

ENGINEER BLAMED BY QUEST JURY

Failure to Observe Warning Charged in Verdict.

FIRST FINDING REVERSED

Testimony of Members of Both Crews in Missouri Wreck Taken at Hearing.

DE SOTO, Mo., Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Blame for the Missouri-Pacific wreck at Sulphur Springs, Saturday night, which caused death to 35 and injury to more than 100 was fixed on Engineer Matthew Glenn by a coroner's jury late today.

After the first verdict was returned, George W. Elders, coroner, of Jefferson county, objected and the jury then returned a verdict in their own favor and returned the following verdict:

The persons killed in the wreck came to their death through the negligence of Engineer Matthew Glenn in failure to obey signals. Engineer Glenn had received orders "on the run" to pull over a siding at Cliff Cave, 15 miles south of St. Louis to allow the Sunshine special No. 1 to pass and it is believed he was reading these orders when he passed the block signal, warning of an oncoming train.

Approach Is Not Seen. Long said he did not see the fast flyer approaching but heard some one yell "Here comes No. 4" and that he was running to tell the engineer.

W. E. Long, fireman on No. 32, and brother of Conductor Long, testified orders had been received for No. 32 to take a siding at Wickes, several miles north, to allow the fast flyer to pass.

Blocks Reported Working. R. R. Hagland of Desoto, a signal supervisor for the Missouri Pacific, stated that all of the blocks between Riverdale and Sulphur Springs had been in working order and found to be in perfect working order at 6:45 P. M. on Friday.

The death toll was brought to 35 today with the death of the child of Cadet, Mo., a sister of Beulah Goff, who was killed, and a niece of William Goff, who was injured.

PRETTY WOMAN SELECTED AS JERSEY LOVE COURT JUDGE

'CUPID'S' JUDGE NAMED

MRS. HELEN LONG RODGERS IN NOVEL ROLE.

Woman to Preside Over Court Which Will Seek Ideal Mating of Men and Women.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Helen Long Rodgers of this town has just been selected to preside over the town's now famous cupid's court which is to sit in Hammonton on August 16.

The court will be held in a local theater and the jury will consist of three men and three women. The three men will represent the views of a single man, a married man and a widower. Similarly a single woman, a married woman and a widow will represent the female sex.

From eleven states—Texas, Ohio, Indiana, Maryland, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Connecticut, letters are pouring into the offices of the "Lovers Co-operative union," which is handling the affair, asking for application blanks.

This movement is undertaken in the best interests of lonely men and women, he said. "It is purely and simply a philanthropic enterprise and there is no fee or charge of any kind. We want to help men and women who want wives and husbands with mates entirely suited and congenial in tastes, temperaments and conditions of life."

According to the latest announcement of the promoters of "cupid's court," Mrs. Helen Long Rodgers, who, by the way, is the wife of a local business man, will be attired as cupid—that is, of course, she will have plenty of clothes to wear and will carry a bow and arrow to add a touch of originality.

TWO MEN ARE SLAIN

This section was in the lead with Rolison and Piggott following in order. "When I reached the little spring I heard men talking nearby and at once turned and ran back down the trail and informed by companions. We approached the spring cautiously, my leading man, and I saw a man stepped out and barred the way with a rifle. He said nothing, but I ordered him to throw down the rifle and hold up his hands."

"I fired three shots from my rifle over his head to enforce my order, and immediately he returned the fire. The bullet struck the barrel of my rifle, shattering it and knocking it from my hands. It then struck and tore a deep wound in my right arm. Defensesless, I turned and plunged toward the underbrush."

With scarcely an instant between shots, the man then fired again and I heard Rolison cry out, "My God! I did not see him shot for the next moment a third shot had struck me in the head and I fell insensible. When I recovered I found Rolison lying dead and started for Stevenson. The way I met Director Piggott and together we returned to Stevenson."

ROLISON LEAVES WIDOW

Slain Deputy Well Known in Vancouver Musical Circles.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 7.—(Special.)—E. Rolison, deputy sheriff killed in the raid on the moonshiners near Stevenson this afternoon, was well known in this city, where he had lived for several years at 2014 H street. He leaves a widow and a child 4 years old.

Mr. Rolison had been deputy sheriff for a comparatively short period, working as extra man and taking the places of the various deputy sheriffs they went on their annual vacations.

James Morgan, the federal officer of Tacoma, had some evidence and dropped in here this morning and asked for a deputy sheriff to accompany him on the raid. Mr. Rolison was the one to draw the task. Mr. Rolison was well known in musical circles in the city and for several years had been choir leader of the First Presbyterian church.

