BY L. H. GREGORY.

The Beavers tried spotting the Suds to another six-run lead yesterday and then catching up in a tornado finish, but it couldn't be done. They did their durndest but fell three runs short. Seattle 9, Portland 6.

It was one of those "if" games. If Al Demaree had started the game instead of finishing it—

Or, if he had yanked Jimmy Middleton three innings earlier than he did—

Or, if the right field fence had been on wheels so it could have been run back to give Charley High a chance at grabbing Crane's long home-run fly in the third with two on bases—

Middleton Starts Badly.

But the old hindsight is always better than foresight. Manager Al left his ouija board at home, so when Middleton got off to a bad start he let him stay in there five innings, on the supposition that he would get better as he went along. Instead of which Jimmy grew worse so rapidly that latest bulletins from his bedside indicated little hope.

In those five innings the Suds lit on Middleton for 11 hits and eight runs. Their attack included five doubles and one home run with two on bases. The click of fence balls rattling off the boards sounded like unto hail stones on a tin roof.

Finally, at the end of the fifth, Mr. Demaree decided that Middleton certainly wasn't right, and he went in himself and pitched out the game. Take it from us, Manager Al showed some pitching stuff in the four sessions he worked. His big, sweeping curve ball was winding around the necks of his old teammates so wickedly that they were stepping back from the plate, and the only run off him was due to an error by Poole. He dropped a throw from Demaree that had Lane nipped by 20 feet.

Al Stages Great Finish.

Al was likewise there with the grandstand finish. In the ninth the Sud got three on with two out, but he whiffed Spencer Adams in that pinch by some fancy low-ball pitching.

The Suds opened their attack on Middleton in the first inning. Lane doubled as first up and Eldred doubled and drove him home. In the second they made two more on another pair of hits, and in the third an additional three when Crane lofted a pitch over the right-field wall with two on the sacks.

That gave them their accustomed six-run lead. The Beavers cut it down to four by scoring two runs in the third. Elliott singled, Middleton singled, and, with two out, Cox drove a smoking double to left and scored them.

But in the fifth the Suds came back and made it a six-run lead again through Eldred's single, a sacrifice, Stumpf's double and another double by Crane. In the sixth they made their lone run off Demaree on Poole's error, as aforesaid.

Beavers Are Helpless.

Hunky Schorr meanwhile was holding the Beavers helpless, but in the seventh they came to life with a great rally. High slashed a drive through Stumpf. McCann forced him, but Elliott, who had a big batting day, singled. Demaree hit to S. Adams, who flipped to Crane for a force-out at second, but Crane dropped the onion. Gressett singled and drove in one run. With the bases full Ike Wolfer crashed a double to deep center and three more tallied, making four for the inning.

But that settled it. To overcome six-run handicaps twice successively is one of those things that isn't done.

This will be Seattle day at the ball park, and a double-header will be played, the first game starting at 1:30 o'clock. Yesterday's score:

Triple Play Shuts Off Tiger Rally in Ninth Inning.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 28.—San Francisco defeated Vernon 11 to 3 in the fourth game of the series here today. Agnew's home run over the left field fence in the next frame won for the visitors. The Seal catcher hit another home run in the eighth. A triple play started by Willie Kamm nipped a Tiger rally in their half of the eighth inning. Score:

DULUTH, Minn. July 28.—Walter Hoover, world's sculling champion, will take part in the golden jubilee regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen at Philadelphia next week, but he will not defend the gold challenge cup, emblematic of the North American title. Despite previous statements to the contrary, this announcement was authorized by the rowing committee of the Duluth Boat club today shortly after Hoover arrived home.

CAMP COMPLICATIONS—THE LIGHTING PROBLEM.

BOUT WAS LEONARD'S, SAYS REFEREE OF TITULAR SCRAP

Tendler Was Outclassed All the Way After First Round, Declares Harry Ertle in Making Unofficial Decision.

