

SEE DOCTOR OFTEN, SAYS MEDICAL MAN

Preventive Medicine Best,
Declares Dr. Emerson.

HEALTH EXPERT IN TOWN

Visitor Finds Much to Commend in University Medical School and County Hospital.

"The greatest single call today from public health forces and the field of preventive medicine is for the periodical examination of people who normally consider themselves well. This is the biggest message for the public that can be given, because in it lies the possibility of correcting many human ills."

So said Dr. Haven Emerson, noted public health authority, who was in Portland yesterday for a few hours as a guest of local medical men under whose guidance he inspected the University of Oregon medical school and county hospital and was taken for a trip up the Columbia highway. Dr. Emerson, formerly president of the New York City board of health, was the director of the Cleveland public health survey. He is at present director of the school of public health administration at Columbia university and is on his way to the University of California to conduct a six weeks' course.

Accompanied by Dr. R. B. Dillehunt, dean of the medical school; Dr. George Parrish, city health officer; Dr. C. U. Moore, of the Cooperative Infant Welfare society, and Robert W. Coburn, executive secretary of the City club, Dr. Emerson made a hurried survey of the medical school and county hospital yesterday morning. He was delighted with the developments of Portland's medical center and was enthusiastic over the school's facilities and equipment.

One Ordinance Disapproved.
"The university here," he commented, "seems not to have made such an extensive investment in checks that it will have no money left to invest in brains to carry on the instruction of students. I hope, however, that you will have a tuberculosis hospital and wards for contagious diseases in your general hospital. I understand that you have an ordinance which prevents the treatment of tuberculosis patients within the city limits. This is a great misfortune and should be corrected. The question is whether you consider it more dangerous to let these patients go uncaared for on your streets and homes, or to make it possible for them to be treated in hospitals, where modern medical science would insure protection to others and at the same time teach the patient how to care for himself."

"Making the pasteurization of milk compulsory has done more than any other single factor to reduce bone and glandular tuberculosis infections among children in New York City. Hospitals which were formerly crowded with these cases now have only half of their beds occupied by such cases. New York is also appropriating funds for the care of tuberculosis patients in homes and under the careful supervision maintained new developments in tuberculosis treatment may be expected."

Health Survey Commended.
Dr. Emerson was much interested in the City club's recent survey of public health methods in Portland and constantly referred to a copy of the report which he carried. "We need more case histories written in medical practice today, and we also need the public health diagnosis of communities," he said. "Your City club report is an admirable 'case history' of this community. Only a few have been made in this country. We need them as a basis for the modern study of public health administration."

When asked what was the foremost movement in public health work today, Dr. Emerson replied that it was the educational programme to impress on the public the need of periodical medical examinations.

"The national health council," he said, "will initiate such a campaign this fall. It is a broad step in preventive medicine which will induce people to have their body machinery examined regularly, just as they do their automobiles. The war and the draft taught us the need for regular medical examinations."

Before leaving for San Francisco Dr. Emerson held a conference with representatives of the City club public health committee, to whom he made recommendations for future work.

ROAD CONTRACT IS LET

J. O. Howton of Freewater to Build Two and One-Half Miles.

PENDLETON, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—J. O. Howton of Freewater was the successful bidder on a contract for two and one-half miles of road construction in the east end of Umatilla county. The price bid was $45,882.20. The contract was let by the county court.

C. J. Carlson was the successful bidder for the construction of a bridge across a small creek on the Oregon-Washington highway, the price being $25,075.00. Contract was let.

Both jobs will start at once. The bridge job is most important to the farmers east of Pendleton, who at the present time cannot drive their big teams around the sharp detour provided when the bridge was washed out last spring.

There were many bidders, and the figures follow: Bridge, C. J. Carlson, $25,075.00; Tobin & Pierce, $25,095; David Samuels, $25,051; C. P. A. Loneragan, $25,075.00; F. Rhymer, $25,100; H. C. Halott, $22,285; road work: J. O. Howton, $45,882.20; J. W. Chenault, $10,792.30; J. K. Shotwell, $11,237.30; C. J. Carlson, $12,067.30; H. M. Johnson, $12,192.50, and David Samuels, $16,791.20.

CAMP PERMIT AT ISSUE

COUNCIL MEMBERS TO VIEW
TABERNACLE SITE.

Oregon Holiness Association Declares Meeting Place Kept in Sanitary Condition.

Further investigation will be made in connection with the application of the Oregon Holiness association for a permit to conduct a camp meeting on 15 acres located in the vicinity of East Thirty-third and Mason streets before action will be taken.

City Commissioner Barbur stated that he received reports from men in his department that the main tabernacle tent would be located 500 feet from any dwelling in the district and for that reason he could see no objection to granting of the permit. Several property owners near the camp meeting site informed the council that during the meetings an "arising gong" is sounded at 5:40 every morning and they objected to being aroused at this hour of the day. They also complained of unsanitary conditions in the camp as well as noise at late hours at night. Officials of the organization seeking the permit informed the council that the "arising gong" would not be sounded this year and that no meetings would be held after 10 o'clock at night. They declared that the camp site had always been kept in a sanitary condition and in this confirmation was given by City Commissioner Mann, in charge of the health bureau.

