

NEW HIGH SCHOOL PLANS TAKE SHAPE

Northeast Section of City Assured of Building.

MUNICIPAL AID GRANTED

Co-operation With District Opens New Relations That Promise Much for Education.

Plans for Portland's new northeast high school took definite shape late yesterday afternoon when members of the school board and city commissioner Pler, acting with the approval of his fellow commissioners, ratified a plan for co-operation between the school district and the city in improvement of the 40-acre tract between East Thirty-third and East Thirty-seventh streets and Tillamook and Knott streets.

The new building, modern in every respect, will be erected upon a ten-acre section and the city will improve the adjoining tract for park and recreation purposes. A fringe of 40 in number, on the south and west sides, will be sold, returning, probably, the approximate cost of the school board purchase, $42,000.

It was considered that the arrangement worked out is most advantageous from every standpoint, both for the school district and the city. Perhaps, best of all, the transaction marked the beginning of a new era in development of schools in the city in that there was co-operation between the city and district officials that promises much in the future.

After a thorough inspection of the site, the board held a meeting on the ground. Present were board members, Commissioner Pler, C. F. Wiegand, assistant park superintendent, D. A. Grant, city school superintendent, Charles A. Rice and Edgar H. Whitney, assistant superintendents, and W. C. Knighton, architect of the projected school building. Appreciation of the co-operation of the city, and particularly for the good offices of Commissioner Pler, was expressed in a resolution adopted by the directors.

The three tracts affected by the agreement adjoin and are without buildings. The city owns the Versteeg tract of 14 acres, which will be deeded to the school board and the board will deed back to the city such parts of the tract as are not needed for buildings.

The district will purchase the Wright tract of 13 acres and deed it to the city and the park board will purchase the Kern tract of 11 acres, establishing a community of interest between the city and school district for joint harmonious improvement.

The city will develop the Wright tract and make a park, playground and athletic field, with swimming pool, tennis courts, community house and recreational facilities. The tract is partly wooded and Dr. B. E. Wright, who has arranged to sell it to the district, agreed to take $5000 an acre for it for school purposes, although he had been previously offered $5000 an acre but had declined it.

Other Trades Enter Deal. Two other tracts of property enter into the deal made yesterday. Lincoln park, a two-block tract next to the Albin home, will be given to the district by the city and Beech street will be vacated, giving a school playground.

In return the board will deed to the city a piece of property it owns on the slope of Mount Tabor that adjoins the city property used for flowers and greenhouses by the park bureau.

Plans are to go ahead immediately and cross-section the tracts involved in the transaction and the park bureau will fill and landscape the property preliminary to the entire improvement.

Commissioner Pler regards the agreement as a splendid arrangement for all concerned and expects it to bring about an era of closer co-operation between the city and school district that will be helpful in the future.

High Schools Needed Badly. School board members expressed a like feeling. Director Woodward said the need for more high schools in the rapidly-growing east side, must be met and the project under way seemed to help conditions to a great extent.

A street will be opened along two sides of the school tract to open up the row of lots to be offered for sale and high-class residences will be built to give attractive surroundings. The athletic facilities to be supplied by the city park bureau will, it is pointed out, relieve the district of much expense while providing the very facilities desired for high school students.

EDITOR'S ARREST ASKED (Continued From First Page.) Finally they secured the co-operation of men who run hotels, grocery stores and restaurants in some of the shop centers and prevailed upon them to refuse to sell groceries to or provide accommodation for any of the workers who had come in to take the place of the strikers. The state interpreted this interference as picketing and compelled all who were carrying on this form of boycott to cease.

Having failed in all their other picketing plans, two days ago the strikers inaugurated a new programme. They provided themselves with large window cards containing a declaration of sympathy for the strikers and a hope that they would win the strike. The committee called upon merchants in two or three shop towns and insisted upon the merchants placing these cards in their windows. The plan was for the purpose of creating an atmosphere of hostility toward those who were continuing to work.

Conspiracy Charge Made. The attorney general ruled that this well organized action on the part of the strikers and their sympathizing friends constituted a part of the conspiracy to deprive the public of transportation. This action constitutes a direct and public interference with the free movement of the various places reported that the cards would all come down. No arrests had yet been ordered for this offense, as it was thought that the law-abiding business people of the state who were aiding in this form

ELK KILLERS HIT HARD

HEAVIEST FINES IN HISTORY ARE IMPOSED.

Three Ordered to Pay $200 Apiece By Astoria Judge; Many Game Lawbreakers Punished.

With the fining of Bruce Bates at Astoria Wednesday for having killed an elk near Cannon beach out of season three more men were arrested for having had elk meat in their possession. F. M. Brown, chief deputy game warden, has been at Astoria for several days attempting to bring about the conviction of Lynn F. Gilbert of Seaside, Dr. H. E. Hall of Seaside and E. T. Kurah, a United States navy deserter who has been held at Seaside for 30 days. All three men were found to be implicated with Bates and were fined $200 each, the heaviest fines that have ever been given in game cases in Oregon. All three men were guilty of having elk meat in their possession.

