ONE of the attractive dancing parties tonight will be given by the Assembly Dancing Club in the Laurelhurst clubhouse. This will be the last of the club's formal for the season. Regularly scheduled, although there probably will be an extra dance or maybe a dinner dance given at one of the attractive inns by the Columbia river highway.

The Portland Helix club will hold a formal dance May 19 in the clubhouse. This will be one of the most interesting dances of next week.

The Helix club will hold a dance tomorrow night at Waverley Country clubhouse.

The juniors of St. Helen's hall will entertain the senior class at a breakfast at Waverley Country club tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Covers will be placed for 50. Miss Anne Westcott is president of the juniors and Miss Frances Spaulding is president of the senior class.

Mrs. J. W. Fowler will be hostess today at a tea from 2 to 6 o'clock at her home 1153 Thurman street, honoring Miss Dorothy Elliott of Walla Walla. Miss Elliott is planning for her girls' summer camp to be held at Walla Walla. Several young girls of prominent families will be members of the camp.

Mrs. Angela K. Murphy entertained a few of her friends at a dinner party Wednesday evening.

Complimenting Mrs. Frank T. McCollough, a prominent matron of Spokane, Mrs. Russell B. Caswell was hostess at an attractive tea held at Miss Louise Linthicum will give a luncheon at her home today.

Honoring Mrs. Jervis Webb, Mrs. Irving Linton has asked a few friends to a luncheon today at the University club.

Mrs. Marvin Dunlevy has been entertained recently in Milton as the guest of her mother, Mrs. Leona Rust, and in Walla Walla as the guest of Miss Nettie M. Galbraith, principal of St. Paul's school for girls, which institution Mrs. Dunlevy formerly attended.

For the benefit of the fund to provide hand uniforms and equipment for the state training school for boys, the Progressive Business Men's club held a theater party at the Helix and the boxes were held by several prominent residents who entertained groups of friends. Box holders included Governor Ben W. Olcott, J. Sheppard Brooks, Mrs. and Mrs. Emory Olmstead, H. B. Van Duzer, J. P. Jaeger, O. H. Fithian, J. C. Anusworth, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Blauvelt, W. J. Riddie, Mrs. Palmer Fales and Mrs. Barrene Tyler Stone will present a musical program. All members and friends of the Oregon Oberlin association are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Postles are being congratulated on the arrival of a baby boy, named William Terrance, born last week at Coe Maternity hospital. Mrs. Postles and son returned yesterday to their home.

Several members of the committee of 100 of the Chamber of Commerce will entertain at line parties tonight at the auditorium for the Ad club Folioes.

The many friends of Mrs. Margaret Ayer Hayden will be glad to know that she is well on the road to recovery.

Women's Activities

THE current literature department will be in charge of the regular meeting of the Portland Woman's club today at 2 o'clock in the ballroom of the Multnomah hotel. A one-act play, "The Futurist," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Lucy Edwards Bruce. Mrs. H. J. Hooke will entertain with a group of songs.

Refreshments will be served during the social hour. Mrs. Charles E. Runyon, president, will preside.

The Young Women's Christian association will hold a mother-and-daughter vespers service next Sunday at 4:30 in the social hall, at which the high school reserves and their mothers will be special guests.

A feature of the program will be the dramatization of "Ruth" by the Bible class students of Washington high school. This story of the Hebrew harvest time will be given in three scenes. First the road from Moab to Bethlehem; second, in the barley fields of Boaz; third, at the gate of the city. The main character will be Mary Newell as Ruth, Viola Christianson as Orpah, Ruth Myers as Naomi and Pearl Brown as Boaz. A mother's talk will be made by Mrs. Forrest Fisher, member of the Young Women's Christian association board and chairman of the girls' work committee. A daughters' talk will be given by Miss Alberta Griley, president of the federation of high school reserves.

The association hymn, "Follow the Gleam," will be sung in chorus by all the reserves.

Mrs. W. L. Ireland will be the soloist. A social hour will refreshments will follow the service. Miss Mildred Fox, secretary of the high school reserves, will preside, and will have a number of the girls serve refreshments at home. This meeting will be open to all mothers and daughters.

Perhaps one of the most interesting sessions of the series of conferences on social and industrial problems, now being conducted in this city by experts from the east, will be that held in the public library, Eleventh and Yamhill streets, today at 2:30 under the auspices of the women's department of the Portland council of churches, of which Mrs. E. O. Sheppard is chairman.

All women of the city have been invited to attend this meeting, which will be addressed by Dr. Samuel Zane Stone and Dr. Alva Taylor on the theme, "The Relation of Women to the Social and Industrial Problems."

