The Waterfront Employers' Union in a series of advertisements placed with the daily newspapers of this city, has endeavored to make as clear as possible its attitude toward the longshoremen who are now on strike. The members of the Employers' union now feel that it is their duty to set forth their attitude toward the people of Portland and to present the public aspects of the controversy which is threatening Portland's greatest industry.

Every man or woman in this city, who.

threatening Portland's greatest industry.

Every man or woman in this city, who, directly or indirectly, pays taxes is vitally interested in this struggle. This is no fight between capital and labor only insofar as the capital represented is that which has been invested by the people of Portland. Millions of dollars, raised by taxation, have been spent to make here a seaport that would attract shipping from all over the world. This aim is being accomplished. Portland now is in the front rank of Pacific coast ports and is forging ahead in a manner that is gratifying to those ahead in a manner that is gratifying to those who feel that their investment was a wise one. It is generally known how our exports have exceeded those of other ports and such a condition has promised to be of a permanent nature. Wherever shipping business is transacted Portland is known, and favorably known.

In the neighborhood of $10,000,000 has been

In the neighborhood of $10,000,000 has been spent to bring about such a condition. The river channel no longer is a problem; docks and terminals have been built, and these unsurpassed by any other port; grain elevators and drydocks have been provided and every convenience for the quick handling of vessels is at the service of shippers.

Yet all these accomplishments and this investment made by the people is being menaced through discrimination that shipowners declare they cannot meet. It costs more to load and discharge ships in Portland than in Seattle or San Francisco and these excessive charges are due to a system that has been enforced by the longshoremen's union. That discrimination longshoremen's union. That discrimination must be eliminated or Portland must fail as a seaport. In the dispute that has just arisen, the Waterfront Employers' Union is making no fight against the workers themselves, but against the system under which they worked. We have no complaint to make of any long-shoreman who will give a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

There is work for at least 1500 men on Portland's water front. The most the local international longshoremen's association can muster is 600 men, which clearly shows that it has not maintained an organization adequate to deliver satisfactory service. This shortage of men and the hiring of inefficient workers causes expensive delays in working ships and is one of the principal compaints made hy is one of the principal complaints made by shipowners. The cause of this lies in the fact that under union rules all men must be em-ployed through the union's hall on the list system under which the employers must accept the men provided regardless of their efficiency.

The shipowners declare they cannot tolerate this expense when they can avoid it by sending their vessels to San Francisco or Seattle for cargoes. Our contention is that we should be permitted to hire efficient men, as many as we need to keep ships moving quickly so as to give prompt dispatch as the owners demand and as is done in other ports.

WATERFRONT EMPLOYERS' UNION

This Association is furnishing all labor on the Portland Waterfront and is in best position to place men in steady employment.
