream or meringue.

Rhubarb may be jellied, either alone or in combination with other fruits. It may also be used for sherbets or fruit ice cream or for shortcakes, or instead of apples in "Brown Betty," or "Fruit's Omelet," or in a steamed pudding. It can be used like apples with tapioca or cornstarch. Made into a conserve it may be used as a garnish for ice cream.

Let me know if you need any special recipe for any of the above.

Following is a recipe for rhubarb conserve which I hope may be the one wanted by Mrs. C. H. Portland:

Rhubarb conserve.—The following is only one of many possible combinations. Four cups rhubarb, cut in small pieces; one cup sugar; one cup water; one cup orange juice; one cup lemon juice; one-half pound blanched almonds coarsely chopped or run through the coarsest grinder. The orange peel also may be put through the grinder instead of being sliced; eight cups of sugar. Let the sugar and fruit stand together overnight to draw out the juice. In the morning stir thoroughly and cook rapidly until rather thick, stirring often. Rapid cooking keeps it light in color; slow cooking darkens it. Add the almonds five or ten minutes before taking the mixture from the fire. Put up in jelly glasses in the usual manner.

Highway District Projected

WHITE SALMON, Wash., April 19.—(Special).—Engineer Cecil of the forest service says that if the Trout Lake residents would form a permanent highway district before July 1 and take in sufficient area to make an expenditure of $100,000, the forest service would expend $50,000 additional on the end toward White Salmon, which, with the three miles the county is now preparing to build, would give the Trout Lake people a fairly good road from Trout Lake to White Salmon. Mr. Cecil said he would also be satisfied with a 16-foot roadbed and 12 feet of hard surface, gravel or macadam, the least allowed under the permanent highway act. Constantly increasing tourist traffic will necessitate the erection of more lodges.

Why Do Men Build Bookshelves in Their Homes?

A fair question, isn't it? Why does a man when he builds his own home carefully provide space for bookshelves in his living room, in his library or den in the same manner as he builds pantry shelves, closet shelves or shelves in his medicine cabinet? The answer is a simple one, the obvious one. To put books in, of course, in the same manner as pantry shelves are to put food on, closet shelves to put clothes on and shelves of the medicine cabinet are to put medicine in.

He selects and purchases first the Encyclopedia Britannica and builds his library around this great work. Why?

Because it furnishes him with authoritative information on every conceivable subject written by the greatest authorities the world affords.

Because it gives to every woman information which she needs to keep posted on the events of this intensely interesting world.

Because it furnishes the son and daughter of the family the information to satisfy the children's expanding minds and supplements their school studies.

Because the Encyclopedia Britannica has been for generation after generation, since 1768, the standard encyclopedia of the world.

But there's more of an answer to the question. A man puts bookshelves in his home or buys bookcases because he knows that either are as necessary in his home as pantry shelves or closet shelves. He knows that books are as vital a necessity to every man and his home as his food and his clothes and medicine.

The Keystone of Every Home Library

In the same manner as a man chooses his food for the good it is going to do his body, and his clothes for their serviceability, he chooses the books to put in these shelves for their ability to feed and strengthen the mind; books that clothe the man and his family with knowledge and give protection against ignorance. He probably has not unlimited means, so he must choose with utmost care to give his family such books as will be of the most value day in and day out. He is not interested in having books that simply look nice on the shelves. He insists that the books he selects must represent a worth while investment in knowledge, books from which he and his family can obtain a definite, material and lasting benefit.

The Luxury of India Paper

He chooses the Encyclopedia Britannica because it is well made from the physical standpoint. It is printed on the genuine India paper which makes the Britannica far more usable than any encyclopedia ever was before. The beautiful and serviceable bindings make it a book that he is proud to have in his library.

The Encyclopedia Britannica is sold on easy terms of payment, a small amount with the order and moderate monthly payments. Every family can thus afford the Britannica and have in the home the greatest means to knowledge ever put in the hands of mankind.
