DIAMOND LAKE RETAINED

FOREST SERVICE INDICATES ITS FUTURE CONTROL.

Permit Issued to Jacksonville Man Authorizes Development of Tourist Resort.

The forest service expects to keep Diamond lake within its jurisdiction. This was indicated by the issuance of a permit yesterday afternoon by the service for a summer resort at the lake.

Mr. Howard's permit covers about five acres of ground and C. J. Buck, assistant district forester, explained that this is only one of two or three favorable recreation sites at Diamond lake.

Mr. Howard will form a company of Medford business men to back the development scheme. It is expected that $15,000 will be spent there in improvements in the next three years.

The lake is excellent for bathing, since the water is warm, and Mr. Howard will build a bathhouse and provide all accommodations. There will be rowboats for use on the lake and many provisions will be made for sports.

Fourteen hundred tourists visited the lake last summer. Many were from California and it is thought that Diamond lake will attract many tourists this summer.

state, county and municipal political controversy.

All the while Dr. Brown has been a scrapper. Some say that his election as mayor of Seattle—the first success that has crowned any of his many candidacies for public office—is likely to fall on him.

It was in the course of this protracted row that Brown came into such contact with the courts that he decided to become a lawyer.

But his troubles with the dental board and his contact with the authorities affected Brown in other ways. His advertising related more to his grievances than to dentistry, and he began taking the stump and the soap box to denounce his opponents.

Denunciation of the dental board led easily to denunciation of all forms and attributes of a comprehensive government. His own enlarged themselves so as to comprehend everybody else's troubles.

It was in the course of a political campaign in the old days of Portland that Brown won his first honors as a scrapper by trashing a well-known local pugilist, a candidate for middle-weight championship recognition.

From Missouri, Brown came to Seattle to practice dentistry, for which he had qualified in April of the barber's chair. Almost from the start he was in trouble with the state board of dental examiners.

Among his patients, and professionally, though some other practitioners hate to admit it, Brown has long been considered a good dentist.
