

MANY NEW BILLS ALREADY PROPOSED

Next Session of Legislature Is in January.

BLUE SKY CHANGES UP

Better Protection for Stock and Bond Buyers Is Declared to Be Necessary.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—Although the next regular session of the Oregon legislature will not convene until January, state officials, state departments and superintendents of the state institutions already are working out in their minds various bills which will be submitted for consideration of the lawmaking body.

Important among the legislative enactments to be requested will be several amendments to the present blue sky laws of the state. T. B. Handley, state corporation commissioner, has indicated that the blue sky laws now in operation are inadequate, and that numerous amendments are necessary if investors in stocks and bonds are to have the protection to which they are entitled. This legislation will be remedial in character, Mr. Handley said, and will be directed particularly at non-resident corporations and stock-selling organizations which are increasing rapidly.

Banking Amendments Wanted. The state banking department also will have a number of amendments for consideration of the legislature. Frank Bramwell, state banking superintendent, has indicated that the present banking laws are lame, and that a "lightening up" process is necessary to guarantee protection to depositors and investors. Although refusing to divulge the nature of the proposed legislation, Mr. Bramwell said he had discussed several bills with members of the state banking board and that they are agreeable to a number of drastic changes.

Bills to be offered by the department include a bill to amend the industrial accident commission, if approved by the legislature, will extend the scope of operations of that department and make it possible for the smaller industries of the state to come under the workmen's compensation law. Whether there will be a downward revision of the charges of the commission for protection has not yet been determined by the commissioner. During the last year, the commission has sought to interest farmers and other rural industries in the protection offered by the present law. It is likely that the proposed legislation will hold out numerous inducements to this class of business.

The state eugenics board already has announced that it will have a bill before the legislature looking toward the passage of a law to repeal the one which recently was declared unconstitutional by the courts. The so-called old eugenics law, under which the board operated for a number of years, was attacked in the courts a year ago and was held to be unconstitutional by Judges G. C. Blagden and J. C. Williams. Appeal then was taken to the supreme court, with the result that the decision of the lower court was affirmed.

Revision of the present motor vehicle license laws, based on the age of cars, as well as their weight and size, also probably will receive the attention of the legislature. Motor vehicle owners are not satisfied with the present license laws, it was said, and have demanded that the age of cars be taken into consideration by officials. At the present time no allowance is made for old cars, which are compelled to pay a state license equal to those fresh from the shops.

Training School Site Sought. The legislature also probably will be asked to provide an appropriation with which to purchase a site for the proposed new state training school for boys. Money for the erection of this plant has been made available by the legislature at the 1921 session, but because of objections to the tentative site selected by the board of control, actual construction work was postponed. Officials said that approximately 300 acres of land will be required for this institution. The plant will cost approximately $250,000 and will be erected under the cottage system. Most of the proposed new laws to be sought by state institutions will relate to the handling of their charges.

GIRL ATTACKED BY MAN

Centralia Resident Found Lying in Street Unconscious.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—While driving along Centralia avenue Thursday night, with his family Walter Conrad found Miss Anna Frank, aged 18, lying in the street, unconscious and a handkerchief tied about her neck. When revived, the young woman stated that she was on her way home after calling on a friend and a man stopped her from behind, and grabbed her. That was all she could remember. A bad bruise over the eye indicated that she had been struck. The only description Miss Frank was able to give of her assailant was that he was roughly dressed.

PRUNE PRICES NOT FIXED

Crop in Northwest District Estimated at 70,000,000 Pounds.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—Prices for the 1922 prunes have not yet been announced, and sellers, dealers and consumers are speculating with relation to the probable market. Estimates have placed the 1922 dried prune crop in the northwest district at 70,000,000 pounds, while California will have 200,000,000 pounds of the product.

Officials of the several local prune organizations said the prices for the 1922 crop probably will be announced within the next few days. Until these prices are announced growers will not be in a position to place any value on their crops.

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN JOIN IN SCRAMBLE—SOME LOSE HATS OR GET MUSED UP.

A shower of money from the skies created a riot of fun at Columbia beach yesterday when hundreds of pennies, both young and old, were in the scramble for the envelopes as they were cast from the window of the dance hall onto the beach.

For more than half an hour the air was filled with the sound of children, flanked by men and women, swept to and fro in the effort to get under the wind-carried money. Among the little ones there were several casualties in the way of ruined tempers, but nothing more serious.

A few of the men lost hats and were a bit mused up, but the soft sand made the tussle both safe and amusing.

Bathing attracted a large number. It being estimated that 1500 took to the water during the afternoon. Two more tickets to Seaside were awarded to pretty girls who were picked by a committee.

During the day picnic parties flocked to the resort, where every amusement feature was operating and where the dancing and skating drew large numbers of merry-makers. Much of the popularity of the new amusement was said to be due to the Tom Curtis orchestra.

