

SULLIVAN THINKS BONUS FACES SNAG

Opposition to Bill Now Said to Have Increased.

HARDING VETO EXPECTED

House Will Override President, but Senate Will Not, It is Presumed

BY MARK SULLIVAN. (Copyright by the Evening Post, Inc. Published by Arrangement.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—It is undeniable that when the bonus bill comes to a vote in the senate it will pass. But it is equally undeniable that the current is running strongly against the bonus.

JAZZ MUSIC MAKES HIT

NEGRO ORCHESTRA WIDELY APPLAUDED

Radio Fans in City and Surrounding Towns Ask for Favorite Numbers.

The second concert of jazz music played by the High Brown Five, negro orchestra, last night in the Oregonian radio room and broadcast to thousands of delighted listeners.

Veto Taken for Granted.

That the president will veto is universally taken for granted. The subject of discussion now is just what will be the nature of his veto message. If he vetoes the bill on the broad grounds that the whole bonus idea is fundamentally unsound, the question may be out of the way permanently.

Rest of Ticket Uncertain.

The situation with regard to the remainder of the ticket is not so certain. There is a contest over the lieutenant governorship, with Will H. Gibson of Mountain Home, H. C. Baldridge of Parma and Donald A. Callahan of Wallace as the leading aspirants.

Women Are Mentioned.

It is forecast that Dan Banks, state treasurer, is opposed so far, will be nominated to succeed himself, and that E. G. Gallett, present state auditor, also is being renominated.

200 ACRES GIVEN CITY

County Agrees to Turn Over Poor Farm for Park.

Further evidence of co-operation between the county and city is shown by the fact that the county commissioners, school board and city council officials yesterday agreed to turn the 200-acre tract known as the county poor farm over to the city as a park, and the city, in return, will give the county a portion of the property to be used for educational purposes.

BONUS TALK WILL GO ON

Handful of Solons Block Unanimous Agreement to Vote.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—Senate republican leaders continued negotiations today for an unanimous consent to agreement for final senate vote on the soldiers' bonus bill, but apparently with little prospect of immediate success.