These men are addressing various organizations within the city, among which are Reed college, North Pacific dental college, Progressive Business Men's club, City club, Central Labor Council and Social Workers' Association of Oregon. They also are conducting conferences in many of the large cities throughout the nation and are well qualified to speak on social and industrial questions.

The Woman's association of the First Presbyterian church will meet as usual today from 10 to 4 o'clock at the church house. The members of the organization are asked to bring their lunch and coffee will be served at noon by the committee. All women of the church are invited.

Several prominent women are interested in the luncheon to be held Tuesday in the Portland hotel as the annual social gathering of the Catholic Women's league. Mrs. Winthrop Terry and Mrs. T. B. Carroll are in charge of the arrangements and reservations are being made through Mrs. M. Johnson, Mrs. P. B. Cozys and Mrs. G. B. Root.

The Parent-Teacher association of district 45 will give a bazaar, fair and chicken supper this afternoon and tonight at the Griffith school. The proceeds will be devoted to club work. A cafeteria will be served from 5:30 to 7 o'clock and a program will be given at 8 o'clock tonight by members of the association and pupils of the school.

Chickamas Asparagus Appears. CANYB, Or., May 11.—(Special.)—Home grown asparagus is now daily arriving in the local market, while a number of the growers are shipping large quantities to the Portland market, where they are finding a steady demand. The retail price is 20 cents.

MRS. OTTO C. MAUTHE, WHO ASSISTED AT A PARTY.

She party at the concert to be given by J. Erwin Mutch at Pythian temple, and afterward will be hostess at a supper party.

A meeting of the Rose City Dancing club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the green room, Portland Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of choosing officers and making arrangements for the 1922-23 dances. This will be an important meeting and a full representation of the organization is requested.

Mrs. V. L. O. Chittick will be hostess to Portland members of Mu Phi Epsilon, national musical sorority, Saturday afternoon at her home on Reed college campus. Mrs. Chittick is a Mu Phi member of the University of Washington chapter.

An event of interest is the May party next Wednesday night in Hibernia hall, 349 Russell street, to be given by the auxiliary to Ancient Order of Hibernians. Dancing will be the attraction all evening in the upper hall. Cards will be played in the banquet room.

Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae association will meet at luncheon at 1 o'clock at the University club tomorrow. For reservations telephone Mrs. T. E. Garbade, Tabor 4597.

Mrs. Graham Dukehart entertained yesterday at a luncheon for Miss Ruth Small, bride-elect, and Miss Ann Masterson, who is visiting Mrs. Harry Kendall. Covers were placed for 12. Mrs. W. B. Robinson will be hostess at a bridge today, honoring Miss Small.

Miss Laura Van Houten will entertain on her birthday, May 26, with a

Household Problems

DAYTON, Or., May 11.—Dear Miss Tingle: Could you please help me plan a banquet for alumnae? I have a menu: Fruit cocktail, creamed chicken, creamed potatoes, combination vegetable salad, then ice cream, cake, coffee, hot baking. Should the salad be on the table before the guests are seated? Of course, it will be on lettuce leaves. It seems to me it would make the table look prettier. Anything you could suggest would be such a help to me. Thanking you in advance I am yours truly, MRS. E. J. N.

I am sorry to disappoint you, but it is never possible for me to send personal replies, even when a stamped envelope is inclosed, and I cannot guarantee any definite date of publication, although I answer all letters very promptly.

I think your menu should prove quite satisfactory. Cheese, however, is not necessary with a luncheon of this type and the meal would be a better balanced one without it; so I should omit it if I were you.

You might find it easier to serve the Denver biscuits (recently given in my Sunday column) or ordinary raised biscuits, instead of baking-powder biscuits, because the former can be mixed in advance and do not require quite so much last-minute attention. Moreover, if you really prefer delicate raised rolls to even the best of baking-powder biscuits.

It is quite customary to have the salad placed on the table at the beginning of the meal when a luncheon is served, though of course it is not to be eaten until the salad course, after the main dish and before the dessert. The purpose of placing it in this way is not only to make the table look more attractive, but also to minimize service, especially when speeches are to be made during the meal.

Of course, when the salad is set on the table there is always the danger of its being eaten before the main course. This is a common mistake, but it can be avoided by placing the salad on the table after the main course has been served. This way, the salad is always the last thing to be eaten, and the table remains attractive throughout the meal.

MAN WINS SUCCESS IN NEW BUSINESS. "Say, Tom, your old friend Dick of Seattle was here last week. Did you see him? He looked great. I'm glad to see that he is prospering up there. They say he didn't do so well here, you know."