BY HARRY ERTLE,
Referee Leonard-Tendler Fight.
(Copyright by the New York World. Published by Arrangement.)

NEW YORK, July 28.—(Special.)—It was Leonard all the way after the first round in Thursday night's fight. Of course, I can't give an official decision, but as you have asked me to tell my opinion, why that is it.

It was a massing battle. I think all who saw it will agree to that. Both men were in wonderful form, and though I have refereed many hard-fought lightweight battles, I don't think I ever had one as fast as this—take it all the way through.

They seemed to rest a couple of times toward the close of the 11th round, I think it was, but in the main they were at it hammer and tong.

I feel Leonard won because he landed the more damaging blows, the harder blows, the cleaner blows. And besides that, he was a ghost on the defense. He made Tendler miss many more times than he missed himself.

Fight Remarkably Clean.

Giving Tendler all the credit for agressiveness that surely must be his, I still think that he was outfought, as I said before, after the first round.

In that round he showed his best, for Leonard seemed unable to gauge his left uppercuts and left leads. If I had had the privilege, I surely would have raised Leonard's glove at the end of the 12th.

I know many persons didn't think the bout would go the distance, but I did, for both men were in perfect physical trim. I have refereed for both men before and I know them, you see. I had Leonard twice with Johnny Dundee and once with Mel Coogan, and Tendler two fights, one with Papin, the French champion, and the other with a youngster whose name I forget.

It was a remarkably clean fight. The reports that have been circulated that Tendler hits low may be classed as "bunk." I cautioned him a couple of times, and Leonard once. There was never any doubt in my mind that the blows were all unintentional. Any boxer is liable to hit low at times.

Tendler Flashes in Eighth.

Tendler showed a flash in the eighth round when he landed with telling effect. I thought then that he might turn the tide, but Leonard wound up strong in that round and gained all the succeeding rounds. His lively jumping style, after the manner of Johnny Dundee, seemed to have Tendler pretty much at sea—though no one can say that Lew ever quit trying.

There was a lot of talk to and fro between the fighters. "I'm going to take that title of yours back to Philly with me," said Tendler in the first round. They kept up a lot of this stuff, meant, of course, to fluster and excite, but they didn't say anything very harsh. "Fight, you big bum," said Tendler in one of the rounds in which I cautioned him. He seemed to think Leonard was going to get away from him by dodging a claim of foul. They both broke clean, in the main, and fought like good, clever fighters. I had little trouble and I can't say that one held on more than the other.

Clean Breaks Demanded.

When we went into the ring I told both men what I wanted—a clean break and clean fighting. I also told their seconds that I would recognize no one but the chief second in claims of foul and that I would not recognize towels tossed into the ring. The towel, I said, would have to be carried in by the man I knew to be acting for a fighter.

Despite the fact that they were supposed to be deadly enemies, they were very sportsmanlike. When Tendler flapped through the ropes in the first round Benny backed up and waited for me to wipe the resin off Lew's gloves, and later when Benny slipped and fell Lew backed up very prettily. I think my warnings had put them on their good behavior.

I got the gloves after the fight. One pair I gave to Governor Edwards and the other pair will go to Frank Hogue, mayor of Jersey City. I always keep the gloves in my championship fights.

Leonard's Defense Perfect.

I'll tell you fairly that I had expected to see Tendler make more use of his left, but Leonard had an almost perfect defense for it, and after the first few rounds seemed to be able to step inside and escape damage.

I must say that I believe the weight weakened Leonard. He did not have the necessary snap to his punches and I think his training down was the cause. He hit Tendler several times on the jaw almost flush, it seemed to me, but did no more than rock his man. Tendler "took it" without any semblance of distress, and that convinces me that Leonard was not at his strongest.

I wouldn't like to say which was the more tired at the finish. They certainly fought to the last ounce in that 12th round. At any rate, I want to be present at the next fight if it's at all like the one they had last night.

