

ROADHOUSE OWNER ASKS INJUNCTION

Old Homestead Inn Is Held No Dancehall.

SHERIFF HURLBURT SUED

Proprietor, Calling Self "Restaurantier," Says Place Is Only Eating House.

To restrain Sheriff Hurlburt from interfering with the conduct of his roadhouse and to test the validity of the law passed at the special session of the legislature in 1920...

Tully refers to himself as a "restaurantier" who has "brought up" through his industry and cuisine a fairly remunerative country eating place...

Dancing Is at Intervals. The only dancing which occurs at the tavern is by patrons at long intervals...

Tully asserted that he has been incarcerated in the county jail on alleged violation of this law and that deputy sheriffs threaten to ruin his business if not restrained.

It is discriminatory and a violation of the bill of rights, complains Tully. It is pointed out that the act is not enforced the same in every county...

A test case based on this act has been expected for some time as the result of recent raids staged by Sheriff Hurlburt on roadhouses grouped about Portland.

District Attorney Myers asserted yesterday that the case would be fought into the supreme court if necessary...

Regardless of what happens in this case it is extremely likely that there will be a law introduced at the next legislature requiring licenses of eating houses in the county...

It is understood that the Indian will fight the case to a finish in the higher courts, claiming that an Indian has a right to hunt under a treaty made by the government many years ago.

MOTHER-BEATER JAILED

YOUTH SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS ON ROCKPILE.

Woman Tells Court Son Attacked Her When She Refused to Give Him Money.

Because his aged mother would not give him money to spend on "flappers and bright lights," 29-year-old Edward Winston expressed his disapproval by beating her.

The assault occurred Wednesday at the Winston home, 347 Hall street, and the youth was arrested yesterday on a complaint signed by the mother.

Bargain Sales Sometimes Backfire Badly.

PLINT of "Moon" Purchased From City Has Boomerang Effect.

LEVITT, second-hand dealer of 329 First street, is convinced that a bargain sale can easily be "the bunk."

When the various dealers divided up the bottles they discovered there were a few bottles of "white mule" which had been placed by mistake with the liquor.

Levitt's share of the liquid spill was one full pint of "moon." Eagerly he took it to his store and cached it away.
