

PASTOR DENIES WISH TO GRAB TERRITORY

Church Only Being Moved, Says Dr. Nugent.

BUILDING NOW TOO SMALL

Pastor of Central Presbyterian Congregation Replies to Irked Congregational Society.

That the Central Presbyterian church is not contemplating moving its parish boundaries, but only its church building to a site one mile east and nearer the center of its congregation, was the declaration yesterday of Dr. W. H. Nugent, pastor, in reply to resolutions protesting against the erection of the new church at the southeast corner of East Thirty-second and East Ankeny streets, adopted unanimously Monday by the Portland Association of Congregational churches and ministers.

The congregational resolution contended that the new site is too close to the Atkinson Memorial and Sunnyside Congregational churches and that it will result in unfair competition. The resolution said that the proposed site is seven blocks from the Atkinson Memorial church, Dr. Nugent contradicted that statement, declaring that the site is eight blocks from the Atkinson church and ten from the Sunnyside.

Church Council Considered. The plan of the Central Presbyterian church to move to the new site was referred several weeks ago to the committee on church of the Portland council of churches, the understanding being that all congregational members of the committee would have no part in the findings or final report. It was said yesterday that the matter had not been considered by that committee. "We are willing to abide by the decision of that committee, and are confident that they will approve the move," said Dr. Nugent.

Matter Considered Carefully. The officials of our church considered the matter of the two churches carefully before any steps were taken. Besides, the church extension committee of the Portland presbytery, to whom all such matters must be taken, has unanimously approved the new site.

Five County Schools Closed. TACOMA, Wash., May 9.—(Special.)—Falling to vote additional funds at the recent county election, five Pierce county schools have been closed prematurely this year. More than 250 children of the county have been affected by the closing of these schools, which will mean that these children will be deprived of nearly a year of education and in many cases, it was said, their school work will be greatly retarded.

Husband Charged With Brutality. PROSSER, May 9.—Charging that her husband knocked the horns from her cows, Mrs. Mary Bradham of Prosser has brought suit for divorce against James Bradham, who resides near Wilbur, in Lincoln county. Adding insult to injury, Mrs. Bradham states that when she was grieving over the death of a sister, her husband said: "You haven't lost so much; I have lost a cayuse."

What's Become of... Kent W. Clark, well-known to all Portlanders, who traveled a number of years ago to California, points by water? He has forsaken the sea and is engaging now in a less picturesque, but probably more profitable business, as manager of the large Oriental hotel at Kobe, Japan.

Moving Picture News

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES.
Columbia—Valentine Swanson, "Beyond the Rocks."
Liberty—Wesley Barry, "School Days."
Reelios—"Orphans of the Storm."
Majestic—"Fair Lady."
Rivoli—Mary Miles Minter, "The Heart Specialist."
Hippodrome—Tom Mix, in "Trailing."
Circle—"Lonesome Corners."

ONE of the most unqualified hits of the season is being scored at the Columbia theater by Rodolph Valentino and Gloria Swanson in "Beyond the Rocks." The attendance is so big that the feature may have to be run a second week.

This signally interesting photoplay was written by the famous novelist, Elinor Glyn, and taken from her own highly successful book of the same title. Another charming exponent enters into the huge success of the production—Sam Wood, the director, and Jack Cunningham, the scenarist.

Valentino's work in the picture is superb, culminating with a thrilling rescue as has been shown in some time. In this photodrama, with excellent comedy running through it, Miss Swanson has a splendid vehicle for her versatile talents, and makes the most of every opportunity afforded by the story.

W. J. Ferguson, veteran stage and screen player who recently appeared in support of Wallace Reid in "The World's Champion," has been engaged for the cast of "To Have and Have Not."

That the determination of the Hindus to regain their historic freedom, by reaching a critical point for Great Britain was the declaration yesterday of Joveddah de Rajah, traveling secretary for the Freedom of India association, who is appearing at the Hippodrome theater.
