BEAUTY CHOICE IS NEAR

JUDGES MAY REACH VERDICT BY TONIGHT.

Names Are Disregarded and Attitude of Fairness Toward All Candidates Is Impressive.

What may be, and is hoped will be, the final and decisive meeting of the five judges of The Oregonian beauty contest will be held today. They will consider with the utmost care the entries and will make every effort to arrive at a verdict. It is expected that the beauty crown of Oregon will be awarded before nightfall.

Entire fairness has been the dominant aim of the judges throughout their work. In all cases they have done their judging entirely without reference to names of candidates, so that there could be no possible charge of prejudice or bias. The judges are so entirely fair that they needed no instructions on this point; it was their own natural inclination to disregard the coupons marked with the names of entries, pasted upon the back of the photographs, and they concerned themselves only with the pictures themselves.

The judges have, in fact, gone into their work with such a detached viewpoint that they at once establish the highest confidence in the mind of every contestant, and it is believed that when the one girl shall have been chosen from among so many all the others, knowing of the utter fairness in judging, will forget whatever personal disappointment may be felt and be convinced that the best choice of a fair beauty was made.

ANNEX PLANS DRAWN

Work for Washington Masonic Lodge to Start Soon.

That excavation work for the new $75,000 annex, to be built for the Washington Masonic lodge adjoining the present structure on East Eighth and Burnside streets, will be started this month was the hope expressed yesterday by members of the building association. Plans for the new building have been drawn and approved by the members of the lodge and construction work is pending the arrangements of a few minor details.

The cornerstone ceremony probably will be held in October, for it is not planned to lay the stone until the execavation work has been completed and the foundation and basement walls constructed. When completed the Washington lodge will have one of the finest exclusive lodge buildings in the city, for it is planned eventually to equip a modern gymnasium in addition to the fine club-room facilities and the auditorium and ballroom which are included in the specifications.

Letters to Joe No. 1

What a wife writes her husband, when she is visiting the city.

We got here all right. This morning the air was like winter, but the house as cozy as could be. I asked Mary: Is the Gasco furnace going? No, she said, it was. Well, who shut it off, I asked, as she hadn't been out of the room. Why, that thermostat on the wall. Now what do you know about that!

When we sell the ranch, Joe, and move to Portland, we must sure get a Gasco. It's almost human; I never saw the like. And Mary says it costs no more to run than coal. . . .

Catholic Citizenship

ARTICLE 10.

So many calumnies against the citizenship of Catholics are directed at our attitude on Christian education, that a statement of principles will doubtless be welcomed by fair-minded non-Catholic brethren. Our "Creed" or position on this subject may be set forth in what, with due reverence and respect, may be styled the ten precepts of which we expect to treat in subsequent articles of this series.

OUR DECALOGUE ON EDUCATION

FIRST PRECEPT
Let There Be Universal Education

so that every child born or reared in the United States may have an opportunity to acquire elementary training. Hence, free, open-to-the-public schools must be made available everywhere.

SECOND PRECEPT
Let There Be Compulsory Education

so that neither the poverty, nor the ignorance, nor the indifference of parents can halt our war upon illiteracy. Oregon, like most states, already has such a law upon the statute books, and it is being enforced everywhere. No new legislation is therefore necessary.

THIRD PRECEPT
Let a Uniform Language (English) Be Used

that in this "melting pot" of Americanism innumerable races and nations may be molded into one. In some parochial schools in Portland the children of a dozen nationalities mingle freely together, speaking a common tongue, imbibing a common patriotism.

FOURTH PRECEPT
Let Our Text Book of Patriotism Be Truly American

That is, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and of Oregon, which text book the wordy sophisms of klans, rites and bigots would mutilate beyond recognition.

FIFTH PRECEPT
Let There Be State Supervision of Educational Standards

not, however, dictation as to what shall be the color of every schoolhouse, the garb or dress of every teacher, the religion of every instructor.

SIXTH PRECEPT
Let Our Schools Aid Mightily in "the Perpetuation of Our Free Institutions"

the first of these being religious liberty and protection of inalienable rights, which our free institutions are supposed to safeguard rather than destroy. But klans, rites, bigots, who simulate such anxiety about our "free institutions," would "save" them by destroying them.

SEVENTH PRECEPT
Let No Religion Be Forced Upon Children Whose Parents Object

We must give to others what we demand for ourselves—liberty of conscience. In this respect Christian, Jew, Mohammedan, Buddhist, Atheist are all equal. Neutral or public schools must be kept neutral in matters of religion.

EIGHTH PRECEPT
Let Parental Rights Be Kept Inviolate

"State ownership" of children may meet approbation in Soviet Russia, but will Oregon adopt this principle, contrary to the laws of every civilized nation that pretends to be free?

NINTH PRECEPT
Let Our Democracy Be True and Real, Not False and Delusive

Because schools are supported by "general taxation," does not endow them with a peculiar sanctity, which others EQUALLY GOOD do not possess. State monopoly in education was the strong point of Prussianism; like all monopolies, it leads to abuses. Healthy competition stimulates effort and perfects both systems.

TENTH PRECEPT
"Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me and Forbid Them Not." (Mark 10:14)

Shall the teachings of the decalogue and the golden rule to children in private schools be considered a crime in Oregon? Religious morality is an asset to good citizenship. But teaching it daily to children would be subject to fine and imprisonment did the pernicious Anti-Religious, Anti-Private School bill now pending, become a law.

The above may be considered the platform, statement of principles of Catholics and others upholding the rights of private and denominational schools. Truth-loving non-Catholics will instinctively recognize its accuracy and justice. Above "decalogue" will be studied in detail in subsequent articles, the next one of the series to appear in this paper Monday, August 28.