"Sure, Dick. Yes, he tells me he has been making all kinds of money the last few years. Well, Dick's a prince of a fellow and a hard worker. I'm glad to see that he is prospering up there. They say he didn't do so well here, you know."

"I think you're right. Dick is a real success story. He's got a good head on his shoulders and he's got a lot of energy. He's got a lot of money now, and he's got a lot of respect from his friends and neighbors. He's got a lot of success in his new business, and he's got a lot of happiness in his life. He's got a lot of everything, and he's got a lot of nothing. He's got a lot of success in his new business, and he's got a lot of happiness in his life. that some socially untrained guests may fall at once upon it and devour it before the proper salad eating time; but in this case, with your fruit cocktail also in place, this difficulty probably will not present itself.

PORTLAND, Or., April 29.—Dear Miss Tingle:—Please give a recipe for old-fashioned custard pie. Thanking you.

Custard pie—One pint rich milk, three eggs, one-quarter cup sugar (or sugar to taste), one-half teaspoonful salt, a little grated nutmeg.

Line a deep pie with any good pastry, pinching the edge up so as to deepen the pie. Prick over the bottom with a fork. Beat the sugar and salt, adding the milk gradually and making sure that the sugar is all dissolved. Pour into the pastry-lined pie plate, and place in a hot oven to secure cooking the under crust before the custard sets too hot.

Then reduce the heat and bake gently until set in the middle. Over-baking will cause it to "wee" and be filled with holes. Let cool before serving.

will be seen a smart three-piece outfit. Your tweed will make up perfectly and the throw ends can be added, replacing the present type of collar. Your plan of collar and the use of the plain material in splendid color will surely have a stunning outfit.

Have your oxforde of the light tan and your hose to match. White black is a color of mine, it would not be in keeping with your charming combination. Wear the wash gloves in a darker shade of tan than you have in your tweed.

Dear Madam Riche:—May I ask for a space in your column for the first time? Will the circular skirt be worn this spring? I do not like the best? If not how could I change one which is 2 1/2 yards wide, long waist, bell sleeves and purple front?

Please suggest a skirt pattern from the Butterick patterns, as I have best luck with them. I want something for street wear with a tummy. I do not like the best? I have a brunette, Nothing fancy, but neat and cool for the season. I'm tall enough, being 5 feet 9 inches I can't wear too large a plaid.

Also please suggest a Butterick dress pattern for a woman 50 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weight 135 pounds. Would crepe de chine be nice or would some other material be better? What kind of color of trimming would be best? She is a brunette, Nothing fancy, but neat and cool for the season. I'm tall enough, being 5 feet 9 inches I can't wear too large a plaid.

Miss M. M. M.—It is always a pleasure to welcome the newcomers to our column. As for your question regarding the circular skirt, I will say that they are not in high favor just at present in our section of the country, but are being worn in the more extreme centers of dress. In Paris the skirts are circular and long, permitting the vamp of the shoe to show. If you like the type, why not wear it? We do not need individual choice rather than the "all alike," which our street corners reveal.

For your skirt pattern see the summer quarterly in the Butterick, page 49, 4573. The curved line at the front will cut your height a bit.

For the woman you mention there is a good model in the same issue, page 22, No. 3376. The surplus gives a long line and the side trel produces an unlooked-for length, particularly in the crepe de chine. Have the vestige of the finely tucked batiste.

ALBANY, Or.—Dear Madam Riche: I have four yards of 40-inch material, like the sample enclosed. I have heard you told that this material is to be very popular this season. Is that true? I would like to use it for a very contrasting shade, in basque waist and flared skirt.

I have enough taffeta, like sample, but am doubtful about that shade as I have very delicate coloring.

I am 19, slender, and of an average height; hazel eyes, brown hair with gold tints.

What is your opinion of a three-piece costume of the type and color of the sketch with waist and cape throws of the plaid?

The crown of my hat is same shade as the plain tweed with brown trim; shouldn't my cuffs and collar give me of a similar shade of brown, or would black patent leather and white gloves ruin the general effect?

I am hoping to have a smart costume of these two tones and can't give you shoes as hastily chosen.

Assuming you that your advice will be greatly appreciated.

AN INTERESTED READER. Your rose net and the tan taffeta make a very pretty combination and I believe that the rose will reflect sufficient color. In the Butterick quarterly for summer is a fetching basque frock which, with longer sleeves and higher neck, will make an afternoon gown of exquisite line and trim. Page 25, No. 3289.
