

MARKET NOW SHOWS MANY ATTRACTIONS

Yamhill Street Is Crowded
With Shoppers.

NEW VEGETABLES COMING

Oregon-Grown Products More in Evidence; Better Berries Now
Coming From South.

The May sunshine and bright blue sky yesterday afternoon tempted many a Portland housewife to fare forth to market with a roomy basket on her arm. The public market was crowded with happy-faced shoppers, reveling in the spring weather and bargains.

An attractive assortment of flowers gave color and variety to the stalls. Many blooms will be purchased today in anticipation of Mother's day tomorrow. There are pansies in rich shades and some large calla lilies and any number of pretty potted plants and even wild flowers.

Oregon vegetables are gradually coming in, and new arrivals this week are turnips and head lettuce, both from the Dalles. The turnips are 10 cents a bunch and the lettuce, which is firm and crisp, 10 cents a head.

The California strawberries are of better quality than those of last week, and are coming into Portland at the rate of a carload a day. The price is 20 cents and 25 cents a basket, which is a little cheaper than last week, when some dealers were asking 30 cents.

New Oregon carrots are expected to be in next week. It is also thought that there will be cherries from California. Canteleupes are expected next week.

Oregon asparagus is much in demand and is of unusually good quality. The best selling for 25 cents a pound. Then there are green peas from California at two pounds for 25 cents, eggplant at 40 cents a pound, hot-house cucumbers, large size, for 25 cents and 30 cents each; summer squash at 25 cents a pound, new potatoes at two pounds for a quarter and rhubarb at three pounds for 25 cents.

Artichokes are selling well. The price is low at 15 cents and 15 cents each, or two for 25 cents.

The best radishes sell at three bunches for 10 cents and are just as popular as the little green onions at 5 cents a bunch. New spinach on the market is three pounds for 25 cents.

A shipment of Cuban pineapples has arrived. The pineapples are 15 cents apiece. No change in prices has been made in other fruits, which vary greatly, depending upon quality.

EGGS BOUGHT FOR CANNING

Housewives Taking Advantage of Present Low Price.

Housewives are taking advantage of the low price of eggs and are still buying eggs for "canning." With the price 27 cents a dozen, an unusually large number of women are buying eggs to "put down" for winter use. Many, who had not acquired this popular habit before, have joined the throng of canners this season. The larger stores report many sales of eggs for this purpose, all during the last six weeks.

The price of poultry is the same this week as last, with hens of more than four pounds selling at 34 cents a pound in the public market and 35 cents at the same price. Hens under four pounds sell as low as 30 cents a pound. The wholesale price of butter is 2 cents higher than last week at this time, but the retail price, at least on the market, has not changed materially. The minimum price for butter is 36 cents a pound.

WORLD AFFAIRS STUDIED

International Relations Club of Reed College Holds Meeting.

The Reed college international relations club held a meeting Thursday evening at a dinner in the commons. The club was organized last fall and is affiliated with the institute of international education, an organization of students, graduates and faculty members throughout the United States whose purpose is a study of international complications.

The Reed unit is organized as similar as possible to the plans of the recent arms and peace conferences, with small groups making a study of particular problems and nations and reporting thereon. The membership of the club includes six faculty members and 13 students. Meetings are held every two weeks at the home of President Scholz.

The Thursday evening convalescence reviewed the work of the local organization, which undoubtedly will continue its existence next fall.

DR. FLINN IS CONVICTED

Portland Physician Found Guilty of Trafficking in Cocaine.

Dr. Homer J. Flinn, ostensible partner of Dr. Charles Liscum in the practice of medicine in the Raleigh building, was convicted yesterday by a jury in federal court of having sold cocaine to Ah John, a Chinese informer for the government, who bought narcotics from both physicians. Liscum already is serving a sentence at the McNeil island prison, following a recent conviction in federal court. Ah John is doing time at the same institution, and it is anticipated that Flinn will join the other two soon after next Monday, when he will be sentenced by Judge Wolcott.

SALMON MARKET STEADY

Price to Remain Stationary Till Southern Catch Begins.

The price of salmon will remain stationary until after May 20, when southern Oregon streams are opened, according to local fish dealers. Salmon is still selling at 30 cents a pound, which has been the prevailing price for some time. The majority of salmon now being sold is from the Puget sound district.

Halibut is 25 cents a pound and halibut cheeks 30 cents. Among the other varieties, which are popular, are black cod, 15c; sturgeon, 25c; Columbia river shad, 30c and 10c, and fresh water croppies, 25c; fresh fluke cod from Newport, 15c and perch, 15c a pound.

Crabs are still very scarce, but razor clams are more plentiful at 30c and 40c a dozen. Little neck clams are two pounds for a quarter. Olympia oysters sell for 50 cents a pint.

MOUNTAIN SHEEP LOST

Oregon Wild Animals Said to Have Crossed Snake Into Idaho.

If it be possible to round up or drive back into Oregon 18 mountain sheep that are said to have swum the Snake river recently and crossed into Idaho, the Oregon state game commission would like to do it. But how to approach such a wild thing as a mountain sheep or to drive it anywhere save in the least favorable direction are problems that must be faced.

The sheep are said to have deserted their Wallowa stamping grounds in favor of Idaho. A herd of about 30 animals in the Wallowa mountains make up the last surviving mountain sheep in this state, no far as known. Some migratory whites induced by the coming of spring is believed responsible for the desertion of the truant 18.

FAIRIES ARE OUT TODAY

GOBLINS ALSO TO BE SEEN AT PENINSULA PARK.

Pretty May Festival to Be Staged
This Afternoon With About 150 Children Participating.

Sprightly fairies will trip about the greenward at Peninsula park this afternoon in a pretty May festival, staged as the first outdoor event of the year under direction of the city park bureau. There will be a May queen to preside over the festival activities of fairies and goblins, impersonated by some 150 children who have been under instruction in the community houses in recent months.

Of course there will be a Maypole, with its attendant dances, and any number of pantomimes and drills, brought forth ostensibly for delectation of the May queen. But parents and friends will equally enjoy the pageants from the sidelines.

"Mother Goose" stories form the background of the pageants to be presented, with "Jack-in-the-Box" characters and many other of the old familiar of childhood days in attendance.

The festival is in charge of Miss Velma Hyers, Miss Edna Agler and Miss Jewel Tosier, three instructors of the park bureau's winter classes. Should unfavorable weather be encountered the festival will be postponed to a later date, the event being such that it could not be effectively presented indoors.

Your Kiddies Need TRU-BLU Grahams

Experiments, reported on by a nationally recognized school of home economics, show that Graham Crackers are the delicious staff of life that a careful mother should select for her growing children.

High in Food Value

Graham crackers are ranked higher in content of protein, fat and carbohydrate than bread. They contain less water. Which means that they build muscle and flesh—and furnish the body with heat.

Easily Digested

The amount of time and the amount of energy required to digest graham crackers are notably low. They do not overtax the stomach even though they are eaten in large quantities.

—Made of true Graham flour that must measure up to a uniformly high standard of excellence.
—Sweetened with sugar and pure honey.
—Baked in our big daylight factory, where sanitary conditions are ideal, and where absolute uniformity of ingredients and process is a religion.
—Tru-Blu Grahams are the safe, healthful food you desire for your growing children.