However, before taking final action all members of the council will view the camp site. It is proposed to hold the religious services on the site for ten days, beginning July 20.

RIVER GIVES UP BODIES

SAILOR VICTIM IS TAKEN FROM WILLAMETTE.

Body of Suicide, Weighted Down
by Piece of Iron, Found by Searchers.

The Willamette river gave up two of its victims yesterday when searchers dragging the stream for the body of H. E. Conroy, a sailor who was drowned during the course of Tuesday's marine parade, recovered his body and that of an unidentified suicide, who had evidently lain on the river's bottom for the last three months.

The body of the unknown was weighted down by two heavy pieces of iron, which prevented it from rising to the surface. Theories of foul play are scouted, as all evidence points to suicide.

Conroy, a boatswain's mate aboard the battleship Connecticut, was drowned when he toppled backward from the stern of a small craft which his ship had entered in the festival.

The suicide's body was that of a man evidently about 60 years of age, 5 feet, 11 inches in height and weighing about 185 pounds. All marks that might have assisted in identification had been removed from the pockets and no watch, money or articles of value were found.

The body of Conroy was removed to the morgue where it will be held pending decision by naval authorities as to its disposal.

CHURCH TO CELEBRATE

Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal
Members to Picnic July 4.

Under the direction of a committee of three members, Lewis Overmeyer, J. Irish and F. M. Phelps, arrangements are being made for the annual July 4 picnic and celebration by the members of the Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal church and Sunday school. The programme arranged for the picnic will be a young people of the Epworth League and plans are being made for a number of sport events, including baseball, volleyball, basketball and races.

The committee has not definitely decided where the picnic will be held. Last year the picnic of the combined membership of the church and the Sunday school picnic on July 4 was such that it was decided to repeat the joint celebration. A number of fine merchandise prizes have been offered by Sunnyside business houses.

CHARTER CHANGE NEEDED

Revision Necessary to Bar Aliens
From Municipal Work.

Revision of the city charter will be necessary to prevent the employment of aliens on public improvement work projected by the city. Conflicting decisions on the power of the council to prevent the employment of aliens by contractors 3909 Seventeenth street Southeast, performing work for the city led the council yesterday to refer the subject to the charter revision committee for action.

The request that alien labor be not employed on municipal work was made in a petition presented to the council by the Oregon Federation of Fraternal Societies.

DYING WISH IS OBEYED

Son Marries Soon After Funeral,
as Mother Had Asked.

The last request of his dying mother that he marry at the earliest possible time following her death was obeyed when Charles J. Dally, Portland, married Edith E. Gould last Sunday night, four days later, at the First Spiritualist church.

The mother who made the request, Mrs. Fanny Dally, died Wednesday, June 14. Rev. J. Willard Hills, pastor of the First Spiritualist church, performed the wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Dally, aged 73 years, was born in Pittsburg, Pa., September 21, 1848. In later years she made her home with her son in Portland, following the death of her husband, about 25 years ago. Funeral services were held at the Portland crematorium with the Rev. Mr. Hills in charge.

Church and School Planned.
CHEHALIS, Wash., June 21.—(Special.)—St. John the Evangelist,

Catholic church of Chehalis, of which Father Duffy is pastor, will build a new combination church and school on a block of lots recently purchased, lying on Cascade avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets.

The cost of the improvements will be $40,000. A modern one-story school building, in which a day school will be taught, will be one of the buildings.

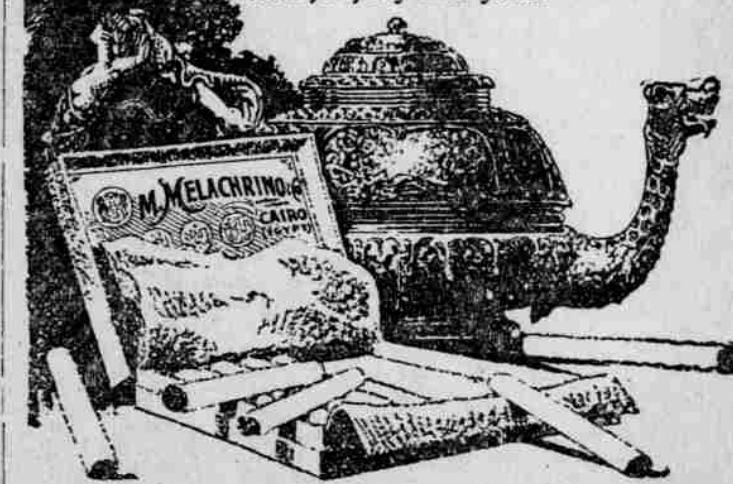

Road Meeting Called.

PENDLETON, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—To promote development of the road over the Blue mountains commonly called the Tollgate road, running from Weston mountain over a cut in the hills to the Grande Ronde valley, a big road meeting has been called at Weston. Federal aid has been asked by the promoters for the highway which passes through the Wenaha national forest. Delegates will be invited to attend from Walla Walla, Pendleton, Weston, Freewater, Athena, Helix, Elgin, Joseph and Enterprise to form an organization.
