

PARKING CAMPAIGN DELAYED FOR TIME

$5 "Bail-Fine" Is Sure to Be Omitted.

STORM IS CREATED

Draymen and Others Besiege Acting Mayor, Who Agrees to Take Some Action for Relief.

A storm of protest reached the city hall yesterday as a result of the announcement that beginning Monday all drivers of motor vehicles would be liable to be arrested, assessed $5 as a "bail-fine" with vigorous prosecution to follow in the event that the case is taken to the municipal court.

Possibility of the complete withdrawal of deliveries in the business district loomed until Acting Mayor Mann obtained a promise from Chief of Police Jenkins that the campaign against the double-parkers would not be inaugurated until a more complete investigation had been made, and, if launched, the $5 "bail-fine" would be omitted.

Deliveries Declared Needed.

L. H. Adams, manager of the Portland Draymen's warehousemen's association, forwarded a letter to Mr. Mann in which he pointed out that if the campaign were carried out, it would be practically impossible to make deliveries in the congested area.

"If the double parking ordinance is enforced as outlined in the papers it means that the draymen will be unable to deliver to merchants in the restricted districts without being arrested," wrote Mr. Adams.

"In keeping tab on 15 deliveries to M. J. Walsh and company, whose place of business is directly opposite my office, there were but four times that the drayman was able to get alongside the curb so he would not be liable to arrest."

Matter Declared Serious.

"This is a very serious matter with us, for even under present regulations we now deliver in this district at a loss."

"And notifying our membership that they will suffer arrest if they double park, and they have no means of knowing before arriving at the place of delivery whether the space is occupied or not. If occupied they must return goods or suffer arrest."

Mr. Adams asked Acting Mayor Mann to aid in a solution of the problem, so that the draymen would be able to operate.

Others who also were up in arms over the proposed order. They telephoned protests or appeared in person throughout the day.

Order Believed Mistake.

"Personally, I believe that this sudden order is a mistake," said Mr. Mann. "The merchants of the city are entitled to some consideration, and there should be a great deal of common sense displayed in the enforcement of this parking ordinance, so that it will not injure the people who are paying the tax and making the city possibly live up to its name."

Chief Jenkins said that he had conferred with Captain Lewis, in charge of the traffic bureau and author of the proposed order, and asked him to act slowly in the matter.

"At all events, there will be no $5 taken by the police as 'bail fines,'" the chief declared.

The proposed method of taking "bail-fines" is also up in the air. In the police bureau as a result of the "fining" of traffic violators by a police officer who acts as both prosecutor and judge.

Chief Jenkins suggested a conference between the city council of all persons interested in the question. Some members of the council are opposed to any such conference, holding that there is no need to make any drastic changes in the traffic code at this time, because there has been no general complaint of congestion.

Household Problems by Lillian Tingle

MCINNIVILLE, Or., July 20.—My Dear Miss Tingle: (1) Will you please give me a good conserve recipe having apricots as the fruit? Give me the right proportion of sugar and water, a syrup to can peaches and also pears. (2) I would like a good recipe for orange marmalade. Please give me the best recipe for your kindness. MRS. A. M. S.

SOME general suggestions and combinations for conserves were given recently in The Sunday Oregonian. A good standard proportion is four to five pounds of foundation fruit to five pounds of sugar, two or three oranges and one to two pounds raisins, with or without the juice of one lemon and one pound nut meats (or less) if desired, or the nuts may be omitted, since many people dislike them in conserves. A detailed recipe for apricot conserve might be as follows: though the exact proportions may be varied to suit personal taste and the varying flavor of the apricots:

Apricot conserve—Method 1—Five pounds stone fruit, sliced apricots, juice of one lemon, one pound sugar, thinly sliced oranges (two or three oranges) free from seeds, one and one-half pounds seedless raisins, five pounds sugar, one cup water, one pound nut meats. Cook the sliced oranges in the water until tender, add the other fruits and cook until tender. Add the sugar and cook until the mixture jells when dropped on a cold plate. Add the nut meats just before taking from the fire. Stew like jelly.

Method 2—Another method less apt to be bitter in flavor is as follows: Take the peel from the oranges. Soak in brine to remove the bitterness. Freshen in cold water, then cut into fine shreds or pieces through the food chopper until tender. Slice the orange pulp and apricots and add to the peels. Cook until tender. Add the sugar and finish as above.

(2) Peaches and pears may be preserved in this or in richer syrup as described. The usual rule is to allow one-third of its weight in sugar and from two and one-half to three cups water to every two cups sugar. Boil the sugar and water ten minutes or longer if a richer syrup is preferred. For pears a few drops of lemon juice is sometimes added to bring out the flavor of the fruit.

(3) In selecting an orange marmalade recipe, one has to consider whether a sweet or sour or bitter flavor is preferred, whether orange

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES.

Liberty—Katherine MacDonald, "Domestic Relations." Also Buster Keaton.
Columbia—House Peters in "Human Hearts." Rialto—"The Black Panther of Paris."
Majestic—Wanda Hawley in "Bobbed Hair." Hellega—Harold Lloyd in "Grandma's Boy." Beginning—The Womans.
Hippodrome—Tom Moore in "From the Ground Up." Circle—Hoof Gibson in "Trimmed."

IT IS very seldom that a stage success of the very first water is withdrawn from the theater without even a stay in stock in order to be filmed. Guy Bates Post's first produced on the speaking stage six years ago and Post has given over 2000 performances of the leading dual roles, its popularity still continues. Even this season the star was on tour with this vehicle, getting record box office returns everywhere. To take off a play off the boards meant an immediate financial loss; but Producer Tully believed that the greater audience of the films would make an immediate loss worth while and would even make up for it—ultimately—from the economic standpoint as well.

Such has, in fact, been the case, for the motion picture public everywhere has been responding eagerly to the opportunity of seeing on the screen this combination of star and vehicle.

Screen Gossip.

House Peters is making the hit of his illustrious screen career in "Human Hearts," the Universal Jewel super-feature now showing at the Columbia theater. This is one of the most intensely human films shown in a long time. There is a wealth of pathos, a wonderful emotional appeal, a star of uncanny ability, a supporting cast of exceptional merit, and excellent direction.

In addition it marks the film debut of Ruth Grandin's boy, who has interfered with the box office arrangement of the Hellega theater. "The Isle of Zora" was booked to open there today, but the unfallingly big business attracted by the Lloyd feature has forced the management to continue it. It may possibly run another week.

Although "The Masquerader" was shown above, according to whether a more or less bitter taste is liked.

Traveler to Lecture.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 18.—(Special)—Rev. A. A. Peterson, who returned recently from a year of travel in the Scandinavian countries will lecture Saturday night in the Swedish Tabernacle on conditions abroad. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Epworth League of the Norwegian Methodist church.

Orange marmalade—For each pound of oranges allow the juice of one lemon, six cups water and eight cups sugar. Cook either by boiling or method 2, as in the conserve alone or orange and lemon on orange, lemon and grapefruit (orange always predominating will be best liked). Also which type of marmalade is desired—syrupy, thick, jelly-like or firm enough to cut. You might try the following and let me know if you wanted another type. I have about 32 different types, all "good."
