Jess B. Troeh Wins Zone Handicap Title.

Peter J. Holohan of Portland Captures Professional Honors at Portland Shoot.

Three Pacific coast zone trap-shooting champions were crowned at the Portland gun club yesterday. Jess B. Troeh of Portland won the Pacific coast zone handicap championship.

Mrs. G. Knight of San Bernardino, Cal., won the women's championship of the Pacific coast.

Peter J. Holohan of Portland won the professional champion title of the coast. It took some sensational shooting to win the handicap and professional events. Jess Troeh and H. B. Hibbs of McMinnville tied for first place in the handicap, but Troeh broke 84, while Hibbs registered 85. But a few of the 120 shooters who started in the handicap event in the morning turned in what might be termed good scores. Many shot far below their ratings and ability. This fact was attributed to the trouble in sighting the targets due to the glare in the background from forest fires.

Keen Eyes Are Required.

It took the keenest of eye and a quick shot to locate the flying clay. R. G. Lacey of Wells, Or., finished in second notch, with 94 out of 100. R. V. Ford of Portland, George Jewett of Portland, Gus Becker of Ogden, Utah, J. D. Arnold of Walla Walla, Wash., and Nutting of San Francisco were bunched for third honors with 82 each.

Mrs. G. Knight won the women's title by shattering 87 out of 100 birds. Mrs. Ada Schilling of Portland was way off her usual form and broke only 75 out of 100, but at that same score is excellent for a woman. Mrs. J. Jones of Boise, Idaho, placed second with 84 out of 100. Mrs. E. E. Young bagged 72 and Mrs. Hanson 71 out of 100.

P. J. Holohan and A. Riehl of Tacoma tied for the professional championship with 84 each in the original event of 100 targets. In the shoot-off Holohan broke 24 out of 24, while Riehl nicked 22.

Feet Is Accomplished.

Frank Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., and Alcock Colliers of McMinnville tied with 95 each out of 100 in the Rose City 100 event, shot after the completion of the Pacific coast handicap. As soon as Troeh finished shooting he announced that if anyone else should hit his score he would waive any of his rights to the trophy to the winner. Colliers accomplished the feat and carried away the prize without having to participate in a shoot-off with Troeh.

A scanning of the figures registered during the entire four days of the handicap trap shoot, from the first shot of 100 targets to the last shot of 100, shows that the zone handicap trapshooting tournament divided that the two-man team composed of R. G. Lacey of Wells, Or., and R. V. Ford of Portland, registered the biggest total of targets. The two broke 932 targets out of 1000.

Troeh Brothers Next.

Frank Troeh and Alcock Troeh were next with 359 out of 400, while Jess Troeh and O. N. Ford broke 929 targets out of 1000. Frank Troeh and O. N. Ford broke 929 honors in breaking registered targets during the tournament. They were 300 thrown and each broke 295. Frank Templeton and one other shooter registered 293 out of 300.

A team composed of Frank Troeh of Vancouver, B. C., and O. N. Ford of Portland, Frank Templeton of Portland, G. L. Becker of Ogden, Utah, and J. D. Ankeny of Walla Walla, won the honor of representing the Pacific coast zone in the North American five-man team championship event at the grand American Handicap in Atlantic City, Sept. 1-4 of this month. These five men earned the right against shooters from every state in the zone. R. G. Lacey is an alternate.

Washington Team Victor.

The Washington state team won the state race, scoring above five-man teams from all other states in the Pacific coast zone. The Washington team, consisting of F. D. Stoop of Spokane, J. D. Ankeny of Walla Walla, Wash., Tom Gibbons of Wenatchee, Wash., Dr. H. E. Peit of Chehalis, Wash., and Arnold Troeh of Vancouver, Wash.

At the annual meeting of the state delegates Saturday night the 1923 championship shoot was awarded to Los Angeles by a margin of one vote. The race was between Seattle and Los Angeles. The former team, consisting of F. D. Stoop of Spokane, was elected Pacific coast zone delegate of the American Trapshooting association.

The four-day shoot here was a great success from every standpoint. Everything ran along smoothly from the start. Due to the ceaseless work of O. N. Ford, manager of the Portland gun club; Jim Morris, president of the Portland Gun club; F. D. Stoop of Spokane, zone delegate, and the entire membership of the Portland club. Visiting shooters were from all corners of the United States.

Swimming Splashes.

The outdoor competitive swimming season here will start with the Oregon State outdoor championships, scheduled to take place at the Oakes, July 29. This event will give a lineup on the material Portland can enter in the Pacific northwest and the Pacific coast title events later.

The Pacific Northwest association outdoor championships will be held at Victoria, B. C., August 5. Entry blanks for the event were received Saturday. Crystal swimming club of Seattle will try hard for this meet. While the entry list is not complete, it seems likely that Jack Cody figures on sending a water polo team and perhaps Louis Kushn, Helen Hicks and Dave Fall to the diving.

The Portland Nautarium has no entry for the northwest event, but is expected to come in strong for the Oregon state championships. It was under the emblem of the Douglas aquatic school that a team of water stars from that pool took the highest number of points in last year's meet.

Windmills is the training grounds for the outdoor event. There seems to be a continual splash there with swimmers working at short and middle distances.

Holy Cross Undefeated.

Holy Cross varsity lawn tennis team was undefeated in competition this season. It's a record for the same in the Worcester institution.

Safe or Out?

BY CHARLES D. WHITE. Q. Are there any players in major league games who bat cross-handed? A. None of whom I know, occasionally one begins that way but he usually corrects it. Q. Umpire was behind the bat and the ball, which was thrown home, glanced off the catcher's mitt without the ball in his hand. The umpire says the run counts. If it does it wins the game. Was he right? A. I should say yes. The catcher has constantly given a signal that he does not have the ball in his possession.

Hit Ball Hard, He Says.

Most golfers, particularly women players, will claim that light lighters do not get at the ball with enough force. They seem afraid of missing it altogether. After you take the proper stance, get a line on the ball and make sure of your back swing, there is no need of tapping the ball gently. Some professionals must hit with all their might to get results at all. A gentle tap to them would mean disaster.
