Washington Convention Is to Be Opened Today.

SHORT PLATFORM LIKELY

Poll Tax Repeal and Reduced Tax ation Are to Be Featured Planks; Narcotics Topic.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Olympia, Wash, May 23 -- Washington's democratic hosts invaded the state capital today in modest numbers for their state convention to be held tomorrow Until late this afternoon there were tonight, but the convention will be far short of its allotted number of delegates unless there is a rush from all directions early tomorrow.

Indications are that the platform to will be absent from Fortland.

be adopted will be short and snappy.

Poll Tax Repeal Favored. Poll-tax repeal and reduced taxa-tion will be the featured planks. Something will be said against the narcotic drug traffic and attention will be given to some of the special demands of women delegates who are working in harmony with the state women's legislative council. Governor Hart's administration is due for condemnation, of course, though some difference of opinion developed tonight as to how far the democratic party may safely go in criticising or condemning the civil administrative code. The republican contention that the code already has saved the state government much money and is likely to save much more is accepted by some influential democrats as fairly well proved. De-nunciation of the code might therefore prove a boomerang.

Primary Repeal Advocated. Some of the democratic delegates early on the ground, are outspoken for repeal of the direct primary law, but considerations of expediency are likely to dominate the convention in this matter and the chances are that the primary will be left alone or at the most be made the subject of recommendations for very moderof recommendations for very moderate changes.

The convention will 'assemble at 10:30 tomorrow at the American Legion hall and will be called to order by George F. Christensen of Stevenson, chairman of the state committee. Dr. Edwin J. Brown, mayor-elect of Seattle will be temperature observed. Seattle, will be temporary chairman, and will deliver the keynote speech which, like the platform, will be Barry Carroll, star of closing week

Boards Hurry Work.

Boards Hurry Work.

Olcott led Hall everywhere in eastern Oregon, save Umatilia, and he also led in central Oregon. Hall's big vote came from the densely populated districts between the Cascades and the seacoast.

Countles carried by Hall were Clackamas, Clatsop, Columbia, Cooss, Curry, Douglas, Jackson, Josephine, Lane, Muitnomah, Tillamook and Umatilia. Olcott led in Baker, Benton, Crook, Deschutes, Gilliam, Grant, Harney, Hood River, Jefferson, Lake, Klamath, Lincoln, Linn, Malheur, Marion, Morrow, Sherman, Union, Wallowa, Wasco, Washington, Wheeler, Patterson carried Polk and Yamhill.

Owing to the intense interest attached to the contest for governor, canvassing boards are expediting their work as rapidly as possible. Multnomah will be the last to report officially, owing to the large vote cast. When the county boards have made their formal canvass, they re-port to the secretary of state, who tabulates these returns and then issues the statement as to the result.
Owing to the time required for the canvass in Multnomah, a couple of weeks will probably elapse before the secretary of state gives his official announcement.

Other Contests Recalled.

This is not the first time that there have been very close elections in Oregon. The contest between Harry M Cake and Jonathan Bourne, Jr., for the nomination for United States senator, was so close that a remote precinct in the mountains of eastern Oregon gave Bourne the victory. The contest between the late Henry L Benson and Charles L McNary for justice of the supreme court, was so close that a small precinct in Curry county won the place on the bench for Benson. Later McNary was appointed to the United States senate. Other Contests Recalled. pointed to the United States senate. While no figures are available from Baker, Grant or Malheur counties on public service commissioner, Thomas K. Campbell now appears to be an

R. BROWN had swallowed his lunch and had paid his bill. Cautiously he counted his change. "Here!" he said, sharply, "Take back this plugged nickel and give me a good one!" Mr. Brown walked proudly out. They couldn't fool old Brown. But old Brown had fooled himself.

Brown's day was heavy and dull. He lacked "pep." There was a mid-afternoon drowsy spell when he needed to be awake-the direct and natural result of heavy, starchy breakfasts and lunches, taken on faith and without question as to value-just because the food looked and tasted like food.

Thousands of shrewd business men who count their change, take their food for granted.

That's what builds up the sanitarium business, and puts the tired "all-done" feeling into the mid-afternoon of a business day.

food whose delicious, appetizing flavor and crispness are an introduction to well-balanced nourishment-a nourishment easily and quickly assimilated, so that body, brain and nerves are well fed and kept free of the stored-up poisons left by so many illselected foods.