As soon as William Thompson learned of the tragedy he organized a posse and set out for Stevenson in two machines. With him in his machine were Frank Cornelius, deputy sheriff; Charles Gilmore, night sergeant of police; C. K. Cochran, marshal at Camas, and one other man from there.

With R. A. Beman were Tom Kemp, both deputies, and George Lester and W. W. Wilson. James Morgan was shot through the head and through the hand. It was reported. He was sent on the next train to St. Joseph's hospital in this city. The full extent of his injuries had not yet been learned.

Mr. Morgan has been here on numerous raiding expeditions. Mrs. Rolison collapsed when she learned of her husband's death. She was in a critical condition. Relatives were doing all they could for her.

HITCHCOCK SWATS LYRE ON GOODING'S FLOCK

Nebraska Waxer Poetical Over Idaho Senator's Sheep.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—An attack upon the wool schedule of the tariff bill was made from a new angle Saturday when Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, democrat, delved into doggerel verse at the expense of Senator Gooding, Idaho, republican, reading his product to the senate.

"There was some reference yesterday by the senator from Idaho to his ownership of sheep," said Senator Hitchcock, "and it suggested to me a few verses, which I shall take the liberty of reading, as follows: "Gooding had 8000 sheep. Their fleeces was white as snow. And everywhere that Gooding went, The sheep were sure to go. They followed him by night and day, They knew the presence of their lord. They filled the statesman with dismay, Tossed high the wool schedule."

NEW FIRE SWEEPS COLUMBIA RESERVE

National Forest in Clarke County Is in Flames.

BLAZE BEING CONFINED

Serious Burn in Bull Run Water Section Brought Under Control Before Doing Much Damage.

The largest fire that has burned in the Columbia national forest for some time was reported to the offices of the United States forest service yesterday. It is located in Clarke county, Washington, east of the town of Yacolt, on the edge of the forest reserve adjoining the holdings of the Clarke County Timber company.

Few details of the fire were received at local headquarters, and the course of the blaze was unknown here. It started last Sunday night when none of the logging machinery was under fire, so it was known that the fire was not from this source.

Flames Under Control.

The agent at Hemlock ranger station sent in word that he believed the blaze was being fought by loggers of the timber company and was being controlled. He had his information from the forest lookout on Gumbo mountain, which overlooks the fire. The blaze was reported to be on the edge of the Columbia forest, in government land, situated between the Walker prairie and the head of the Portland water supply. This fire is under control now, according to a message received from the water bureau by City Commissioner Mann late yesterday. The entire crew of men working at Bull Run lake were sent to the water bureau to help in the fight to combat the blaze by the Cameron-Hogue Lumber company. In addition 30 men were sent from Portland.

Forest service officials were reported to be maintaining a serious blaze in the Bull Run water reserve, in the vicinity of the Cameron-Hogue Lumber company's operations, situated between the Walker prairie and the head of the Portland water supply. This fire is under control now, according to a message received from the water bureau by City Commissioner Mann late yesterday. The entire crew of men working at Bull Run lake were sent to the water bureau to help in the fight to combat the blaze by the Cameron-Hogue Lumber company. In addition 30 men were sent from Portland.

Timber Loss Is Small.

Commissioner Mann stated in his message that the water bureau men would be back at the lake some time today. While the fire has covered a fairly large area the timber loss will not be great, due to the fact that the area that was hit by the fire is mostly open prairie, where the timber is sparse.

Commissioner Mann and Richard Maupin, in charge of the Bull Run pipe lines, left Portland early today to visit the scene of the fire. This is the first fire this year that has crept into or broke out within the water reserve, although a number of fires have threatened it several times.

FIREFIGHTING FORCE CUT

Number of Men Curbing Cowitz Fires Reduced From 200 to 40.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Aug. 7.—(Special.)—District Fire Warden Wallace said today he now has only 40 trail patrolmen at work on fires in this district where three weeks ago more than 200 men were employed. Seventeen men are watching the Coweman fire in Clallam county, nine are at McCormick, seven on Bunker creek, four on Deep creek and three on the Lincoln creek fire. There are no association patrolmen east of Chehalis, where they were threatening for a while.

Saturday two men giving their names as "Thompson and Ewin Gillie, claiming Norton as their home, were fined $15 each and costs in Justice Spahr's court for having a campfire in the timber near Ethel, Wash. County.

Two New Fires Started.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 7.—(Special.)—Two new fires broke out in Grays Harbor forest yesterday. One, in the old Walker camp near Humpulips, had grown to considerable proportions last evening, but a heavy fog mitigated its fierceness and today it was under control. The other fire broke out in a Clearing camp south of Montezuma. Two camp crews were fighting the flames with good success, though a strong east wind was hindering progress.
