

WORK ON HIGHWAY DEPENDS ON POLK

State Commission Not to Do Jobs Without Aid.

$500,000 IS SET ASIDE

Money to Be Diverted to Other Places Unless Share of Help Is Provided by District.

Unless Polk county sees its way to reimburse the state highway commission for money advanced for grading the west side Pacific highway and money advanced for bridges, the highway commission will abandon further road work in that county. There is about $500,000 set aside for hard-surfacing the west side highway in Polk county and the commission unanimously agreed at a special meeting yesterday that this pavement money would be diverted to other places.

If Polk county fails to make the reimbursement there is a good prospect of the paving money being spent by the highway commission on the road between Albany and Corvallis. The main reason why this connection between Corvallis and Albany has not been placed on the state map is because the commission saw no money in sight for paving it. The half million dollars which is being held for hard-surfacing in Polk county would be gladly accepted on a co-operative basis by Benton county. There are several counties willing to go 50-50 with the highway commission on any state money that the commission has available, so the money intended for Polk county will not go begging.

County Must Do Grading.

Under the law, the county must provide the grade and bridges and the state must do the surfacing. Grading has been done in Polk, but the state advanced the funds and the state also advanced some money for bridges.

For several years there has been a disagreement between Polk county and the highway commission, centering largely in the location of the west side highway south of Monmouth. People of Independence wanted the road to go south from that town instead of from Monmouth and the matter has been fought in and out of the courts for several years. The commission, at a roadside meeting held with officials and citizens, agreed, in exchange for locating the highway south from Monmouth rather than from Independence, to pave a road from Dallas to Salem. When this Dallas-Salem road was under way and partly hard surfaced the Independence people undertook to upset the agreement and went to court. The courts have decided that the highway commission had the authority to make the location from Monmouth south, and this, which was the main controversy, and which delayed the work, has been disposed of. The commission now wants a reimbursement for money expended for the grade and bridges.

Polk Court Causes Delay.

But for the attitude of the Polk county court the west side highway would have been paved completely through Polk county last year and the highway open the full distance from Portland. As a result of the situation in Polk county, through traffic now uses the Pacific highway on the east side to Albany, then crosses on a county road to Corvallis, where it again picks up the pavement, and continues south. The county road between Albany and Corvallis has to carry practically all of the through travel and Benton county is anxious to have it since a state road and paved, judging from the attitude of the highway commission, at the special meeting held yesterday, Benton county is likely to have its wish.

Two Counties Affected.

Both Yamhill and Benton counties have been affected by the attitude of the Polk county court. The highway being paved through Polk they also suffered losses. Circuit Judge Kelly handed down a decision to the effect that market road funds cannot be used on state highways. Some market money was expected from Polk county for the state system in that county. The highway commission will probably institute a friendly suit in this matter, for several counties are affected by the decision, as they have applied market road money on state roads. An example is Clackamas county, which has given market road funds for a section of the Mount Hood loop, as the loop road will be essentially a market road insofar as Clackamas county is concerned.

SANATORIUM UNDER FIRE

Establishment in Portland Heights District Is Opposed.

Without sanction from the city council, a sanatorium for the care of nervous persons has been established at Nineteenth and Clifton streets in the Portland Heights district, according to complaint made yesterday to city officials by residents of this district. The same residents say that a permit has been granted by the council for the establishment of another sanatorium on Sixteenth and Clifton.

A hurried protest has been prepared and is filed with the council to be presented and considered at the regular meeting this morning. It is expected that a large number of persons will be on hand to make personal objections to the continuance of either institution.

Woodburn Man to Stand Trial.

AUTO CAMP CUTS RATES TO TOURISTS WHO STOP HERE

Fifty Cents Daily Charged for First Four Days, With Free Period Allowed Visitors Subsequently.

BY ADDISON BENNETT. MORE than likely the Portland auto camp is the only one in the United States which has an open-air radio attachment. This has been installed by C. M. Johnson, the concessionaire merchant, whose store, dwelling and all supply station is at the head of Kiwanis avenue. Monday night he received a fine recital from Oakland, Cal., and will feature every afternoon the sports and other news sent out by The Oregonian.

The number of machines registered since the opening day, May 2, up to the close of June 5, was 226, which shows an average of about 19 a day. The daily arrivals have now reached almost 30.

A change has been made in the prices. The grounds were making money too fast. The fee now is 50 cents a day for the first four days, then six days free. Then a new start can be made at the regular 50 cents a day.

Mrs. L. O. Donaldson, who last year was a sort of "camp mother," under the title of matron, came regularly back on her job Tuesday. Mrs. Donaldson is admirably equipped for this position. She is a mine of information for the campers, a fine nurse and makes friends with all of the campers. She can usually be found at the rest house.

Another man was put on yesterday to help Superintendent Keany, Samuel A. Mondy. He will be on the day shift to help handle the crowds. "Crowds" is the advisable word, for more than likely the attendance will run well up towards 1000 people.

Mrs. Hannah Kline, a widow from Bellingham, Wash., arrived at the camp at the head of a party using two machines, a bug and a sedan. The party numbers eight, as follows: Her brother, John O'Donnell; her two sisters, Margaret and Ann O'Donnell; and Daniel, James, John and Robert Kline, aged 12, 10, 8 and 7 years, respectively. The party is on the way to Bend, where Mrs. Kline has friends, and they expect to remain there or in that vicinity.

R. L. Morton, contractor from Kennewick, Wash., accompanied by his wife, is out looking for some big earth-removal contract. He expects to land in Spokane or near there, that town is sort of headquarters for the "dirt movers."

J. W. Owen, wife and daughter, Mrs. Ober and Dr. and Mrs. Charles C. Wing, from Oakland, Cal., rolled into camp in one of the finest machines ever "rented" there. It is a big sedan and it would take a man about five years at $3 a day to earn enough to buy its mate. This party went from Oakland to Seattle, then down to Astoria, and are now on their way home.

Rev. N. Gray, Mrs. Gray and daughter, May, with a young man by the name of Jesse Buchanan, are on their way from Spokane to Los Angeles. Rev. Gray belongs to the Latter Day Saints and expects to settle in California.