As the season at the beach is drawing to a close, the management is making several momentous decisions for the few Sundays that remain. It is probable that one of them will include the transfer of a man from a speed boat to an airplane.

OAKS GROWING IS LARGE

AIRMAN PROVIDES THRILL BY TRIPLE LEAP.

Park Is Crowded With Amusement Seekers Who Keep Concessions Busy.

Almost the record crowd of the season surprised the Oaks yesterday evening. In quest of entertainment.

Prof. J. Le Strange, intrepid master of the air, gave an exhibition in the clouds from his huge balloon. Ascending to a great height he jumped into space three times with three parachutes always opening at the last moment. With a strong northwest wind blowing he was carried onto the Sellwood golf links, where he landed at the nineteenth hole, gently as a feather. He will appear again next Wednesday afternoon as the feature attraction for Children's day.

Old and young found the resort ready to their bidding. All the rides and concessions worked constantly to keep the crowd amused. Skating and swimming proved popular and the laughing galleries replete with hilarity. Numerous parties came early and stayed late, so refreshing was the spirit of the smart river breeze.

The Oaks certainly lived up to its slogan, "Everybody's playground."

HUNT FOR BOTCH SLAYER AVAILS NOTHING.

Police Think Wounded Bandit Either Will Die or Be Forced to Seek Medical Aid.

Conflicting reports, a score of baseless rumors, clues that turned out to be no clues, were investigated by police detectives in the hunt for the pair of robbers who shot and killed Marco Botch and wounded George Steiff in a holdup of the latter's soft drink establishment at Fifteenth and Savier streets, early Saturday morning.

No progress in the hunt has been reported by the half dozen detectives who have been assigned to the case, though the belief exists in police circles that the bandit will either die or be forced to seek medical aid is the opinion of the officers.

The report that a wounded man was seen near Carson, Wash., was thoroughly investigated. No definite information on which to base a further hunt for the outlaws was obtained.

Steiff, who was wounded three times in the course of the fight, is reported to be improving at St. Vincent's hospital.

A formal inquest into the cause of Botch's death will be conducted to-day by the coroner at 8:30 o'clock by Coroner Earl Smith.

MAN "BURIED" 11 YEARS

EX-YALE STUDENT HEARS FIRST WORD OF WAR.

PRISONER IN GERMANY SUBJECT TO SUCH BRUTALITY HE IS ABSOLUTE HUMAN WRECK.

(BY FLOYD GIBBONS.) (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service, Copyright, 1922, by the Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Aug. 20.—John Gurchinson, ex-Yale student, who has been buried from the world for 11 years in a German prison at Heidelberg, has arrived in Paris, an absolute human wreck. The American Aid society in Paris has placed him in a private nursing home in the suburbs, but he is in such a nervous condition that he attempted suicide twice in several days. American physicians pronounce him sane, but his terrible memories prevent him from sleeping. He acts like a man with delirium tremens and his memory is almost gone.

Mr. Gurchinson was raised in a founding home in New York, whose address is not known, but he worked his way through a year at Yale and won a scholarship in Heidelberg. Soon after arriving at Heidelberg he killed a German student in a duel and was sentenced to five years in prison. Six years were added to his sentence for attempting to escape. Apparently "no friends attended to obtain his release."

Mr. Gurchinson did not know anything about the world war until released and can scarcely grasp the fact that he is now in a concentration camp for 11 years and his body is full of scars inflicted by the wardens. His age is given as 29 years. He was in the German embassy, in attempting, through the German embassy, to clear up the case.

MAN SCALDS SICK WIFE

Woman Probably Will Die From Effects of Brutality.

(By Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.) JAMAICA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Charged with pouring hot water over his wife, Chester Blaszkiewicz, 38, of Dunton, Queens, was arraigned in court yesterday. He held court by bail by Magistrate Miller. His wife is in St. Mary's hospital, and as pneumonia has developed, surgeons say there is little hope for her recovery. According to the police, Blaszkiewicz, when he returned home last Monday evening, was incensed because dinner was not ready. His wife, the mother of his three small children, was in bed suffering from neuralgia, and the police allege that the man grabbed a kettle of hot water and poured it over her body. No complaint was made to the police at the time.

Mrs. Blaszkiewicz was taken to the hospital. The next day the husband appeared, said he had an automobile outside and asked to be allowed to take her home. After much persuasion the wife consented but there was no car and she walked a mile to her home, the police say. Her condition was such yesterday that the police were notified by neighbors and the woman again was removed to the hospital and Blaszkiewicz was arrested.

SUICIDE THREAT IS OLD

Scion of Boston Family Did Same Thing Before, Is Declaration.

