WRIT OF ERROR DENIED SUPREME COURT TURNS DOWN PLEA OF SLAYERS.

Attorney for Rathie and Kirby Will Make One More Effort to Prevent Execution.

Unsuccessful in his attempt to get a writ of error from the United States supreme court to stay the execution of John Rathie and Elvin D. Kirby, slayers of Sheriff Taylor of Pendleton, Charles W. Garland returned from Washington, D. C., yesterday. He said he would make one more effort to get federal judges here to issue an injunction restraining the warden from hanging the pair, as scheduled for Friday, July 7.

It was two years ago that Sheriff Taylor was shot down in an attempt to stop a jail-break in which Rathie and Kirby were ring-leaders.

SALEM, Or., July 4.—(Special.)—John Rathie, who, with Elvin Kirby, alias James Owens, will be hanged in the state penitentiary here Friday for the murder of Sheriff Taylor of Umatilla county in 1920, has accepted the Catholic faith, according to announcement by prison officials today.

For the past week both Rathie and Kirby have been visited by the prison chaplains daily. Penitentiary officials said arrangements for the hangings had been completed, with the exception of sending out the invitations. Both will be hanged tomorrow. Both Rathie and Kirby appeared cheerful today. They conversed with prison officials and spent several hours reading the newspaper. It was said today that Rathie had directed that his body be sent to his relatives in Idaho for burial.

The hangings are scheduled for 8 o'clock in the morning. Warden Lewis announced that only persons authorized by law would be admitted to the execution chamber.

EX-JUDGE FACES DEATH Omer R. Woods to Be Sentenced for Wife's Murder.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 4.—Omer R. Woods, an ex-judge in Idaho, today stands convicted of the murder of his wife, Marietta Woods. The woman was burned to death as she lay in bed in the Woods apartment home here last January 8. It was the contention of the prosecution at the trial that Woods killed his wife to collect $15,000 life insurance.

The superior court jury which returned the verdict against Woods reported its decision at 12:30 A. M. today, and sentence will be passed July 11.

The jury verdict was murder in the first degree and as there is but one penalty for that offense imposed in Utah, that of death, Woods on July 11 will be asked to state by which method he shall die. In case he makes no decision, the court decides upon either hanging or shooting. The two execution methods of the state.

Testimony at the trial of Woods was of a most startling nature. Evidence brought out that the dead woman's hands and feet had been tied and her body thrown upon the oil-soaked bed.

Woods' defense was that his wife had been murdered by two burglars who ransacked the apartment.

Larned's Grocery has increased its profits

An example of how the retailer must revamp his methods to meet new conditions.

WHEN A. G. Larned opened his grocery in 1918, the problem was to get goods to sell—not to get customers to buy. Shipyards were running full swing, easy spending was at its height. Every time prices advanced, Larned's profits on his stock increased. Why should he worry about such things as "turnover," and the dividing line between overhead and profits.

When the turn came and people began to see how far their money would go, Larned tried to stop the gaps. He let a clerk go, cut down on his delivery service, and took a smaller salary than he was entitled to. Yet, still he went into the red ink.

But Larned had determination. He stayed awake nights thinking how he could change things. His location was good—it was a neighborhood where many salaries people lived, and they had a relatively greater buying power than when things were at a peak.

"Why not ask the bank?" was the idea that came to him. "They come in contact with business problems of all kinds." So he told his story to one of our officers.

What Was Wrong

Larned thought he had all the facts about his business. When we asked him about his turnover, he couldn't tell. Examination finally showed that his stock was only turning eight times a year, when the attainable standard is twelve times a year. He couldn't buy new, live goods because his capital was tied up. We pointed out that depreciation on delivery equipment and interest on accounts receivable over 30 days due are items of expense.

The Problem That Puzzles Retailers Everywhere

This problem of turnover—of hidden "leaks"—is a vital one today. Dun's record of failures in groceries, alone, during 1921 was 3007, as compared with 1359 during 1919. The Harvard School of Business Administration has made a national study of retail costs. It discloses why so many retailers are constantly going out of business. Merchandising today can't be kept on the right side of the ledger except by knowing—not guessing.

We Gladly Advise With Patrons

The case of Larned's grocery is typical of many which need a "facing around" in their methods. Naturally, we can only advise, but in many cases, as in this one, a clear picture of what is wrong will lead to the remedy.

We are interested in the affairs of our customers, be they large or small. Feel free to consult with the officers of the First National at any time. Avail yourself of the services of the oldest and largest national bank in the Northwest.
