National Lumber Manufacturers Association Takes Up Matter at Session Here.

ian for the standardization of the imber product of the country with vaste in that industry was the prin ipal subject taken up at the open-National Lumber Manufacturers' association. The session followed the gathering of the directors of the Western Pipe Manufacturers' asso-clation held Wednesday, and will be followed by the meeting of the Northwest Lumbermen's association

t Tacoma next Wednesday.

About 15 directors of the National Tumber Manufacturers' association vere present at yesterday's gathering, meeting with more than 100 lumbermen of the west, and with William A. Durgin, representing the United States department of commerce for the discussion of general problems of the lumber industry and particularly the proposed programme of standardization.

Waste Declared Great. In an address made during the Mr. Durgin expressed the belief that the lack of standardization in lumber manufacturing was Sargely responsible for the annual waste in that industry, which he placed at $1,000,000,000. Lumber is not alone in this respect, he de-clared, for he estimated that all the large industries are suffering from the same lack of standardization and suffer an annual loss of at least 20 per cent of the capital, material, labor and mental effort expended in and municipal engineers have succeeded in developing 260 different building codes," he said. "The sizes of sash and doors are probably ell into the thousands, and in furniture varieties have run riot. Even a tree you have, I understand 30-odd names for the same old pine and at least 15 sets of dimensions for a 2x4, while when it comes to the grade of a board, you all agree at least that opinions differ.

Situation Declared Serious. "This wild orgy of diversification thus has its humorous side, but more important, it is a very real and widely spread source of enormous waste