(By Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.) BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Six months ago Winnow Cole, scion of a prominent Boston family, who disappeared last week because his life for a titan-haired show girl was spurned, threatened to take his life if Miss Maude Lydiate, dancer in "Love and Kisses," would play at a local theater, cast him aside for someone else, it was learned today. Not even his best friends know his whereabouts.

"I pray to God he has not killed himself," said Miss Lydiate tonight. "But I don't think he is as foolish as all that. I think he has realized how stupid was his suicide threat and that he has simply disappeared and will stay under cover until this has blown over."

INFATUATION OF MUSICIAN LEADS TO DEATH OF TWO.

Pretty Actress Takes Poison and German Musician, Hearing News, Asphyxiates Self.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A strange story of an elderly German musician's infatuation for a youthful protegee that led both the master and the girl to suicide, was unfolded today by the wife of Louis Koemenich, a noted composer and conductor. A week ago, Vera Lehmann, a young actress, known on the stage as Vera d'Arlette, was taken to Flower hospital suffering from poisoning. She died last Monday morning.

Twelve hours later the body of Koemenich, clad in silk pajamas, was found. The gas coxks of a stove were turned on. Koemenich had been asphyxiated. At his side was found an unsigned note.

"Just received word that Vera committed suicide. This being a great loss to me, there is nothing else left for me to do."

Koemenich was 55 years old, had been married 28 years and was the father of a son and two daughters, one of them married. Koemenich's heart was with Germany and when it was over he was broken in fortune. A year later he started out as musical director of a road company of "Aphrodite."

LAST CALAPOOIA BURIED

FUNERAL FOR AUNT ELIZA HELD AT BROWNSVILLE.

Squaw, Believed by Some to Have Been About 100 Years Old, Is Laid to Rest.

BROWNSVILLE, Or., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—Funeral services for Aunt Eliza, last of the Calapoopia Indians, were held today from the Starr undertaking chapel, with Rev. W. P. Elmoro officiating. She died Friday night at the home of Johnny Moore in this city. Some people estimate her age to have been in the neighborhood of 100 years. She had been blind for many years and dependent upon the county for support. She was interred in the Masonic cemetery by the side of her two children, Susan Indian and L. E. Indian.

Eliza's father was a full-blooded Calapoopia brave, living on the Calapoopia river in the upper valley. He wandered south into Linn county, where he found his bride, and it was there that Eliza was born. Her parents died when she was a small child and was for a time virtually a slave in the camps of another people. She ran away and was taken in and cared for by Jacob Spores and his wife at what is now Coburg. Eliza, in search of her father's people, ran away from Spores' ferry to Brownsville. She was just entering the womanhood when the Blakely-Brown-Kirk emigrant train arrived at the old ford on the Calapoopia. It was understood that she was aged at that very early day by the Kirk family.

But she slipped away and went into the southland again and there was married to a Mohawk brave. This man drank incessantly and beat Eliza unmercifully. She frequently ran away. At length Calapoopia Jim with the assistance of Riley Kirk bought Eliza. Jim had been raised by Kirk since the former was 12 years of age.

Calapoopia Jim later was killed in a brawl. Eliza supported herself as long as she could by making baskets, but eventually went blind. The county then placed her in a good home, where she was at the time of her death.

Four national officers of the women's auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, elected at the convention just closed in Seattle, were entertained, together with their party, by members of the women's auxiliary of World War Post of Portland in the city yesterday. The officials and delegates were en route home from the Seattle gathering.

National officers who were entertained here included: Mrs. C. A. Raffensperger of Harrisburg, Pa., new treasurer; Mrs. George Armstrong of Pittsburg, Pa., secretary; Miss Margaret Hall of Pittsburg, color guard; and Mrs. Eugene Rich-

About 40 other delegates from various eastern cities were on the same train. The visiting officials were met at the train by members of the local committee of Veterans of Foreign Wars, headed by Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. Winifred Reig, president of the auxiliary of World War post, and were taken on a drive about the city. Later dinner was served at the Portland hotel.

She hired a Laundress—but did most of the work, herself---

With a whole string of recommendations, came the Laundress—ready for work Monday morning.

"I'll just rest today," mused the Housewife.

But, by the time the Housewife had shown the Laundress where the wash trays and other equipment were, supplied soap and starch, collected missing clothes pins and sent to the store for more bluing, she had taken many steps. Then a hurriedly prepared lunch—the Laundress served—and sent back to her laundering.

The weary Housewife had just started to eat when there came a frantic cry from the basement that the bluing was streaking the clothes "something awful." She hurried down. One glance at the once-white clothes was sufficient.

Evening came. A tired woman counted the cost—the Laundress' wages, lunch, soap, bluing, starch, gas—certainly a surprising total—more than the Modern Laundry charges for white, perfectly laundered clothes, without the annoyance of having the work done at home, where constant supervision is necessary.

"I'll send it to the Laundry next time," she said.