CASTERS TO WORK OUT

STIFF PRACTICE SCHEDULED FOR TOMORROW MORNING.

Portland Anglers to Prepare for Western Championship Tournament at San Francisco.

In preparation for the western championship fly and bait casting tournament at San Francisco, starting August 18, the casters of the Multnomah Anglers club who will participate in that tournament will have a stiff workout at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Sellwood park pool.

The three events regularly scheduled for Sunday morning practice have been increased to six. The programme for tomorrow is: Accuracy fly, 5¾-ounce; ¼-ounce accuracy bait; ½-ounce accuracy bait; ⅝-ounce accuracy plug at random distances; dry fly delicacy and accuracy and ½-ounce distance bait.

The Portland team will be composed of W. F. Backus, Dr. E. C. McFarland, Marvin Hedge, Richard Conley, Fred Kincaid, Webb Kinser, M. H. Butler, Jack Herman and H. Adcox. Jack Herman and Mike Butler will go to Cleveland after the western championship tourney to participate in the national tournament, which starts September 1. The Portland pair and Charles Kewall of San Francisco will be the only western representatives at the national.

Jack Herman, Mike Butler and Dick Conley have been averaging better than 100 feet in the distance fly. In a practice tournament recently Herman made an average of 114 feet in the distance fly, while Butler's mark was only for and a half feet shorter. Herman's mark in a sanctioned championship tournament would have broken the world's record by a couple of feet.

VIKINGS MAY LOSE STROKE

Yale Reported Angling for Murphy as Aid to Leader.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 28.—(Special.)—Will the University of Washington crew, second place winners at the national Poughkeepsie regatta this year and fastest college shell in America, lose its anchorman, stroke and captain, George (Mike) Murphy, as well as its coach, Ed Leader, to Yale university next year?

It is reliably reported that Leader, who takes up the reins at Yale immediately, has offered Mike Murphy the position of assistant crew coach at a salary which nearly rivals that paid Leader himself to coach the wonder Washington crews.

The loss of Murphy would, of course, dash Washington's hopes for the Poughkeepsie chase next year, as a good stroke ordinarily takes three years in the making. Murphy, an extraordinary oarsman, attained in two years the perfection the average stroke attains in his senior year.

It is also certain now that Washington will not have Coach Leader back at the helm. Yale has absolutely refused to release him, although it is understood after the alumni action on the resignation Washington was willing to pay Leader a good deal more than he asked to remain here. The matter of his successor is still undecided.

Safe or Out?

BY CHARLS D. WHITE.

Q. Runner on second and third. Batsman hits to left fielder, who juggles the catch. Both runners leave their bases the moment the ball strikes the hands of the fielder. The umpire permits the runner on third to score and calls the runner on second out. Why was it?

A. Can't answer. Both runners were safe if they advanced the bases in the proper manner.

Q. Must the pitcher keep both feet on the rubber when he pitches to the batsman or may he keep the heel of one foot and the toe of the other?

A. It is not necessary to keep both feet on the rubber in the act of pitching, but the pitcher must not have either foot behind the rubber.

Q. Batter hits the ball to deep center. By a good throw the fielder gets the batter at the plate. Is it a three-base hit?

A. Yes.

Q. Pitcher stands back of his plate and then winds up. Next he steps forward and on the plate and brings his hands in and out from his body and throws the ball to first. Is that a balk?

A. Yes. It is not legitimate pitching and should be called a balk.

Q. When a fielder juggles a fly hit in his hands but does not drop the ball, is that called catching it?

A. It is.

GIANTS AND CARDS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

New York Makes it Four Out of Five in Series.

HORNSBY HITS OUT 27TH

National League Record Made by Ed Williamson in 1884 Tied by St. Louis Player.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The New York Giants made it four out of five from St. Louis today by dividing a double-header with the Cardinals. The champions continued their heavy hitting in the first game, knocking Doak out of the box again and winning 8 to 4.