Brown said yesterday that it was one of the most difficult cases that he has ever worked on. Otto Erickson of Astoria was the prosecuting attorney in the case and Judge J. L. Tuomaia presided.

Don De Pue of Verona was arrested July 15 at Verona by Deputy Game Warden William Brown for hunting without a license, and he was fined $25 at St. Helens, July 17, by Judge Phillips.

Art Robison of Lewiston, Idaho, was arrested at Pittsburg, Or., July 13, for violation of the commercial fish laws by catching and selling sturgeon without a license. Because there was no justice of the peace at Pittsburg, he was taken to Lewiston for trial.

J. S. McGinnis was arrested for selling game fish at Klamath Falls on July 11 by Warden H. D. Stout. He pleaded guilty but fine was deferred.

Joe Ducham of Woods was arrested July 4 at Nescutawa bay for angling without a license and was fined $25 at Tillamook by Judge Stanley.

Arthur Brook of Portland was arrested July 2 at Nescutawa bay by Warden Roy Bremner for angling without a license and was fined $25 at Tillamook, July 10.

Ole Osmundson of Bend was arrested July 3 at Diamond lake for fishing in closed waters, and William Carlson of the Klamath Indian reservation was arrested in the same place for the same offense.

J. E. Profit of Dayton was arrested July 16 by V. P. McFarland. He was charged with allowing blood and carcass from his slaughter house to be disposed of in the Yamhill river.

CAR COMPANY TO GROW

BIG DEVELOPMENT PLANS ARE UNDER WAY.

Chairman of Board of Directors Declares Lines Will Not Be Sold, as Rumored.

The Portland Railway, Light & Power company is not going to sell its properties in and around Portland, as has been rumored, but go ahead with a development and improvement programme more extensive than for years past.

C. M. Clark of Philadelphia, chairman of the board of directors, made this plain yesterday upon his return from an inspection of the site of the projected Three Links station in the Oak Grove district on the upper Clackamas river. In company with Franklin D. Griffith, president, and other officials of the company Mr. Clark viewed the power site and declared himself well pleased with the prospect for big new development there.

Preliminary construction work will be started next October, he said, when the river will be about at its lowest and work on dam foundations can best be accomplished.

There will follow a long term of construction of the reservoir, power house and pipe lines and it will not be before 1924, in all probability, that the new station will be operated.

Mr. Clark found a considerable improvement in one respect during the three years intervening since his last visit to the power site. Then it was a difficult task to reach the spot, but on this trip it was possible to go almost the whole way by automobile over a private road the company is building.

More money will be available this year for improvements to the company's property than for some time, Mr. Clark said, and better service and added efficiency are the objects sought. He said the only thing that has halted a consistent policy of expansion and development in the past has been the uncertainty of operating the rail lines at a profit.

MURDER THEORY QUITTED

Death of Samuel Dobb, 76, Believed Natural.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 20.—The murder theory entertained by deputy sheriffs investigating the death of Samuel Dobb, 76, formerly of Toronto, Canada, whose body was found yesterday in the hills near Inglewood, a suburb, was abandoned late today after an interview with the dead man's daughter, Mrs. Florence Austin, who ridiculed the theory of foul play.

"He was feeble and scarcely able to take care of himself," Mrs. Austin said. "He frequently went out alone, and wandered about, sometimes forgetting his way home. He had no enemies, rarely talked about his business and never carried any large sums of money or jewelry with him."

"HERO" IS SENT TO JAIL

YOUTH WHO "RESCUED" BATHER ALSO FINED $15.

Sam Goldberg Dragged Girl Into Water and Almost Drowned Her, Is Testimony.

If any admiring friends were planning to get a wreath of laurel for the brow of 18-year-old Sam Goldberg, they might not as well cancel the order, because Sam won't need it. If they wish, they might get a little bouquet of flowers, which would help to brighten the drab cell where Samuel will repose for the next two days.

For the metamorphosis came yesterday in police court when Judge Ekwall transformed the erstwhile hero into a jail-bird. Goldberg, employee on the river boat T. J. Potter, proclaimed to the bright-eyed world last Saturday night that he was a hero and didn't give a hang who knew it. He had dived, nose first, into the swirling waters of the Willamette and dragged forth the limp and dripping form of fair Madeline Berberich, a bather, who had ventured too far into the water while splashing around near the O-W-R. & N. dock.

But Sam's popularity was short-lived. Miss Berberich appeared at police headquarters a couple of days ago and told the city attorney that Sam had dragged her into the water and had pulled her out in a somewhat clumsy manner when he found she couldn't swim.

The girl appeared in police court yesterday as complaining witness against the youth, and told Judge Ekwall the truth about Sam's lifesaving efforts. He had almost drowned her, she testified, and then helped her out after she had sunk for the second time.

"She dared me to do it," pleaded the youth. "I didn't want to scare her."

"Neither do I want to hurt you nor scare you, but I think a couple of days in jail might take a few of these romantic and heroic ideas out of your head," was Judge Ekwall's answer.

The court also assessed a fine of $15.
