Do not stir, but give it to the patient turn of the moment and add about one-sixth teaspoon baking soda, letting it foam up as the patient drinks it. Both flavors and "texture" of the oil are thus well disguised and the patient receives the impression that only a simple effervescent drink is being consumed. This has been found often most helpful with children and young people.

DRUG EVIDENCE FOUND
Alleged Accomplices Said to Have Accused Maggie Sykes.

With the reported confessions of two of her co-defendants, the government continued yesterday to pile up evidence against Maggie Sykes, alleged drug queen, who was arrested Monday on charges of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act.

According to Allan Bynon, assistant United States attorney, Gertrude Lyons, now under indictment for the sale of narcotics, and Paul Robinson, negro, both told of their connection with the woman. Mrs. Lyons chattered freely and volubly told of making sales of morphine at Maggie Sykes' direction, and of purchasing drugs from other narcotics vendors of the city.

According to government officials Maggie Sykes was the head of a gang of drug peddlers who held forth as a regular business on Northrup street. With eight other persons, all alleged drug addicts, she was arrested Monday.

Household Problems
by Libian Tingle

Dear Miss Tingle: Please tell how to cook bresaola appetis (your best recipe); also how to cook cauliflower differently from just boiling and cranking. I would like it with cheese and put in the oven or some such where each place is separate, but not thick with cream sauce. I ate some at one of the hotels which seemed to have been baked, as it was not overdone. Thanking you, FRANCES H.

HOPE the following suggestions will help you. Probably the cauliflower was simply steamed, then covered with a little melted butter and grated cheese and browned in a quick oven. I have no "best" recipe. One method is best in some points and another in others.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS—Usually it is better to steam them than to boil them; or they may be "stewed" by "sweating" in a little butter or bacon fat and then steamed in brown stock until tender, the stock and juice being thickened to make sauce for the vegetable.

MARMALADE in French dressing: Then roll first in dry grated cheese, then either cover them with egg and crumbs, or with frying butter and frying golden brown in hot fat.

Both Brussels sprouts and cauliflower are good to use in "planked" arrangements of either meat or fish.
